Frankfurter Retiring From High Tribunal

Kennedy Praises Ailing Justice, 79, Labor Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy announced Wednesday that ailing Justice Felix Frankfurter is retiring from the Supreme Court and will be replaced by Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg.

Opening his news conference with the announcement, the President praised both men—Frankfurter as having made great impact on the law, Goldberg as "superbly qualified" to succeed him.

"We shall miss him," Kennedy said of the 79-year-old Frankfurter, who is recovering from a stroke at his home here.

The President said he received Frankfurter's letter of resignation Tuesday and wrote an acceptance letter Tuesday night, deciding at the same time to name Goldberg for the bench vacancy.

Kennedy's choice drew immediate warm praise from members of both parties on Capitol Hill.

Humphrey, Dirksen Approve

Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, terming Goldberg "a man of reason and common sense," predicted prompt Senate approval of the appointment.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, a member of the Judiciary Committee which will handle the nomination, said: "I think he will make a splendid justice. Everyone knows of his highly studious quality and that he is a top-flight lawyer. He has the appropriate temperament for the bench and I am sure that notwithstanding his long identity with labor, he will be thoroughly impartial."

Because of his long career as a labor union counsel, Goldberg might well be expected to join the court's liberal wing — although it is difficult to forecast the future philosophy of a new appointee.

But even if Goldberg's vote becomes a question mark in close decisions, the effect of his presence would be in the liberal group's favor.

Frankfurter Chosen By FDR

Frankfurter ended his career as the court's leading conservative, although selected in the new deal days by President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In his letter to Kennedy, Frankfurter said that while his physical condition has improved and he had hoped to continue on the court "I am ... left with no choice but to regard my period of active service ... as having run its course."

There was no immediate word as to who will succeed Goldberg in the labor post he has held since the Kennedy administration took office. But Undersecretary W. Willard Wirtz presumably will head the department until a choice is made, and some observers believe he may get the post. Wirtz is a former Chicago attorney and arbitrator.

Others entering into speculation as Goldberg's replacement were Solicitor General Archibald Cox and Frank McCulloch, chairman of the National Labor Relations Board.

6,000 Babies Deformed

LONDON (UPI) — The Daily Mirror reported Wednesday that figures show 6,000 deformed infants have been born throughout the world to women who took the tranquilizer thalidomide. The number of deformed infants born in England was about 300, the report said. It did not list figures from other nations.

House OKs Works Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—By voice vote, the House passed Wednesday a key part of President Kennedy's economic program, a $900-million emergency public works bill.

Democrats made a major concession to keep wavering votes in line by eliminating a provision to set up a new federal agency to coordinate all public works. Republicans had called the administrator of that proposed agency a "pork barrel czar."

But the bill still had heavy opposition from Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats, who denounced it as an unneeded boondoggle.

The bill is aimed at cutting down unemployment by an immediate program of public works such as streets, sewers, public buildings and the like. Schools are excluded.

Most states and localities would have to provide matching funds of at least 50 per cent.

"Alma" Whisks Toward Canada

BOSTON (UPI)—Alma swished her skirts across New England Wednesday and then strolled up the coast toward Canada.

The first tropical lady to blow out of the south this year dropped more than three inches of rain on sections and flung gale force winds at coastal outposts.

But reports of damage were few.

The storm entered the hurricane class for a few hours Tuesday night when her winds reached 75 miles an hour. But she lost her pep before arriving at the jutting New England coast.

Authorities blamed one Massachusetts death on Alma. Miss Helen L. Young, 75, of Haverhill was struck by a truck in Haverhill when her umbrella blocked her vision as she crossed the street. The truck was unable to stop on the rain-slicked pavement.

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A two-week search by President Jose M. Guido for a new defense minister ended Wednesday with the announcement that Adolph Lanus, a veteran newspaperman, has accepted the post.

Soviet Suggests A-Test Cutoff By End Of Year

GENEVA (UPI) — The Soviet Union suggested Wednesday that all nuclear powers end test explosions at the end of the year, a date that probably would give Russia time to complete its current Arctic series.

But the Western powers rejected this suggestion for a new, uncontrolled moratorium on tests and berated the Soviet for too hastily rejecting the latest British-American effort to break the deadlock on a test ban treaty.

In Washington President Kennedy welcomed Russia's goal for an end to nuclear testing by Jan. 1 but said the United States still insists on effective controls. "Gentleman's agreements" and "moratoriums" do not give adequate assurance against secret tests, the President said.

Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov told the 17-nation Disarmament Conference the Soviet is willing to accept a cut-off of all tests "around Nov. 1." It may have been a slip of the tongue for Kuznetsov said later he had not mentioned Nov. 1 and had been referring to a Mexican suggestion that Jan. 1, 1963 be set as a cut-off date.

However, Russian - speaking Western delegates understood Kuznetsov to say Nov. 1 and this was the translation given by U.N. interpreters staffing the conference.

U. S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle and British Minister of State Joseph B. Godber told Kuznetsov Russia's rejection of new Western proposals made Monday could not be regarded as final.

Under those proposals, authorized by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, the Western powers offered Russia alternative test ban treaties. They expressed their preference for a total ban on nuclear tests under ironclad control and inspection systems. But they offered alternately a treaty calling for an uninspected ban on blasts in space, the atmosphere or under water, leaving the question of underground tests and their control open for further discussion.

Farmers' Withholding Campaign Seen Failing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts of the National Farmers Organization to force higher prices by holding livestock and grain off the markets met with expressions of sympathy in government farm circles, but little success was foreseen.

Aides said Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman felt the goal of the NFO to obtain higher prices was in line with that of the Kennedy administration. But they said the history of voluntary efforts among farmers to improve their lot showed little accomplishment.

The administration is taking the position that stability in farm prices and supplies can be obtained successfully only through grower-approved government control measures imposing penalties on noncompliers.

It was believed here that an insufficient number of farmers would join the NFO withholding effort to force processors to sign contracts for the purchase of crops and livestock at designated prices.

Nevertheless, NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., said the members intend to stick by the withholding effort scheduled to start Saturday.

"Whatever length of time it takes to win this battle, we will do it," he told his organization's convention at Des Moines, Iowa. "We mean to win. This is a battle for survival of family-type agriculture."

An Agriculture Department official said Wednesday one trouble with a voluntary movement of this kind is that some farmers will take advantage of the situation by moving products to market while others are holding them back.

Ben Bella Forces Battle Guerrillas

Score Reported Killed, Wounded In Algiers Clash

ALGIERS (AP) — Backers of Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella battled mutinous guerrillas Wednesday. Unofficial reports said 20 persons were killed or wounded in an hour-long fight in Algiers.

"People are falling like olives!" shouted Moslems fleeing in panic as gun fire and grenade explosions sounded through the narrow, smelly streets of the Casbah.

It was the first violent clash between guerrillas of Wilaya (Zone) 4 holding Algiers and supporters of Ben Bella's Political Bureau, an agency the guerrillas despise. It cast a shadow of fear on the capital, still groggy from more than seven years of war and terrorism.

Ben Bella Troops On Way

From western Algeria came reports that regular army troops, supporters of Ben Bella, were moving eastward toward the capital. These advices said the regulars included armored units.

From the Moorish-style summer palace overlooking the city, Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, still the new nation's titular premier, appealed to the population for calm.

Police Chief Amar Mohammedi imposed an 8 p.m. curfew.

Shooting swept from the upper to the lower Casbah when guerrilla troops moved in to arrest some of Ben Bella's supporters.

Concentrated gun fire hammered down on the khaki-clad guerrillas from the rooftops and windows.

Guerrillas Fire At Cars

In the confusion, guerrillas guarding public buildings opened up with their weapons, firing in the air and at passing automobiles.

The guerrillas finally pulled out of the Casbah. It was left in control of armed followers of Ben Bella led by a former terrorist chief, Yacef Saadi.

Because of the opposition of the local guerrillas, Ben Bella's Political Bureau gave up its attempt to function in the capital last week and withdrew to Oran.

House Puts Off Aid Showdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House leaders put off for three weeks Wednesday a showdown vote on President Kennedy's $4.7 billion foreign aid money bill. The postponement heightened belief that the aid program faces its strongest attack in years.

Delay on a vote until Sept. 19 was announced to the House by Chairman Otto E. Passman, D-La., chairman of the House Foreign Aid Appropriations Subcommittee and a longtime foe of the program.

Passman, who appears confident he can push through an aid cut as he did last year, emphasized that he was not responsible for the delay.

The bill apparently could have been ready for a vote next week. But Passman said House leaders decided on a Sept. 19 vote because of two primary elections next week and "other considerations."

One of the primary elections is in New York, whose congressional delegation includes many aid supporters. House leaders count heavily on New York support in shoving the aid bill through. The other state with a primary is Nevada.

Trio Indicted In Rice Allotment Conspiracy

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — A federal grand jury Wednesday indicted two former Agriculture Department officials and another man on 35 charges of bribery and conspiracy in connection with fraudulent transfer of Texas rice acreage allotments.

The jury indicted David C. Stephens of Angleton, Tex., a former Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASC) office manager for Brazoria County; Tacitus C. Thornhill, Chappell Hill, Tex., former ASC manager in Waller County, and Laurence G. Newman of Lake Jackson, Tex., a chemical plant worker.

British Common Market Efforts In New Tangle

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan returned from a hunting vacation Wednesday night to a new tangle threatening further complication of Britain's negotiations to join the European Common Market.

Like other members of the Cabinet, Macmillan was reported dismayed over statements by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, which were interpreted here as a misunderstanding of the British attitude toward European political union.

In a television interview broadcast Tuesday night, Adenauer quoted Macmillan as telling Parliament that Britain's entry into the market would not necessarily mean her accepting political union with its present six members. But Adenauer claimed that Macmillan in a personal letter to him a few days later reversed himself.

The British view is that Adenauer, while acting in good faith, quoted Macmillan incompletely and misleadingly.

In an unprecedented move, the British made public part of Macmillan's letter to the chancellor with an accompanying statement insisting there was no conflict between the prime minister's letter and what he had told the House of Commons.

A Foreign Office spokesman reaffirmed Britain's attitude toward political union with the six—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The attitude was that she welcomed their efforts to reach closer union and would join in playing her part in them if and when the Brussels negotiations for Britain's entry into the market are successful.

The spokesman said Britain was seeking full membership in the market and was not interested in associate membership.

$1½ Million Libel Suit Filed By Rail Unions

NEW YORK (AP) — Three railroad operating brotherhoods Wednesday filed a $1.5 million libel suit against the Association of American Railroads.

The unions contended in the State Supreme Court suit that they had been accused falsely of "featherbedding" and violating the Federal Antiracketeering Act which prohibits unions from extracting money for work not needed or performed.

The suit was filed by the Brotherhood of Locomotives Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

California's "Twin" Forest Fires Halted

Shifting Winds Assist 2,000 Fighters

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A massive force of 2,000 men got a dramatic assist from shifting winds and late Wednesday halted two multi-million-dollar "twin" brush fires that routed hundreds from their homes and threatened heavily populated areas.

Keith Klinger, Los Angeles County fire chief, said the disastrous Newhall - Placerita Canyon fire that Tuesday burned the Gene Autry ranch and forced evacuation of the Olive View Sanitorium was 80 per cent contained by 7 p.m. EDT. He said the Castaic-Hasley Canyon fire 180 miles to the northwest was 60 per cent contained.

Combined, the two fires destroyed 16,500 acres of valuable watershed, an estimated 20-30 structures, and at one time threatened to join in a massive front some 25 miles north of this city. But the fires were halted two apart.

No further danger existed Wednesday night to populated areas, said Klinger, but he stressed the capricious nature of winds that Tuesday drove the fire southeasterly toward the northern fringe of the San Fernando Valley.

It was the sudden shift in winds shortly afternoon, blowing smoke and flames back into the burned out areas, that greatly assisted the firefighting force.

Klinger stressed the weather was "fair" at best, and the wind conditions varied. Some hot spots still existed, and full containment of the fires was not predicted until 8 p.m. Thursday.

The fires were among dozens that blackened some 40,000 acres in California. One Tuesday night burned within 10 miles of Vandenberg Air Force Base, and more than a dozen others flared in Southern California.

JFK Defeated On Tax Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted Wednesday night to strip from the tax revision bill President Kennedy's plan for a withholding system on dividend and interest income.

The 66-20 vote adopted a recommendation of the Finance Committee that the House-approved but highly controversial withholding proposal be eliminated.

The test settled a second major floor dispute on the legislation within a few hours.

Earlier in the day, the Senate revised the expense account provision in the bill by agreeing to continue deductions on taxes for goodwill entertainment so long as a business purpose is served.

The President's defeat on the withholding issue long had been discounted in advance by administration leaders in the Senate.

Kennedy had urged the dividend and interest income tax collection plan as the main new revenue feature of the bill to help pay for the business investment credit designed as an incentive to purchase the latest machinery and equipment.

Poet Frost And Interior Secretary In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Stewart L. Udall, U.S. secretary of the interior, and Robert Frost, poet, landed in Moscow on Wednesday, one to study Soviet dams, the other to read poetry.

The two walked down the ramp of the plane, Udall helping Frost who was somewhat tired by the flight, a long one for a man of 88 years.

Frost sat in the waiting room with two Soviet poets, who came to meet him, Yevgheny Evtushenko and Alexander Tvardovsky.

He made them roar with laughter once with his comments about poetry and countries, but got neither one of them to utter a word.

Udall led a 15-member delegation to study power dams and electrical construction. A similar one was here two years ago, and Soviet groups in turn have toured power installations of the United States.

The U.S. delegation will remain until Sept. 8.

Frost said he would stay until Sept. 9, visiting poets in Moscow and Leningrad.

Asked why his stay was so short, Frost said: "You might get tired of me."

Frost, obviously tired, went straight to a seat and the two poets sat near him. Tvardovsky, 52, will visit the United States in October, an exchange under the cultural program for Frost. He is best known for a long humorous poem, "Vasily Tyorkin,"—about a private in World War II.

Evtushenko became internationally known for his poem "Babi Yar," about a site near Kiev where hundreds of Jews were killed and burned during the war.

Insists Pact Must Include Safeguards

Kennedy Welcomes Soviet Cutoff Bid; West Big 4 To Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy said Wednesday he is willing to try to reach agreement with Russia to end nuclear testing by Jan. 1 but only if the Soviets sign a definite agreement with reasonable and adequate safeguards.

He told his news conference that while he welcomed the new Soviet bid for a test cut-off at the end of this year, the United States could not rely on "gentlemen's agreements" with the Russians.

"The United States cannot be a party to any renewal of false hopes which the Soviet government shattered last September," the President said.

This was a blunt reference to the fact that Russia broke the last nuclear test moratorium with a series of atmospheric blasts last fall that disrupted atomic treaty talks in Geneva.

The President said the cut-off test deadline, informally suggested by the Soviet delegate to the Geneva talks earlier in the day, was "a reasonable target date"—but only if the Russians show some signs of accepting one of two treaty proposals offered by the United States. The proposals stress the need for safeguards to detect underground explosions.

"No Time To Lose"

Kennedy emphasized that the Senate must ratify any treaty and "we therefore have no time to lose."

The President also announced that the United States, West Germany, Britain and France have agreed to hold a "Big Four" foreign ministers meeting before the U.N. General Assembly session begins in New York Sept. 14.

The said details have not yet been set but the four governments have agreed in principle on the conference to discuss ways of easing East-West tensions over such trouble spots as Berlin.

The President also was questioned about the accelerated movement of Soviet "technicians" and Russian military supplies to Cuba in recent weeks.

He said it would be a mistake for the United States to invade Cuba on these grounds and reported this country still has no evidence that Russian "troops" are entering the Castro-controlled island.

He acknowledged that the Russians being sent to Havana "may be military technicians" but were not "troops" in the general sense of the word.

Forecasts Downward Trend

In his statement on test negotiations at the outset of the conference, the President said that if the Kremlin would accept a "serious and formal agreement" based on either of the two U.S. proposals, "a real downward turn in the arms race is possible."

"But I must point out again," he said, "that in order to end testing, we must have workable international agreements. Gentle-

Disaster Hits Cameron Again

CAMERON, La. (UPI)—Forging over flooded roads through wind and lashing rain, rescue teams brought aid Wednesday to the weather-plagued town of Cameron smashed by a killer tornado and storm.

For the second time in five years, residents of the Gulf Coast community counted dead and injured from the weather.

Police reported at least two persons were killed in the twister that struck without warning out of lightning-filled skies Tuesday night. The sheriff's office said another person may have been killed Earlier estimates ranged as high as four dead.

At least 39 persons were injured and required treatment. Scores more suffered minor injuries. The Weather Bureau forecast scattered thundershowers.

In 1957, Cameron was shattered by Hurricane Audrey. Some 500 residents were killed. Last September, Hurricane Carla forced evacuation of the area in low-lying Calcasieu Parish (county).

The Red Cross at Atlanta dispatched a medical-nursing disaster squad of six persons to Cameron.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A massive force of 2,000 men got a dramatic assist from shifting winds and late Wednesday halted two multi-million-dollar "twin" brush fires that routed hundreds from their homes and threatened heavily populated areas.

Keith Klinger, Los Angeles County fire chief, said the disastrous Newhall-Placerita Canyon fire that Tuesday burned the Gene Autry ranch and forced evacuation of the Olive View Sanitorium was 80 per cent contained by 7 p.m. EDT. He said the Castaic-Hasley Canyon fire 180 miles to the northwest was 60 per cent contained.

Combined, the two fires destroyed 16,500 acres of valuable watershed, an estimated 20-30 structures, and at one time threatened to join in a massive front some 25 miles north of this city. But the fires were halted two apart.

No further danger existed Wednesday night to populated areas, said Klinger, but he stressed the capricious nature of winds that Tuesday drove the fire southeasterly toward the northern fringe of the San Fernando Valley.

It was the sudden shift in winds shortly afternoon, blowing smoke and flames back into the burned out areas, that greatly assisted the firefighting force.

Klinger stressed the weather was "fair" at best, and the wind conditions varied. Some hot spots still existed, and full containment of the fires was not predicted until 8 p.m. Thursday.

The fires were among dozens that blackened some 40,000 acres in California. One Tuesday night burned within 10 miles of Vandenberg Air Force Base, and more than a dozen others flared in Southern California.

JFK Defeated On Tax Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted Wednesday night to strip from the tax revision bill President Kennedy's plan for a withholding system on dividend and interest income.

The 66-20 vote adopted a recommendation of the Finance Committee that the House-approved but highly controversial withholding proposal be eliminated.

The test settled a second major floor dispute on the legislation within a few hours.

Earlier in the day, the Senate revised the expense account provision in the bill by agreeing to continue deductions on taxes for goodwill entertainment so long as a business purpose is served.

The President's defeat on the withholding issue long had been discounted in advance by administration leaders in the Senate.

Kennedy had urged the dividend and interest income tax collection plan as the main new revenue feature of the bill to help pay for the business investment credit designed as an incentive to purchase the latest machinery and equipment.

Kennedy Welcomes Soviet Cutoff Bid; West Big 4 To Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy said Wednesday he is willing to try to reach agreement with Russia to end nuclear testing by Jan. 1 but only if the Soviets sign a definite agreement with reasonable and adequate safeguards.

He told his news conference that while he welcomed the new Soviet bid for a test cut-off at the end of this year, the United States could not rely on "gentlemen's agreements" with the Russians.

"The United States cannot be a party to any renewal of false hopes which the Soviet government shattered last September," the President said.

This was a blunt reference to the fact that Russia broke the last nuclear test moratorium with a series of atmospheric blasts last fall that disrupted atomic treaty talks in Geneva.

The President said the cut-off test deadline, informally suggested by the Soviet delegate to the Geneva talks earlier in the day, was "a reasonable target date"—but only if the Russians show some signs of accepting one of two treaty proposals offered by the United States. The proposals stress the need for safeguards to detect underground explosions.

"No Time To Lose"

Kennedy emphasized that the Senate must ratify any treaty and "we therefore have no time to lose."

The President also announced that the United States, West Germany, Britain and France have agreed to hold a "Big Four" foreign ministers meeting before the U.N. General Assembly session begins in New York Sept. 14.

The said details have not yet been set but the four governments have agreed in principle on the conference to discuss ways of easing East-West tensions over such trouble spots as Berlin.

The President also was questioned about the accelerated movement of Soviet "technicians" and Russian military supplies to Cuba in recent weeks.

He said it would be a mistake for the United States to invade Cuba on these grounds and reported this country still has no evidence that Russian "troops" are entering the Castro-controlled island.

He acknowledged that the Russians being sent to Havana "may be military technicians" but were not "troops" in the general sense of the word.

Forecasts Downward Trend

In his statement on test negotiations at the outset of the conference, the President said that if the Kremlin would accept a "serious and formal agreement" based on either of the two U.S. proposals, "a real downward turn in the arms race is possible."

"But I must point out again," he said, "that in order to end testing, we must have workable international agreements. Gentle-

Disaster Hits Cameron Again

CAMERON, La. (UPI)—Forging over flooded roads through wind and lashing rain, rescue teams brought aid Wednesday to the weather-plagued town of Cameron smashed by a killer tornado and storm.

For the second time in five years, residents of the Gulf Coast community counted dead and injured from the weather.

Police reported at least two persons were killed in the twister that struck without warning out of lightning-filled skies Tuesday night. The sheriff's office said another person may have been killed Earlier estimates ranged as high as four dead.

At least 39 persons were injured and required treatment. Scores more suffered minor injuries. The Weather Bureau forecast scattered thundershowers.

In 1957, Cameron was shattered by Hurricane Audrey. Some 500 residents were killed. Last September, Hurricane Carla forced evacuation of the area in low-lying Calcasieu Parish (county).

The Red Cross at Atlanta dispatched a medical-nursing disaster squad of six persons to Cameron.

Farmers' Withholding Campaign Seen Failing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts of the National Farmers Organization to force higher prices by holding livestock and grain off the markets met with expressions of sympathy in government farm circles, but little success was foreseen.

Aides said Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman felt the goal of the NFO to obtain higher prices was in line with that of the Kennedy administration. But they said the history of voluntary efforts among farmers to improve their lot showed little accomplishment.

The administration is taking the position that stability in farm prices and supplies can be obtained successfully only through grower-approved government control measures imposing penalties on noncompliers.

It was believed here that an insufficient number of farmers would join the NFO withholding effort to force processors to sign contracts for the purchase of crops and livestock at designated prices.

Nevertheless, NFO President Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., said the members intend to stick by the withholding effort scheduled to start Saturday.

"Whatever length of time it takes to win this battle, we will do it," he told his organization's convention at Des Moines, Iowa. "We mean to win. This is a battle for survival of family-type agriculture."

An Agriculture Department official said Wednesday one trouble with a voluntary movement of this kind is that some farmers will take advantage of the situation by moving products to market while others are holding them back.

Poet Frost And Interior Secretary In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Stewart L. Udall, U.S. secretary of the interior, and Robert Frost, poet, landed in Moscow on Wednesday, one to study Soviet dams, the other to read poetry.

The two walked down the ramp of the plane, Udall helping Frost who was somewhat tired by the flight, a long one for a man of 88 years.

Frost sat in the waiting room with two Soviet poets, who came to meet him, Yevgheny Evtushenko and Alexander Tvardovsky.

He made them roar with laughter once with his comments about poetry and countries, but got neither one of them to utter a word.

Udall led a 15-member delegation to study power dams and electrical construction. A similar one was here two years ago, and Soviet groups in turn have toured power installations of the United States.

The U.S. delegation will remain until Sept. 8.

Frost said he would stay until Sept. 9, visiting poets in Moscow and Leningrad.

Asked why his stay was so short, Frost said: "You might get tired of me."

Frost, obviously tired, went straight to a seat and the two poets sat near him. Tvardovsky, 52, will visit the United States in October, an exchange under the cultural program for Frost. He is best known for a long humorous poem, "Vasily Tyorkin,"—about a private in World War II.

Evtushenko became internationally known for his poem "Babi Yar," about a site near Kiev where hundreds of Jews were killed and burned during the war.

No Favoritism Shown Estes, Murphy Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy said Wednesday that neither he nor the Agriculture Department gave Billie Sol Estes favored treatment—only the fairness every American is entitled to.

He said this attitude was behind his order for a "second look" at the Texas financier's canceled cotton allotment transfers, resulting in an order last Jan. 6 temporarily lifting the cancellation.

Murphy, singled out in previous testimony as the man who administered the cotton program under which Estes prospered, told his story for the first time in a 29-page statement read to the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

The subcommittee is attempting to determine whether Estes—now under indictment for fraud in connection with a fertilizer tank financing scheme—received favored treatment in his cotton growing operations because of political influence in Washington.

A key point involving Murphy is why Estes, then a member of a temporary advisory committee, was appointed to the National Cotton Advisory Council last Jan. 2 despite department and FBI investigation reports that Estes might be prosecuted.

A department investigator told the subcommittee Tuesday it was the first time he had been overruled on an adverse report involving a prospective appointment.

Murphy, in his statement, said Estes was carried over from the temporary committee to the national council because there was not sufficient reason for dropping him at that time. Murphy said the issues involved in his cotton allotment dispute with the department were primarily legal ones.

The undersecretary also said:

—The second look at the cotton allotments was ordered at the request of Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., and Rep. J. T. Rutherford, D-Tex., as well as Estes and his attorney.

—He received no gifts or benefits from Estes, other than two crates of cantaloupes, had never talked to him on the phone and saw him only at one meeting in his office and at cotton advisory committee meetings. He said he wrote Estes asking him not to send any more melons because of government policy against gifts.

—No one ever pressured him to favor Estes or decide any issue concerning Estes other than on its merits.

Soblen Counsel Claims British Laws Juggled

LONDON (AP) —Counsel for Robert A. Soblen accused British authorities Wednesday of juggling with deportation laws in an illegal maneuver to return him to America.

Before three judges in the Court of Appeal, an attorney contended the deportation order against Soblen was a sham—an extradition order in disguise.

The 61-year-old Soblen sat pale-faced and listless as the case unfolded. It was his fourth British court bid to escape return to the United States where life imprisonment awaits him for passing wartime secrets to the Soviet Union.

Soblen's case is that if deported he should be allowed to go to some other country.

Jones argued that crimes of a political nature were immune from extradition under British law.

Presiding Judge Ord Denning frequently interrupted with questions, and at one point Denning noted that Soblen had come to Britain as an unwelcome guest. He asked: "Do you mean we can't be rid of him?"

Soblen jumped $100,000 bail in New York and flew to Israel on a bogus passport. Israel deported him.

Soblen arrived here July 1 after knifing himself aboard a New York-bound Israeli airliner and was taken to a London hospital.

Border Is Closed After China Blast

HONG KONG (UPI) — Communist China quickly closed the Hong Kong border Wednesday after a violent explosion rocked the frontier town of Sumchun. The blast may have been set off by anti-Communist terrorists, observers here said.

The newspaper China Mail said "several persons were reported injured" by the explosion which was heard by residents of Hong Kong villages near the border as well as by British frontier guards.

There were no official reports on casualties, however.

The explosion was the latest in a series of blasts that have been set off in recent weeks inside China near the borders of Hong Kong and Macao, a Portuguese possession. At least four have been heard this month alone.

Insists Pact

men's agreements and moratoria do not provide the type of guarantees that are necessary. They do not give assurance against an abrupt renewal of testing by unilateral action."

Later Kennedy said it was the U.S. "hope" that the signing of a test ban treaty by existing nuclear powers would "arrest" the spread of nuclear weapon possession to other nations. But he cautioned this was "only a hope," and a treaty might lose its effectiveness if new nations began testing after it was signed. He did not make any direct reference to Red China.

The President told a questioner that U.S. security would be endangered more by the spread of nuclear weapons to 10 of 15 nations than it would be by a test-ban agreement at this time.

If nuclear weapons are available to countries around the world, he said, this could bring the United States to a point of "maximum peril" by 1970.

The danger is, he said, that "when one (nuclear bomb) goes off—they may all go off."

NYC Head Says CommerceDept. Hurts Railroads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alfred E. Perlman, president of the New York Central Railroad, said Wednesday the Commerce Department's promotion of other modes of transportation is hurting the railroad industry.

Pearlman discussed the subject while under cross-examination at an Interstate Commerce Commission examiner's hearing on the proposal to merge his company with the Pennsylvania Railroad.

William G. Mahoney, counsel for the Railway Labor Executives' Association, asked his views on President Kennedy's transportation message of last April.

In response to the message, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges set up an inter-agency committee to formulate an administration policy on transportation company mergers.

One of the announced criteria of the still-to-be-announced policy, Mahoney noted, involves the effect of mergers on employes.

Perlman said he "would rather have a completely unbiased" committee formulate the policy. He added that he did not question the objectivity of committee members, but felt that its operation under the Commerce Department would prevent generous treatment of the railroads.

"They (the department) would have to be biased because every time they promote other forms of transportation, they are hurting the railroad industry," he said.

The department administers federal aid to the airline and maritime industries.

Group Studying Election Laws Defers Action

BALTIMORE (AP) — A special legislative committee on election laws stopped short Wednesday of deciding whether it would propose legislation governing the activities of Maryland political parties.

Instead, the group agreed to study laws in other states that govern political parties as well as the bylaws of party organizations in other locales.

The group, headed by Sen. H. Winship Wheatley Jr., D.-Prince Georges, was appointed to look into state election laws as the result of last May's primary election.

At its meeting Wednesday, the group heard Mrs. Edward J. Satterthwaite, president of the League of Women Voters of Maryland, suggest again a series of more stringent controls on the financial activities of candidates for office. A similar set of proposals had been suggested by the group five years ago.

The president of Baltimore's Election Board, Thomas D'Alesandro III, submitted a set of proposals including one which would reserve positions on his permanent staff positions for members of the minority party if the General Assembly did not bring the board's employes under the merit system.

Wheatley, questioned after the meeting about his committee taking a stand on proposed legislation to bring employes of the election board under the merit system, said he did not believe his committee would take a position on the measure. He said it was more properly in the realm of the city delegation.

New York-Jersey Truck Strike Averted

NEW YORK (UPI) — Negotiators averted a strike Wednesday by nearly 70,000 truck drivers in New York City, New Jersey and Long Island called for Friday midnight.

"Substantial progress has been made in the negotiation of the New York-New Jersey area general trucking agreement," a spokesman for Teamster Union President James Hoffa said.

"There will be no stoppage of work this weekend or all of next week. We will continue to negotiate and report back to our membership on Sunday, Sept. 9."

Indonesia, Norway Pull Out Of Festival

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Congress of Racial Equality announced Wednesday that the Indonesian and Norwegian embassies have decided to withdraw their exhibits from a festival Sunday at a private, segregated park.

The two nations bring to three these that have withdrawn from the All Nations Day Festival at Gwynn Oak Park in Baltimore County. The Philippines also were expected to withdraw their exhibit. The Indian Embassy took the same action Tuesday, citing opposition to the segregation policy by CORE and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Walter W. Black Jr., executive secretary of the NAACP's Maryland State Conference, said telegrams were sent to six nations last Saturday—including Mexico, Greece and the Philippines in addition to those who already have responded.

The Mexican Embassy said it had not been invited to participate, but would have refused under the circumstances.

"Mexico does not discriminate against persons on the basis of race, color or national origin and could not take part in any event that was discriminatory," the Mexican spokesman said.

In the telegrams, Black called the segregation policy of the amusement park "undemocratic and inhuman."

Jackie Visits Capri, Buys President Ties

ISLE OF CAPRI, Italy (UPI)—Jacqueline Kennedy swam, loafed, went sight-seeing and bought President Kennedy some Italian silk neckties Wednesday on this island paradise in the Bay of Naples.

The First Lady came here by speedboat from Ravello as guest of Princess Irene Galitzine, White Russian noblewoman who is one of Italy's most famous fashion designers.

It was Mrs. Kennedy's second visit to Capri during her Italian vacation. She came here two weeks ago for dinner with Princess Galitzine and her husband, Could Silvio Medici, and went night-clubbing afterward.

Mrs. Kennedy and her daughter Caroline plan to leave Italy on Friday, and return to Washington.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Congress of Racial Equality announced Wednesday that the Indonesian and Norwegian embassies have decided to withdraw their exhibits from a festival Sunday at a private, segregated park.

The two nations bring to three these that have withdrawn from the All Nations Day Festival at Gwynn Oak Park in Baltimore County. The Philippines also were expected to withdraw their exhibit. The Indian Embassy took the same action Tuesday, citing opposition to the segregation policy by CORE and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Walter W. Black Jr., executive secretary of the NAACP's Maryland State Conference, said telegrams were sent to six nations last Saturday—including Mexico, Greece and the Philippines in addition to those who already have responded.

The Mexican Embassy said it had not been invited to participate, but would have refused under the circumstances.

"Mexico does not discriminate against persons on the basis of race, color or national origin and could not take part in any event that was discriminatory," the Mexican spokesman said.

Jackie Visits Capri, Buys President Ties

ISLE OF CAPRI, Italy (UPI)—Jacqueline Kennedy swam, loafed, went sight-seeing and bought President Kennedy some Italian silk neckties Wednesday on this island paradise in the Bay of Naples.

The First Lady came here by speedboat from Ravello as guest of Princess Irene Galitzine, White Russian noblewoman who is one of Italy's most famous fashion designers.

It was Mrs. Kennedy's second visit to Capri during her Italian vacation. She came here two weeks ago for dinner with Princess Galitzine and her husband, Could Silvio Medici, and went night-clubbing afterward.

Mrs. Kennedy and her daughter Caroline plan to leave Italy on Friday, and return to Washington.

New Distinctions For Empire State Building, World's Tallest, In Planning Stage

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI)—World's tallest building. Empire State Building.

The world over, in almost any company, mention the one and the association is immediate. The Empire State Building is the world's tallest and probably the world's best known building.

But this distinction is not enough for Lawrence A. Wien, who engineered purchase of the building last year for $65 million by a group which subsequently transferred the famous property to Prudential Insurance Company and then took back a 114-year lease.

Wien feels the full potential of the building has not been developed.

"For all its renown, it lacks definite character," he said. "Built as it was during the depression, it was impossible to fill the building with the kind of tenants it needed. Although occupancy has been virtually 100 per cent since the war, it has been of somewhat hodge-podge nature."

There is greater appreciation of the building outside New York City, especially abroad, he said. It is the old story of the familiar being taken for granted. An ardent New Yorker, Wien nevertheless admits that, as a tenant of the Empire State Building some years ago, he never did "go to the top."

His office today is not in the Empire State but farther uptown in the Lincoln Building where from his desk he has a sweeping view of lower New York with the world's tallest building prominent in the foreground.

Discussing the broadscale plan for the Empire State building, Wien's enthusiasm is infectious. Woven in among such prosaic projects as a current exterior cleaning job, new lighting for the lobby and a switchover to automatic elevator operation, are hints of a "revolutionary new art form" to be introduced next spring as part of the lobby redecoration, and plans for a "truly great international restaurant, perhaps featuring a series of picture windows with various international themes."

Wien, an attorney, describes his ventures in real estate as "fun—especially if they are profitable." He is convinced the Empire State Building can compete successfully with even the newest of New York's skyscrapers.

Construction with all facilities in a central core gives the building large areas of shallow, windowed space, unavailable in newer buildings and extremely attractive to many tenants.

High ceilings were made for efficient installation of central air-conditioning and, Wien said, the building today is more than 90 per cent air conditioned. In three to five years, as present tenants vacate space, the job will be completed.

After long study and experimentation, new ceiling lighting is being installed in the lobby which will provide a brighter, more cheerful setting without changing the overall effect of the high-ceilinged, marble decor. Installation of the new art feature will lend further distinction, Wien said.

Friends Aware Center To Reopen September 5

The Friends Aware of Handicapped Children training center will reopen after the summer vacation September 5. Mrs. Blanch Lueck, director, announces. However they will not be able to take any from the waiting list until larger facilities are available, she said.

Supported by County United Fund, the center will have the usual instruction in sewing and making plastic flowers for the eight girls attending and woodwork for the 10 boys, from Cumberland, Westernport and Frostburg. It includes making bird houses, worm boxes and open bookcases.

Classes will begin each day at 9:30 a.m. The instructors are Don Foley, Charles Schramm and Mrs. May Smith.

Mrs. Lueck also said last evening that the two weeks at Camp Potomac for the fourth season were "most successful" although only 18 of the 53 applications sent out through the county received replies.

A meeting of the board of the Potomac Valley Friends Aware will be conducted by William Gilchrist September 6 at the training center.

Sponsors Supper

PIEDMONT — The Wesleyan Service Guild of Trinity Methodist Church will hold a covered dish supper in the recreation hall of the church Tuesday, at 6:30 p. m.

Women Golfers Awards Dinner To Be Oct. 23

Officers To Be Elected Sept. 18

Two socials were planned at the meeting of the Woman's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club, conducted by Mrs. Gordon Lee Bowie Tuesday at the club.

A buffet luncheon will be held September 18, followed by election of officers.

The annual awards dinner will be October 23. Winners of the major trophy events and winners of the spring and fall tournaments will receive their awards.

Reporting on the success of the recent carnival, Mrs. S. Lua Sykes suggested that a "Chinese Auction" be held the night of the awards dinner.

Mrs. George M. Young was appointed chairman of the nominating committee to present the slate for 1963. Serving with her are Mrs. J. E. Arch and Mrs. George M. Griffith.

Following a report by Mrs. William Cook, club house chairman, various suggestions were made to preserve the golf course. They included placing litter boxes on the course; and signs to indicate parking areas for all carts.

Reports of summer activities were given by Mrs. Henry Johnson. She also reminded the members that there will be two more mixed Scotch foursomes. They will be after 4 p. m. The first is to be September 7 and the other October 9. Both will be followed by supper on the patio.

Various chairmen gave their reports. Others attending were Mrs. W. Royce Hodges and Mrs. Charles Herath.

Reception Announced

Reception of the grand officers of the Order of Rainbow for Girls will be held September 15 at Overlea Assembly 1. The announcement was made by Margaret Ellen Filler at the meeting of Cumberland Assembly 6. She also reported Mrs. Maxine Zehrbach is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

During the evening the degree of the order was conferred on Duey Snyder, Catherine Metheny and Charlene Grubb. The Scripture was read by Patricia Linaburg and Margaret Filler read a poem, "Jesus the Carpenter," and Mrs. Rebecca Wagner, "If You Would."

Horizontal Lines: A Figure Boon If Properly Used

The selection of something new for Powers girls' wardrobes is serious business. Their clothes must have a timeless, unfaddy quality. They must be striking. And above all, they must be flattering.

Now, to be flattering, any dress you buy must be two things:

1. It must be becoming to your face, hair and eyes. That means it will be of a right color and shade for you.

2. It must be becoming to your figure. That means it will have the right lines for you.

Do you have a strip of white ribbon or tape about two inches wide handy? Let's use that piece of white tape to see what horizontal lines in a dress do for you.

If you will put on a plain dress and stand before your full length mirror, here are the discoveries you will make:

First hold the tape across your shoulders. See how your shoulders seem to widen? Now try the tape around your bust. Then your waist? And last place the tape around your hips. In every instance you will discover that a horizontal line traveling around your figure will immediately broaden it.

Sometimes this increase in size is a grand thing. It can help you fill out any part of your figure that is too small. For instance, the narrow shouldered girl can make great use of the horizontal line by buying a dress with a yoke that adds width to the shoulders. The same principle applies in the case of a narrow chest.

But if you have too large a waist, look out for wide, important looking belts! They're not for you. Beware of any horizontal line emphasis at the hipline unless you want to gain ten pounds.

So remember, when you go shopping, that vertical lines make you appear taller and slimmer. Horizontal lines make you appear shorter and wider. The proper use of these lines can help to correct figure faults or accent figure beauty!

Friends Aware Center To Reopen September 5

The Friends Aware of Handicapped Children training center will reopen after the summer vacation September 5, Mrs. Blanch Lueck, director, announces. However they will not be able to take any from the waiting list until larger facilities are available, she said.

Supported by County United Fund, the center will have the usual instruction in sewing and making plastic flowers for the eight girls attending and woodwork for the 10 boys, from Cumberland, Westernport and Frostburg. It includes making bird houses, worm boxes and open bookcases.

Classes will begin each day at 9:30 a.m. The instructors are Don Foley, Charles Schramm and Mrs. May Smith.

Mrs. Lueck also said last evening that the two weeks at Camp Potomac for the fourth season were "most successful" although only 18 of the 53 applications sent out through the county received replies.

A meeting of the board of the Potomac Valley Friends Aware will be conducted by William Gilchrist September 6 at the training center.

It was announced that the Cumberland Garden Club flower show will be appointed later to participate. Routine reports were given.

Horizontal Lines: A Figure Boon If Properly Used

The selection of something new for Powers girls' wardrobes is serious business. Their clothes must have a timeless, unfaddy quality. They must be striking. And above all, they must be flattering.

Now, to be flattering, any dress you buy must be two things:

1. It must be becoming to your face, hair and eyes. That means it will be of a right color and shade for you.

2. It must be becoming to your figure. That means it will have the right lines for you.

Do you have a strip of white ribbon or tape about two inches wide handy? Let's use that piece of white tape to see what horizontal lines in a dress do for you.

If you will put on a plain dress and stand before your full length mirror, here are the discoveries you will make:

First hold the tape across your shoulders. See how your shoulders seem to widen? Now try the tape around your bust. Then your waist? And last place the tape around your hips. In every instance you will discover that a horizontal line traveling around your figure will immediately broaden it.

Sometimes this increase in size is a grand thing. It can help you fill out any part of your figure that is too small. For instance, the narrow shouldered girl can make great use of the horizontal line by buying a dress with a yoke that adds width to the shoulders. The same principle applies in the case of a narrow chest.

But if you have too large a waist, look out for wide, important looking belts! They're not for you. Beware of any horizontal line emphasis at the hipline unless you want to gain ten pounds.

So remember, when you go shopping, that vertical lines make you appear taller and slimmer. Horizontal lines make you appear shorter and wider. The proper use of these lines can help to correct figure faults or accent figure beauty!

Women Golfers Awards Dinner To Be Oct. 23

Officers To Be Elected Sept. 18

Two socials were planned at the meeting of the Woman's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club, conducted by Mrs. Gordon Lee Bowie Tuesday at the club.

A buffet luncheon will be held September 18, followed by election of officers.

The annual awards dinner will be October 23. Winners of the major trophy events and winners of the spring and fall tournaments will receive their awards.

Reporting on the success of the recent carnival, Mrs. S. Lua Syckes suggested that a "Chinese Auction" be held the night of the awards dinner.

Mrs. George M. Young was appointed chairman of the nominating committee to present the slate for 1963. Serving with her are Mrs. J. E. Arch and Mrs. George M. Griffith.

Following a report by Mrs. William Cook, club house chairman, various suggestions were made to preserve the golf course. They included placing litter boxes on the course; and signs to indicate parking areas for all carts.

Reports of summer activities were given by Mrs. Henry Johnson. She also reminded the members that there will be two more mixed Scotch foursomes. They will be after 4 p. m. The first is to be September 7 and the other October 9. Both will be followed by supper on the patio.

Various chairmen gave their reports. Others attending were Mrs. W. Royce Hodges and Mrs. Charles Herath.

Reception Announced

Reception of the grand officers of the Order of Rainbow for Girls will be held September 15 at Overlea Assembly 1. The announcement was made by Margaret Ellen Filler at the meeting of Cumberland Assembly 6. She also reported Mrs. Maxine Zehrbach is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

During the evening the degree of the order was conferred on Duey Snyder, Catherine Metheny and Charlene Grubb. The Scripture was read by Patricia Linaburg and Margaret Filler read a poem, "Jesus the Carpenter," and Mrs. Rebecca Wagner, "If You Would."

Guests welcomed were Julius Schindler, Deborah Boden, Mrs. Mary Settle, Mrs. Myrtle Shipway and Mrs. Jessie McElfish. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dorothy Ringler, Mrs. Phyllis Filler and Mrs. Beulah Barnes.

Cresap Homemakers will meet at 9:30 this morning at the home of Mrs. Emma Hinrich, Triple Lakes.

Older People Organize

A Senior Citizens Social Club was organized and temporary officers were elected at a meeting at the Chapel Hill Hose House, 6 Arch Street.

Irvin Brant was named president; Charles Hardy, vice president; William W. Dunlap, secretary; Homer Frey, treasurer; Frank Pannone and Frank Hartell, members of the organizing committee.

It was stressed that all retired men and women are invited to join the club, which is not to be confused with the Senior Citizens Club sponsored by the Recreation Department. Besides social activities the purpose of the club is considering medical care for the aged and hospitalization.

Plans were made to meet once a month, tentatively on the second Tuesday, at the hose house. The next meeting will be September 11. Fourteen persons attended.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The man I loved passed away three months ago. He was married and had a family. I worked with him for several years, and even divorced my husband in the hope that he would free himself and marry me — but it never happened.

We spent four or five evenings a week together so his wife must have known there was somebody else. We never discussed his home life. It was a forbidden subject. I lived one day at a time and was grateful for the hours we had together.

I did not attend the funeral. I was so broken up I couldn't trust myself emotionally. I do go to the cemetery every other week and place flowers on his grave, however.

There is no headstone of any kind to mark his resting place. It hurts me to see his grave so barren and plain-looking. I would like to buy a lovely headstone and place it there "anonymously." No one need know who did it. Would this be proper?—NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: At least one religious faith prohibits the placing of a headstone until one year after the burial.

In any event, you should not take it upon yourself to mark the resting place of a man who has a wife and family. They would surely know — and it might cause them great unhappiness.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm very much interested in a young woman. She is interested in me, too — or so she says. Also, she is interested in three other gentlemen.

We four have known each other for many years and in the vernacular, "there ain't no flies on any of us." We've discussed the problem many times in a half-joking, half-serious manner, and it is obvious that none of us wishes to bow out of the picture.

What can be done about a femme fatale (in her mid-twenties by the way) who won't make up her mind?—ONE OF THE FOUR HORSEMEN

DEAR HORSE: If she won't make up HER mind, why don't you make up yours — and reduce the mob-scene by one?

Once you start dating others and make it obvious you are no longer in the competition she'll probably decide you were the one she wanted all along. Women are funny that way. (Yes, and so are men.)

Confidential to SORRY FOR HER: If you give her what she wants only because she has the tear-ducts of an orphaned onion-peeler, then you're the dunce.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Polish Red Government Challenged By Cardinal

By EUGENE KRAMER

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, the Roman Catholic primate of Poland, has challenged the Communist regime to modify its attitude toward God and the Church in order to hasten social progress.

This is the interpretation widely placed on the cardinal's message to a weekend gathering of hundreds of thousands of youths and pilgrims at Czestochowka, the spiritual capital of Poland.

Experts who follow Church affairs say the cardinal's words sounded as conciliatory as anything he said in 1957, the most effective period of a truce which has since been eroding away.

As in 1957, the cardinal said Communist planning may have some worthwhile things to offer Poland.

"It is unfortunately so," he said, that despite programs with noble beginnings and some very good intentions, progress is "spoiled by the religious war that has begun, awakening distrust."

The cardinal seemed to be telling the government that it will lack popular support for its plans as long as it shows open hostility to the Church and to God.

The cardinal reminded Wladyslaw Gomulka's regime that Poland is 90 per cent Roman Catholic and that the government needs popular and Church support. Strength of his following was demonstrated as he spoke.

People in the horizon-to-horizon crowd surrounding the "Black Madonna" shrine where he appeared had come from all parts of Poland, by foot or overtaxed public transportation, and despite some reported cases of harassment.

For 24 hours, from Saturday through Sunday midnight, pilgrims filed past the 600-year-old "Black Madonna" painting. Poles credit it with miraculously saving their land from Swedish occupation in the 17th century. Each August, pilgrims stream here to repeat vows dedicating Poland to the Virgin Mary.

In speaking of religious war and hatred against God, the cardinal was criticizing what the Church considers discrimination in favor of "planned atheism" and other official activity directed against church workers and membership.

Significantly, he did not mention the subject of religious teaching in schools by nuns and priests, focal point of recent differences. Such teaching was curbed during the Stalinist years, allowed to return after 1956, but now is outlawed. There has been speculation that the Church may be writing it off, as in other countries where Church and state are separate.

Clean Getaway Made By Thief

BALTIMORE (AP) — Herbert Herman's cleanliness helped a thief make a clean getaway.

Herman gave chase Tuesday when he saw a youth take a $200 ring and a wallet containing $94 from his bedroom.

When the thief ran out the back door, Herman stopped short. He suddenly remembered he had been taking a shower when the chase started.

Naga Headhunters May Get Indian Statehood

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Tribesmen of mountainous Nagaland—some of whom still are headhunters—soon may have a state of their own in the Indian union.

The Indian Parliament took a step Tuesday toward this solution to the 15-year-old battle between Indian army units and Naga rebels. It amended, 313-5, the republic's constitution to allow creation of a 16th state.

Polish Red Government Challenged By Cardinal

By EUGENE KRAMER

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, the Roman Catholic primate of Poland, has challenged the Communist regime to modify its attitude toward God and the Church in order to hasten social progress.

This is the interpretation widely placed on the cardinal's message to a weekend gathering of hundreds of thousands of youths and pilgrims at Czestochowka, the spiritual capital of Poland.

Experts who follow Church affairs say the cardinal's words sounded as conciliatory as anything he said in 1957, the most effective period of a truce which has since been eroding away.

As in 1957, the cardinal said Communist planning may have some worthwhile things to offer Poland.

"It is unfortunately so," he said, that despite programs with noble beginnings and some very good intentions, progress is "spoiled by the religious war that has begun, awakening distrust."

The cardinal seemed to be telling the government that it will lack popular support for its plans as long as it shows open hostility to the Church and to God.

The cardinal reminded Wladyslaw Gomulka's regime that Poland is 90 per cent Roman Catholic and that the government needs popular and Church support. Strength of his following was demonstrated as he spoke.

People in the horizon-to-horizon crowd surrounding the "Black Madonna" shrine where he appeared had come from all parts of Poland, by foot or overtaxed public transportation, and despite some reported cases of harassment.

For 24 hours, from Saturday through Sunday midnight, pilgrims filed past the 600-year-old "Black Madonna" painting. Poles credit it with miraculously saving their land from Swedish occupation in the 17th century. Each August, pilgrims stream here to repeat vows dedicating Poland to the Virgin Mary.

In speaking of religious war and hatred against God, the cardinal was criticizing what the Church considers discrimination in favor of "planned atheism" and other official activity directed against church workers and membership.

Significantly, he did not mention the subject of religious teaching in schools by nuns and priests, focal point of recent differences. Such teaching was curbed during the Stalinist years, allowed to return after 1956, but now is outlawed. There has been speculation that the Church may be writing it off, as in other countries where Church and state are separate.

Woman To Woman

By Josef and Dorothy Berger

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Oh, so many things bubble up inside me as I lie in bed — having to put up with people I'm fed up with, who always misinterpret my intentions.

"That's why in the end I always come back to my diary . . . and find my way through it all and swallow my tears."

Maybe you remember this, from the diary of 15-year-old Anne Frank. After her death in a German concentration camp, this child's little book became recognized as one of the great human documents of World War II.

Maybe you can't write like Anne Frank. But that's beside the point. You can keep a diary, and you can get the same kind of release she got from it — the blessed lifting of pressure, of "getting it off your chest."

People through the ages, greats and unknowns alike, including many who could barely put a sentence together, have kept diaries. Most of them do it just as Anne Frank did — because it helps them to swallow their tears. And sometimes to savor the taste of secret joy. It works.

If you try it, we think you will be astonished at how very well it works.

The reason is simple. If you are hurt, relief comes when you can talk it out. The more honestly, the better. Of course, you can talk to a person, a friend, a loved one. Or you can talk to a mirror.

But you will find, when you start putting words down on paper — words that stay there and say it straight back at you — something happens. Something is demanding the truth from you — and stripping you of your last excuse for holding it back.

You find out how very hard it is to tell the truth — and how wonderful it feels when you have told it.

In the challenging blankness of those blank pages, surprises are hidden. Sometimes we think we know a thing so well, we don't even bother to spell it out to ourselves. "It's on the tip of my tongue (substitute pencil) but I've just never tried to put it into words."

The surprise comes when the words don't. For the likelihood is, if we can't say a thing, we don't really know that thing. Maybe we haven't thought it through. Or maybe we haven't wanted to know it. And if we can't put down the truth to explain a decision we think we have made, maybe we haven't really made that decision.

A diary, then, can serve as a poor man's psychoanalyst or psychiatrist. Maybe it isn't as good. Painting a dangerously infected cut with iodine isn't as good as going to a doctor, either.

So if you have the $25-a-session to spare, three or four sessions a week, go be honest with the psychoanalyst. If you don't have that kind of money, invest 25 cents in a notebook, and perhaps a few dollars in a strongbox. Make up your mind to put down something every day — don't worry about how it will read — and see what happens.

And remember, this is something you are doing for yourself. Top secret. Not for your children. Not — God help them — for your descendants a hundred years from now. Not for publication.

Unless you are a professional writer, one thing that happens when you write for yourself alone is that you write better. Another thing is that a well-kept diary wears well.

You will find it grows on you. And after a while — a couple of months, a couple of years — you may find that you are growing on it.

Seeks Treatment

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Ex-President Alberto Lleras Camargo will leave for the United States in a week to seek treatment of a "minor circulatory ailment" from which he has suffered for some time. It was reported here that the former chief executive suffered a recurrence Sunday of the ailment, which was first reported three months before his presidential term expired Aug. 7.

Ocean-Bottom Hugging Subs Forecast

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The commander of the nuclear submarine Seadragon, back from a historic polar rendezvous, predicted Tuesday that submarines of the future will cruise at depths of thousands of feet.

Cmdr. Charles D. Summitt of Nashville, Tenn., in a news conference at the U.S. naval supply depot here, added that he believes special types of subs will be able to hug the ocean bottom.

The Seadragon and her 90-man crew were welcomed by a crowd of about 300 including Summitt's attractive brunette wife, Ruth. The submarine will remain here for a week.

Also on hand was Celesta Skoog of Seattle, wife of Cmdr. Joseph L. Skoog, the commanding officer of the Skate, the nuclear sub with which the Seadragon rendezvoused under the polar ice.

The Seadragon and Skate engaged in mock warfare under the polar ice before making their rendezvous and surfacing at the North Pole on Aug. 2. The feat was announced by President Kennedy at a news conference Aug. 22.

Summitt told reporters: "We feel we could operate in the ocean as well as any other ocea as far as combatting subs."

At one point in the trip to th pole, Summitt said, the sub wa 20 feet off the ocean bottom an had 20 feet between it and th ice overhead. He estimated th ice was 70 feet thick. This wa in the Chukchi Sea off Alaska.

The Seadragon and her 90-man crew were welcomed by a crowd of about 300 including Summitt's attractive brunette wife, Ruth. The submarine will remain here for a week.

Also on hand was Celesta Skoog of Seattle, wife of Cmdr. Joseph L. Skoog, the commanding officer of the Skate, the nuclear sub with which the Seadragon rendezvoused under the polar ice.

The Seadragon and Skate engaged in mock warfare under the polar ice before making their rendezvous and surfacing at the North Pole on Aug. 2. The feat was announced by President Kennedy at a news conference Aug. 22.

Summitt told reporters: "We feel we could operate in the ocean as well as any other ocea as far as combatting subs."

At one point in the trip to th pole, Summitt said, the sub wa 20 feet off the ocean bottom an had 20 feet between it and th ice overhead. He estimated th ice was 70 feet thick. This wa in the Chukchi Sea off Alaska.

Dozen Cities Cited For Civic Projects

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The American Municipal Association Tuesday night cited 12 cities for outstanding public relations and community relations projects.

Winners in cities with populations of more than 100,000 were Glendale, Calif.; Norfolk, Va.; Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex.; Jersey City, N. J.; Washington, D. C.; Miami, Fla., and Tacoma, Wash.

Citation winners for cities in the 25,000-100,000 population category were Pontiac, Mich.; Rockville, Md.; Hollywood, Fla., and Redondo Beach, Calif.

The citations were presented at the association's 39th annual congress here.

Norfolk was a double winner. It was cited for completion of a $4.5 million public safety headquarters as a focal point in its vast downtown revitalization and renewal program and it received a "people-to-people" citation for development of a cultural and educational exchange program with its "sister city" of Moji, Japan.

Radiation From Atomic Test Damages Solar Cells Of Satellites, Delays Shot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radiation from the high-altitude hydrogen-bomb explosion in the Pacific has damaged solar cells on several orbiting satellites and brought one launch postponement, the civilian space agency reported Tuesday.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration insisted that the radiation is no menace to the man-in-space program. It will not delay the earth-circling launch of six orbits planned in about a month for astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr., NASA said.

Many satellites, including the television-picture relaying Telstar showed no signs of damage, the agency said.

However, the Navy ordered postponement, possibly for two or three months, of the launching of the Project Anna flashing geodetic satellite which initially had been scheduled for two weeks ago.

The action reportedly was the result of early reports on results of the H-bomb explosion over Johnston Island last July 9, and the possible effect on the costly and delicate instruments aboard Anna.

The H-bomb radiation belt, believed already to have dissipated by about 50 per cent since July 9, extends down to within 200 miles of the earth at some points. Some 700 miles above the earth it merges into the Van Allen radiation belt that perpetually embraces the earth, scientists said.

Energetic particles left by the bomb explosion damage the silicon solar cells of sun-powered satellites, reducing their ability to convert sunlight into electricity.

A NASA spokesman said power output of the U.S.-launched British scientific satellite Ariel dropped rapidly after the July blast, but later regained strength when the vehicle moved into full sunlight. The signals for the most part have been weakening steadily, however.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said Telstar, the communications satellite, was overdesigned to withstand heavy radiation, and no damage to any of its 3,600 solar cells had been observed.

Telstar's solar cells were covered with various types of shielding to test the effectiveness of different materials, the company said.

Other satellites, designed to orbit below the radiation of the Van Allen belt, lacked special shielding and thus were vulnerable to the H-bomb particles.

Road Material Supplier Is Indicted For Bribery

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore County grand jury indicted George D. Fox Wednesday on 173 charges that he bribed county employes.

Fox is president of George D. Fox & Co., Inc., principal supplier of road materials to Baltimore County for the past decade.

Seven county employes and a former chief of the Bureau of Highways Operations Division, N. Charles Heinmuller, also were indicted.

Fox also was indicted on six additional charges of conspiracy to defraud the county and his corporation was named on 10 charges of obtaining $12,382 by false pretenses during 1960 and 1961.

There were a total of 376 indictments. The grand jury had been investigating for five months.

Heinmuller was named on 27 indictments of accepting bribes from Fox, one charge of conspiracy and another of perjury. Roy Norris, who won the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Baltimore County but later withdrew as a candidate, was named on similar indictments. Norris has been on unpaid sick leave from his position as superintendent of the 15th District of the highways division.

Five other county employes indicted were Robert V. Hartman, superintendent of District 15-A; Edwin C. Apperson, until recently superintendent of District 14; Charles H. Campbell, superintendent of District 12; George L. Simpson, superintendent of the bureau's general construction division, and Wilmer Borgman, superintendent of the 1st District.

Joseph M. Combs, another general construction official, was indicted on nine charges of accepting bribes and one of perjury.

Bail for Fox was set at $5,000. It was $3,500 for the others.

The investigation began in March when County Executive Christian H. Kahl noted what he called excessive costs of road maintenance and asked for a grand jury investigation.

Later an audit was taken and the contractor was billed for more than $252,000 the county contends is due because of short-weight deliveries.

Train Service Slash Opposed

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission asked U.S. District Court Wednesday to dismiss a Pennsylvania Railroad complaint involving train service between Harrisburg and Hagerstown.

The state agency told the federal court that the railroad should have gone to State Superior Court to seek relief from a PUC order of July 9.

The PUC ordered the railroad to restore that part of a daily round-trip passenger train between Harrisburg and the Pennsylvania-Maryland state line.

The Interstate Commerce Commission permitted the railroad to abandon the service without holding public hearings.

The PUC said an appeal to the state court was in order since the railroad originally sought to abandon the train through the state agency.

"This procedure would have given PRR the right of ultimate appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, but, in going to the district court, the railroad has allowed the appeal time to run out and the state order has become final," the PUC said.

The railroad had asked the federal court here to set aside the PUC directive on grounds the state agency was superseded by federal law.

Well Test Program Requires More Funds

BALTIMORE (AP) — An official of the State Health Department says his agency must have more funds if it is to enforce statewide water well-testing regulations.

The official, Robert M. Brown, said Tuesday the department and county health agencies lack the manpower needed to make tests.

Regulations call for one test of private wells after their construction and disinfection, and a second 60 days after the first. Brown said the tests are for the detection of bacteriological and chemical sources of water pollution.

Dr. William Peeples, health official of Montgomery County, reported earlier that more than one-third of 413 wells tested in Montgomery County during the last year were contaminated.

He said the majority of the wells in the county are safe and that the findings indicate no great county-wide hazard.

Dunker Church Relics Included In Exhibit

SHARPSBURG, Md. (AP)—The congregation that used to worship in the Dunker church on Antietam battlefield will display historical relics of its past during the centennial commemoration of the famous battle.

The exhibit will be in the Church of the Brethren in Sharpsburg. The congregation moved from the battlefield church to the present location in 1898.

Included in the display will be an unpublished picture of the old Dunker church taken when it was blown down in a windstorm about 40 years ago, old publications and other historical items.

The display will be open September 1-17 from 1 till 5 p.m. on weekdays and from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m. on Saturdays. No admission will be charged and no contributions taken.

The old Dunker church got its name from the denomination, which was then known as the German Baptist Brethren or the Dunkers.

Gov. Tawes Tours Maryland State Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — Gov. Tawes made a fast moving, 2½ hour tour of the Maryland State Fair Wednesday, shaking hands, patting heads and signing autographs as he went.

The governor arrived in time for luncheon in his honor at the race track grandstand. Before leaving, he saw cattle, ponies, tobacco, honey, baby chicks and many other exhibits and displays.

He proclaimed the 81st annual fair "bigger and better than ever" and praised Maryland's "fine farm people."

His black Cadillac limousine was loaded with gifts when he slid into the back seat for the 11-mile trip back to his Baltimore office.

He signed one final autograph for a Baltimore County policeman, leaning on the fender of the car, before State Police Sgt. H. F. Salfner, one of his regular drivers, moved off into the southbound traffic on York Road. There was no police escort.

Besides the usual cakes, pies and jellies, Tawes took with him a silver cup presented at the luncheon and an etching of the Wye Oak on his native Eastern Shore.

Striding along briskly in a black suit and black tie, Tawes occasionally tipped his hat or waved to exhibitors and visitors, calling out: "Hello there, how are you'?"

One of his main stops was the dairy cattle judging pavilion, where 2-year-old Holstein cows were being shown. Wading through the sawdust to take a seat at ringside, the governor said: "It's very remarkable how they develop their size so rapidly."

"This is a wonderful fair" he told the crowd over a loud speaker. "Maryland is proud."

Tawes recalled how he had milked a cow at the Montgomery County Fair in Gaithersburg last week. "When I was young, we had a cow and a horse. I did the milking — and I can still do it."

He also stopped at a festooned trailer set up by Rep. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., the fair president who is running for U.S. Senate as Democratic nominee on the Tawes ticket.

"This is grand," said the head of the ticket. "The ticket is on the move out here."

Presented a jar of honey, Tawes was told it came from Cumberland — "Atty. Gen. Tom Finan's backyard."

"I can use that on blueberry pancakes," said the governor. "We have them every Sunday morning."

The governor arrived in time for luncheon in his honor at the race track grandstand. Before leaving, he saw cattle, ponies, tobacco, honey, baby chicks and many other exhibits and displays.

He proclaimed the 81st annual fair "bigger and better than ever" and praised Maryland's "fine farm people."

His black Cadillac limousine was loaded with gifts when he slid into the back seat for the 11-mile trip back to his Baltimore office.

He signed one final autograph for a Baltimore County policeman, leaning on the fender of the car, before State Police Sgt. H. F. Salfner, one of his regular drivers, moved off into the southbound traffic on York Road. There was no police escort.

Besides the usual cakes, pies and jellies, Tawes took with him a silver cup presented at the luncheon and an etching of the Wye Oak on his native Eastern Shore.

Striding along briskly in a black suit and black tie, Tawes occasionally tipped his hat or waved to exhibitors and visitors, calling out: "Hello there, how are you?"

One of his main stops was the dairy cattle judging pavilion, where 2-year-old Holstein cows were being shown. Wading through the sawdust to take a seat at ringside, the governor said: "It's very remarkable how they develop their size so rapidly."

"This is a wonderful fair" he told the crowd over a loud speaker. "Maryland is proud."

Tawes recalled how he had milked a cow at the Montgomery County Fair in Gaithersburg last week. "When I was young, we had a cow and a horse. I did the milking — and I can still do it."

He also stopped at a festooned trailer set up by Rep. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., the fair president who is running for U.S. Senate as Democratic nominee on the Tawes ticket.

"This is grand," said the head of the ticket. "The ticket is on the move out here."

Presented a jar of honey, Tawes was told it came from Cumberland — "Atty. Gen. Tom Finan's backyard."

"I can use that on blueberry pancakes," said the governor. "We have them every Sunday morning."

Ecumenical Council Will Use Bleachers, Computers

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Walk into St. Peter's Basilica these days and at first glance the scene is one of wreckage and devastation.

Men with sledge hammers are breaking up marble flooring more than three centuries old.

Down the great length of the church, from the doors almost to the main altar, two huge wooden bleachers face each other across the center aisle.

A bare wooden wall completely hides Michelangelo's magnificent Pieta.

Metal tubing clangs against marble as workmen move about. Long boards lie dumped on the floor. Saws are busily being worked.

The noise resounds against the walls, the high ceilings, and echoes from the soaring dome.

What will emerge from all this clutter and confusion will be the setting for the greatest religious gathering in history, the second Vatican Ecumenical Council.

The council opens Oct. 11 and in the coming weeks St. Peter's will become an increasingly hectic spot, with trucks roaring up to the entrance to unload equipment and stonemasons and carpenters bumping aside tourists inside the church.

Eventually the bare boards and the stark metal framework of the bleachers will be covered with red and green carpeting and tapestries, bordered with gold trim and tassels.

Straight - backed chairs with desks and kneelers built behind them, already are being put into place on the bleachers. Holes have been torn in marble to house electrical conduits for machine computers, radio, television and a special lighting system. All will be covered again with new marble.

How much beauty is being sacrificed in the physical arrangements is, of course, a matter of taste. But one thing is certain: St. Peter's as it has been for most of its 336 years will be unrecognizable during the Council sessions.

The chapel containing the Pieta will remain boarded up, because on many occasions Pope John XXIII will enter the church from this chapel and through a newly built door in the temporary wall.

Pope John will preside over the Council sessions from a throne atop a 25-foot-high platform in front of the main altar of the church. The platform will be on wheels so it may be rolled off to clear the altar behind it when needed.

Seated before the Pope will be the 3,000 high dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church who will perform the work of the council.

Then, filling the great row of bleachers along the length of the church in front of the papal throne, the main body of the Council delegates.

The first six seats of the bleachers to the right of the Pope will be covered in green. These will be for the six church patriarchs.

The other 2,265 bleacher seats will be for abbots, archbishops, bishops and other prelates.

Those in the bleachers will not face the Pope directly. They will face each other across the center aisle of the church.

Overhanging the bleachers, and supported by metal framework from the ground, will be six galleries with space for 50 chairs each. Here will sit the Protestant, Orthodox and other invited observers, and assistants to the Council.

Two small banks of seats behind the Pope will be used by stenographers, specially trained to record the proceedings which will all be in Latin, and a group of prelates who will supervise voting procedures.

Near the Chapel of the Holy Sacrament in the aisle off to the right of the main altar, machine computers will be set up to process the votes of the Council Fathers.

Warning For Drivers

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness Wednesday warned Labor Day weekend motorists to remove their sunglasses at sundown.

"Good driving vision depends on the amount of light reaching the driver's eye," the society said. "Any glass that reduces the brightness of oncoming headlights will also blot out the fainter roadside signs and cues that you depend on for safety—and life."

Brown, Nixon Near Showdown

By JAMES C. ANDERSON

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Richard M. Nixon and Edmund G. Brown are ready for a showdown fight to see who will be governor of California for the next four years.

Both the 49-year-old former vice president and the 57-year-old Democrat who now sits in the governor's chair in Sacramento plan to launch an all-out campaign on Labor Day. The decision will come Nov. 6 when more than 7 million voters will pick the winner.

So important do both political parties regard the Nixon - Brown battle that President Kennedy is expected to make at least one trip to the West to campaign for Brown while ex-president Eisenhower is pledged to make one and possibly two speeches for Nixon.

The stakes are high.

The winner will become the chief executive of the state to be the nation's most populous, a state growing in political influence every year.

In 1964, whoever is governor of California will command almost 100 votes in the national convention of his party.

The election is regarded as particularly vital to Nixon if he expects to remain a national figure.

Even though he insists he will not be a candidate for president in 1964 if he wins the governorship, it is obvious Nixon would have a strong voice in determining the GOP nominee if he headed the California delegation.

As for Brown, an active politician in his home state almost all his life, November will determine if the voters approve his four-year program of "responsible liberalism." And it also will be a test to a degree, of Kennedy's personal popularity in a state which Nixon carried in the 1960 presidential election by a bare 35,000 votes.

One of the high spots of the campaign is expected to be a joint appearance of the two candidates before the conference of United Press International Editors and Publishers in San Francisco Oct. 1.

Replying to an invitation extended by Richard A. Litfin of UPI, conference director, both Brown and Nixon agreed to appear on the same platform to discuss campaign issues.

It will be one of the few face-to-face meetings between the two men during the entire campaign although in mid-October they are expected to engage in one statewide television debate.

Supporters of both say they are eager for a head-on meeting.

At the very outset of his political career, when he first ran for congress in 1946, Nixon engaged in a series of sharp verbal exchanges with Democratic incumbent H. Jerry Voorhis, whom he defeated. Two years later, he tangled once in debate with Helen Gahagan Douglas in his successful campaign for a U.S. Senate seat.

One of the high spots of his eight years as vice president was Nixon's impromptu "kitchen debate" with Premier Khrushchev in Moscow.

As for the 1960 presidential campaign and the series of debates with Kennedy, some of Nixon's aides admit the results might have been a factor in Nixon's narrow loss. But they insist that in several exchanges Nixon came out on top.

Brown, like Nixon, is a lawyer and he, too, has had experience in the rough and tumble of political debate.

He got his nickname "Pat" from his oratorical ability as a high school student selling Liberty Bonds in World War I.

He usually ended his sales pitch by echoing Patrick Henry's immortal phrase "give me liberty or give me death"—and his fellow students called him "Pat" from then on.

Officials Arrested

'Delinquency' A Way Of Life In Pakistan

By LEMMY PINNA

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—Juvenile delinquency is not regarded as a problem in Karachi because it is unofficially accepted as a way of earning a living.

Newspaper boys and adolescent coolies regularly earn a fast rupee through a shady deal involving anything from the procurement of American cigarettes to the sale of U.S. dollars on the black market. These boys are the middlemen for adult operators.

Inside the shabby, gray-washed Empress Market, a small regiment of coolies supplement their meagre income by getting cuts from the butcher, the baker and the man who operates underground.

They can lead a customer to a bottle of Scotch at $2 under the price at a legitimate wine shop along Elphinstone Street.

To voracious eaters, foreign canned goods—pilfered by trusted cooks and houseboys — make a tempting morsel. They also give such coolies a fair-size cut in profits from the calndestine sales.

All in all, one of these boys revealed, a skillful procurement coolie who has his customers accurately tabbed can make the equivalent of $100 per month on the sly. An average government clerk's salary is $35 per month.

"We have a good life," the coolie said.

These teen-age wheelers and dealers often eat meat and eggs, rarities even on the dining tables of the better than average middle-class families.

"The price of respectability is too high," said one of the boys.

Because of his dead-pan sense of humor, his aggressiveness and talent for spotting easy customers, this coolie has become the leader of his pack. He earns an average of $150 a month.

This youth has acquired a brick bungalow in Korangi Township where thousands like him live in the Refugee Resettlement Area on an income so low children remain unschooled and babies turn scrawny and scabrous, if they do not die of malnutrition.

Unlike his hapless neighbors, however, his family of one wife, one child, parents and a brother eat well and live well, comparatively. Their two-room, one courtyard and one bathroom doll house has been extended to take in another room and a rain-proof roof has given them shelter against the merciless monsoon showers.

How, he asked could anyone deliberately turn his back on much-needed income for the sake of respectability . . . when such an income made the difference between hunger and life?

Typical of the many coolies that prowl along Bohri Bazaar, teeming Empress Market and the labyrinthian slums off Bunder Road, he once had a taste of respectability as a house boy in a foreigner's house. He did not make enough to feed his family. Uneducated, and unable to obtain a while-collar job in a city where the unemployment ratio has drastically kept the average clerk's salary at an impossible low-level group, he took to his present profession.

Plying their underworld trade requires these boys to have more skill than brawn. A chief requirement is an ability to guess the nationality of a customer coupled with a more than average grasp of current world affairs.

To gain the confidence of a foreign customer they will strongly advocate democracy to an American . . . calling Khrushchev "a nut." To a Russian, socialism alone can level the social inequalities in Pakistan. Once they even pointed at Princess Michiko as Japan's most forthright approach at democracy.

As a rule, these boys glean their knowledge from the Urdu newspapers read communally by a literate member in their group or from gossip traded among their elders. Some stray into the Russian propaganda Centre, the Voks Library, in Elphinstone Street where they learn all about Russian socialism.

It is worth realizing that of the 25 boys interviewed, not one has been to the USIS Library. They claimed the American Library caters to the middle class, while the Russians are out to channel the interest of the illeterates who constitute about 85 per cent of the population of Pakistan.

'Delinquency' A Way Of Life In Pakistan

By LEMMY PINNA

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—Juvenile delinquency is not regarded as a problem in Karachi because it is unofficially accepted as a way of earning a living.

Newspaper boys and adolescent coolies regularly earn a fast rupee through a shady deal involving anything from the procurement of American cigarettes to the sale of U.S. dollars on the black market. These boys are the middlemen for adult operators.

Inside the shabby, gray-washed Empress Market, a small regiment of coolies supplement their meagre income by getting cuts from the butcher, the baker and the man who operates underground.

They can lead a customer to a bottle of Scotch at $2 under the price at a legitimate wine shop along Elphinstone Street.

To voracious eaters, foreign canned goods—pilfered by trusted cooks and houseboys — make a tempting morsel. They also give such coolies a fair-size cut in profits from the calndestine sales.

All in all, one of these boys revealed, a skillful procurement coolie who has his customers accurately tabbed can make the equivalent of $100 per month on the sly. An average government clerk's salary is $35 per month.

"We have a good life," the coolie said.

These teen-age wheelers and dealers often eat meat and eggs, rarities even on the dining tables of the better than average middle-class families.

"The price of respectability is too high," said one of the boys.

Because of his dead-pan sense of humor, his aggressiveness and talent for spotting easy customers, this coolie has become the leader of his pack. He earns an average of $150 a month.

This youth has acquired a brick bungalow in Korangi Township where thousands like him live in the Refugee Resettlement Area on an income so low children remain unschooled and babies turn scrawny and scabrous, if they do not die of malnutrition.

Unlike his hapless neighbors, however, his family of one wife, one child, parents and a brother eat well and live well, comparatively. Their two-room, one courtyard and one bathroom doll house has been extended to take in another room and a rain-proof roof has given them shelter against the merciless monsoon showers.

How, he asked could anyone deliberately turn his back on much-needed income for the sake of respectability . . . when such an income made the difference between hunger and life?

Typical of the many coolies that prowl along Bohri Bazaar, teeming Empress Market and the labyrinthian slums off Bunder Road, he once had a taste of respectability as a house boy in a foreigner's house. He did not make enough to feed his family. Uneducated, and unable to obtain a while-collar job in a city where the unemployment ratio has drastically kept the average clerk's salary at an impossible low-level group, he took to his present profession.

Plying their underworld trade requires these boys to have more skill than brawn. A chief requirement is an ability to guess the nationality of a customer coupled with a more than average grasp of current world affairs.

To gain the confidence of a foreign customer they will strongly advocate democracy to an American . . . calling Khrushchev "a nut." To a Russian, socialism alone can level the social inequalities in Pakistan. Once they even pointed at Princess Michiko as Japan's most forthright approach at democracy.

As a rule, these boys glean their knowledge from the Urdu newspapers read communally by a literate member in their group or from gossip traded among their elders. Some stray into the Russian propaganda Centre, the Voks Library, in Elphinstone Street where they learn all about Russian socialism.

It is worth realizing that of the 25 boys interviewed, not one has been to the USIS Library. They claimed the American Library caters to the middle class, while the Russians are out to channel the interest of the illeterates who constitute about 85 per cent of the population of Pakistan.

JFK Praises Group

Teddy Kennedy And The Senate

Besides Arthur Schlesinger Jr. there is an Arthur Schlesinger who regards the political scene with judgment unswayed by his son's presence on the White House payroll.

The old professor joined in a statement by the ubiquitous and perennial National Committee for an Effective Congress which suggested that Teddy Kennedy has somewhat less than the required stature for the Senate seat he seeks.

Moreover, President Kennedy cannot "disclaim responsibility" for his brother's candidacy which, the committee continued, is creating resentment that could damage the President's career.

To the inevitable press conference question, the President replied that he thought "the people of Massachusetts can make a more effective judgment (a word he never does without) for a more effective Congress than even this committee, and I think they will."

Nobody asked the next question, which is whether the people of Massachusetts will be permitted to make their "judgment" without the intensive coaching which the Kennedys, as the McCormacks and others have discovered, can support with infinite resources.

The Schlesinger committee said the Kennedy candidacy is an "affront" to the Senate, which likes to consider that Senate membership is "earned through some measure of achievement and service." Whether the junior professor will now call the senior professor an "idiot" is an intriguing question.

But the melancholy fact is that, if elected, little brother wouldn't be the first Senator who failed to meet this standard.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

My Neighbors

Up in the Berkshires in Massachusetts, we have been celebrating during the past week, the 200th birthday of the founding of Sandisfield in which my house and farm are actually situated.

Sandisfield was once the fourth largest township in Berkshire County and was very prosperous, the farmers making here the famous yellow Cheddar cheese, which has gone by the name of York cheese, Store cheese or Cartwheel. At one time, Sandisfield produced 300,000 pounds of cheese and 100,000 pounds of butter each season. Also maple sugar, hay, apples, cider and a home-made rum. This area was famous for the independence of its farmers and although they fought well in the Indian wars and in the Revolution, they also took part in Shay's Rebellion.

The reason that Sandisfield ceased to be agriculturally and industrially important is that the new means of communication, the railroad, passed to the west of it, going through Sheffield, Great Barrington, Lenox, Lee and Pittsfield. However, this area is being restored by another form of transportation, the automobile and the bus, which bring the Summer residents from New York, Hartford and Springfield to these parts, which with the Tanglewood concerts, the Jacob's Pillow dances and the camps for boys and girls are witnessing a revival.

The Bi-Centennial has been lots of fun. All the neighbors came to the dances and the speeches and the parade—the good, old-fashioned parades showing all the neighboring fire departments and interesting floats and old costumes and dances on the grass—and not to be omitted, hot dogs, pop-corn, balloons, pink lemonade as well as the modern soft drinks.

Sandisfield is a Democratic town for some reason or other. Most of the other towns hereabouts are Republican, also for some reason or other. But most of the local great men are Republicans and they came to the Bi-Centennial. Governor John A. Volpe of Massachusetts was there to make a speech and he developed quickly all the characteristics of local informality.

He interrupted his speech to tell his audience to watch the parachute jumps which included a girl jumper from Texas who was very pretty. And that made the day for all the girls because it just showed that what a man could do, a woman could do.

Governor Volpe spoke about the homely virtues of such a town as Sandisfield which has always maintained a pay-as-you-go policy that is truly wonderful in these days. As a matter of fact, Sandisfield meets its bills every month and does not get into debt, except to borrow occasionally from a bank and it meets such an obligation as a sound businessman does.

Governor Volpe said that he wished other parts of Massachusetts could be so financially sound. Although the population of Sandisfield is no longer predominantly Anglo-Saxon and has long foregone the ways of Jonathan Edwards who hails from here, it nevertheless has maintained a tradition of thrift, both for the town and for individuals.

When I first came here, we had no electricity on our hill and there are still some houses who do without it. I used a small plant but now buy city electricity which I find on the whole less expensive and less troublesome. The little Red School-Houses are gone, too, and there is a central school which is well-run by a Yale graduate, George Etzel, who prefers the simple life and lives it faithfully. The township, however, is so widespread, about 33,000 acres, that some of the children would do better in schools in other townships closer at hand. But sentiment and loyalty and rules send them to our schools despite snow and ice.

The local Congressman also came to make a speech. He is Silvio O. Conte, a Republican. He has told Congress of the strong desire for self-government among these people. He said:

"The first town meeting following incorporation was called by virtue of a warrant issued by Joseph Dwight, of Great Barrington, justice of the peace, and the original town proprietors, the majority of whom were citizens of Worcester. In a short time, however, the people of Sandisfield were clamoring for control of their own destinies, and, as it was to work out, their demands were quickly granted."

That is the way America grew. Little towns like Sandisfield built a great country and these little New England towns sent sons to develop the great states of the Middle West.

The speakers had their say and a good time was had by all.

Berlin, Focal Point Of Two Wars, May Be Starting Point For Third

By Drew Pearson

BERLIN.—I have been to Berlin eight times since World War I and always come away impressed with the fact that Berlin is a city of tragedy. It is also, at times, a city of great beauty, culture and vigor, but above all else and beyond any other city in the world it seems to have the knack of getting itself and the world into trouble.

Its leaders plotted and launched two world wars which devastated most of Europe, extended all the way to Japan, disrupted the distant islands of the South Seas, touched the seacoasts of South America, and churned up the deserts of Africa.

Now, unless a miracle happens and there is very strong leadership in Washington, the people of Berlin are about to stumble themselves and the world into war again.

It is hard to diagnose the reasons why this should happen. More than any other city, Berlin has had reason to understand the tragedies of war. I have never forgotten, when I was there after the First War, the peaked, haunted faces of children grubbing in the garbage cans of restaurants for scraps of food; the painted, gaunt faces of women who threw themselves at men to sell their bodies for a few marks; the soaring prices—up and up daily—so that a cup of coffee cost a million marks. But, though people's bodies suffered, the buildings of the War Offices and the palaces of the Kaiser were still standing. They were unscathed by five years of fighting. Berliners hated them as symbols of war.

Aonther War

I did not get back to Berlin until 1937. That was about as long after World War I as the present moment is after World War II. But in that short period, Berlin had forgotten war. American banks and bond houses had poured money into a new Germany. Hitler had taken advantage of their money to start building a new war machine. Already he had marched into the Ruhr and Rhineland to take from France the raw materials for war. Already the Gestapo had started to function.

I remember phoning Count von Prittwitz, former ambassador to Washington, an anti-war moderate, from the Adler Hotel. He was scared to death. He knew that his phone must be tapped.

Many diplomats in the State Department denied it, but it did not take a very astute newspaper obsever to know that World War II was coming.

It was January of 1951 before I got back to Berlin again. World War II had been over six years but there still remained those ghostly skeletons of destrutcion—the bombed-out buildings, the charred walls, the miles and miles of stone collected into neat piles, the clean-up of the wreckage of war. This time the military headquarters which had planned the war, the government offices which supported the war, and the bunker of Adolf Hitler, who had conceived the war, were in ruins.

No one who surveyed that awful wreckage could conceive that the people of Berlin might ever let themselves drift into a position where war could come again.

I came back to Berlin in the summer of 1951. We were launching balloons from the Bavarian border near Munich into Czechoslovakia and Poland to reach the people behind the then airtight Iron Curtain.

Berlin was more attractive in the August sunshine. The geraniums were cheerful and brilliant on the balconies along the avenues. They helped divert attention from the ghastly remnants of war. But Berlin still remained a city of tragedy.

The Defense Department in Washington in 1951 had begun to urge the German government to build its own army—just the opposite of the restrictions we had imposed upon them during the years after the war ended.

But the German people I talked to wanted to follow our first advice, not our second. They did not want another army. They did not want to risk another war. The youngsters around Berlin talked of military service as something to be avoided like the plague. Despite the bright geraniums and the August sunshine, they saw and remembered the charred and grizzly skeletons of war.

Remarkable Change

I have been back to Berlin almost every year in recent years. The change is remarkable. Not only has the city been 75 per cent rebuilt, but even more remarkable has been the rebuilding of the public mind.

The older residents remember the suffering of war. Plenty of skeletons remain to remind them. But the young men who 10 years ago talked against military service have been replaced by a new generation which stones American military vehicles.

It was only a short time ago that Berliners were erecting monuments in commemoration of American fliers who heroically broke the Berlin blockade. It was only a short time ago that they were giving thanks for the American dollars that helped rebuild Berlin. But last week young Berliners, 10,000 strong, marched to Checkpoint Charlie where American troops guard the gate to East Berlin to hurl accusations that the United States is to blame for Berlin's divided dilemma and inferences that the American people should go to war—once again—for the city of Berlin.

It may be that on the first point they are right; that through procrastination we are, in part, to blame. Whether on the second point they are right—whether Berlin once again is going to take us into war—must be covered in future columns.

Russia's Disappointing 'Fourth Generation'

By David Miller

MOSCOW

A generation born and nurtured under the realities of Marxism-Leninism is beginning to mature in a world torn by the most convulsive struggle in modern history.

Who are they, these teen-agers and young adults on whom the hopes of the Soviet Union and communism rest? Is there really a "new" Soviet man, a figure idealized as mankind's wave of the future?

Of all the criteria used to evaluate the Soviet Union, few are as important to the West. The consequences are enormous, for an integral part of Soviet philosophy is Lenin's dictum that a new kind of man will throw off the vestiges of present burgeois life and emerge as a cleansed, heroic figure.

By any test of courage and technical excellence, the Soviet Union's four cosmonauts meet every requirement. Near them must be ranked thousands of others, the lesser known who are dedicated to building a new society.

But the same cannot be said of the broad base of young Soviets. Interest in the material far outweights the spiritual appeal of sacrifice and devotion which once explained every inconvenience and shortage.

Young people in increasing numbers are leaving the rugged, primitive life of the virgin lands, the massive attempt to bring agricultural fruits to marginal land. The hardships are simply too much.

Fewer and fewer young Soviets willingly accept assignments in the desolate Far East. The best jobs are in Moscow and Leningrad—and everyone knows it.

So few young Soviets have gone into teaching Marxism-Leninism that a serious shortage has developed both on the university level and in Communist party and youth organizations.

Membership in Komsomol, the Young Communist League, has remained relatively unchanged for the past eight years, despite an increasing pool of potential members. For every Soviet between 14 and 28 who joins, two do not.

Enrollment stands at 19,400,000 (of the 52 million eligible), but only because the minimum age was lowered last April from 15 to 14 and penalties for lax members were downgraded. No one now is expelled because of failure to pay dues. The older members continue to leave.

Young writers, although praised for their freshness, lack of prejudice, and personal observation, are continually criticized for their inability to think "profoundly, largely, and socially."

In all of the new Soviet literature there has yet to emerge a single figure capable of being regarded as a heroic representation of the new generation. The older generation finds the characterization intellectually and socially immature.

Penalties for juvenile delinquency have been increased with the creation of special courts authorized to confine children [illegible] 11 to 19 in special "educational institutions."

The Soviets themselves know all of these things only too well. Their information comes from official Soviet sources—the government-controlled press — and reflects a concern that cannot be hidden.

This "fourth generation," a phrase that began to circulate in Moscow last summer, was brought up under the slogans and banners of a revolution already won.

But the sterotype of "capitalist colonialism," which once seemed so pointed and all-consuming, now seems terribly out of date in an era made enormously complex by political and technological change.

Young Soviets have lived through the denouement of the infallible Stalin—the man ordinary Soviets call "he who was" and the Soviet press calls the "head of the Soviet state at that time."

For these youngsters witnessed the bewilderment of parents exposed to the bitter revelations of the cult of personality. It is more than possible that all this has made the younger generation cynical and resentful of an older generation that failed.

But let no one in the West believe the younger Soviet generation is ready to reject the only social system it knows. The possibility is remote. But the road ahead is far from clear.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NOVEMBER ELECTIONS — This November's elections will be of more than usual importance because of their bearing on the 1964 presidential race. And the place to watch will be the gubernatorial contests where the Republican Party most likely will reach for its presidential and vice presidential candidates.

The party's two hottest presidential prospects are Nelson A. Rockefeller, up for re-election as governor of New York, and Richard M. Nixon, running for the top California job. Rockefeller must win big to keep his political luster from tarnishing, but any win will be big for Nixon in California, although he has pledged to serve out his four-year term there, if elected.

In two other states, whose present chief executives are Democrats, Republican candidates of potential presidential caliber are making strong runs. Should either or both win, they would automatically become political factors at the 1964 GOP National Convention.

One is George Romney, auto tycoon, who is making an excellent showing so far in his race for the Michigan Statehouse. The other is William W. Scranton, who threatens to win Pennsylvania's gubernatorial office.

Another GOP governor up for re-election is Mark Hatfield, of Oregon, who has a considerable national following and who is expected to win handily in this year's contest. And still another name is James A. Rhodes, who, some people think, can upset Mike DiSalle in Ohio.

Fortunately for all of these GOP hopefuls, the top 1964 Democratic candidates most likely will be John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. No Democratic gubernatorial candidate can hope, therefore, to garner votes on the veiled premise that a ballot for him would be a nudge toward something bigger.

The Minnesingers

By John Crosby

TORREMOLINOS, Spain

"I'm starving and I always lose weight when I starve," complained Mitch Greenman, a bearded, bespectacled guitar player who describes himself as "a square beatnik." At other times, he's likely to deny that he's a beat at all because it might worry his mother. "There's a lot of good little Jewish boy in me."

Still, he's been on the bum with his guitar for two years through Europe now. Currently he's sleeping in a house that is about to be torn down, one of the beat dodges for avoiding rent. Another is sleeping in cells, which the beats slip into after the owner is in bed and get out of before he gets up. Mitch has done that, too. His girl is in a hospital in Gibraltar, suffering mostly from self-inflicted hardship. "She's new to the life," explained Mitch, "and it takes a bit of getting used to. It's a very hard life."

"I need money," he admitted. "The beats always talk about money and the capitalists always talk about art. You always talk about what you haven't got."

He's been unable to play his guitar for two months because his shoulder was operated on in Madrid, but before that he had always been able to earn a living for himself and his girls and sometimes his girls' children. Once in Paris, his guitar earned a living for five people, two girls and two children and himself. "I've lived in some beautiful places too. I lived in a lovely house in Marrakech and a lovely apartment in Madrid. There are people who like to be known as patrons of the arts."

Mitch is an interesting beat (if he is one) because he'd like to travel first class and play on the Ed Sullivan show, two of the squarest aspirations a man can have. "The real hip person, the really worthwhile people, are always a little square," he thinks.

Mitch estimates there are at least a thousand people on the bum throughout Europe. A good many are Americans who are, he says, rather special beats. "It takes something extra to get over here. Anyone can be a beat in the States." There are a lot of Dutch beats on the roads. They're revolting against all that boring Dutch scene. There's a lot of English. I don't like the French so I don't know about them."

Actually Mitch belongs to an ancient profession: troubadors have been strolling through Europe for a thousand or so years, playing stringed instruments for their food and sleeping on floors. But the life is getting tougher all the time. "In Spain, it's frightening: it's so expensive," says Mitch. (Mitch is locally renowned for a deadpan remark made in absolute earnest after a trip to New York. Someone asked him how he liked Torremolinos, and he said: "It's awfully expensive after New York.")

Spain used to be the last refuge of the bargain hunters. "If Spain prices itself out, where do people go — people who have no money?" He thought about it a moment, then said, "But something always turns up. I've never been to Italy. I'd like to go, but I hear it's expensive, too."

Torremolinos is playing host to a couple of other strolling troubadors — a couple of college girls named Pat Street and Susan Manchester, who cut out (as they say) from Pembroke College in Providence three months before graduating and have been going through Europe ever since, playing the guitar and singing. "We're sleeping on a roof," she explained. "It's not bad, but it gets pretty hot when the sun comes up."

Pat and Susan claim to be the only two American girls who ever made a living playing and singing in the streets of Paris. "We used to make 4,000 (old) francs (roughly $8) in an hour-and-a-half. Here we'd make 500 pesetas (about $10) with an hour-and-a-half of work. But then the police stopped us." It's against the law almost everywhere in Europe to earn money without a work permit, but some countries enforce it strictly; others don't.

When I first laid eyes on Pat, she was passing the hat around not for her own act but for a trio of English boys who play and sing in Pedro's. I asked her who were the most generous tippers—Americans? "Americans," said Pat scornfully, "are the stingiest people on earth. They're always afraid they're being taken. In Paris we made our money from the French, some from the Germans, hardly anything from the Americans."

Danish Group Steps Up Anti-Smoking Campaign

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The rising incidence of lung cancer prompted the Danish Cancer society to step up its anti-smoking campaign. The group decided to begin where smoking starts — among school children. A nation-wide poster contest was announced — open to every school child and a few professionals.

Cash prizes were offered for the best placards describing the hazards of tobacco. About 6,400 posters were submitted to the judges and the top 10 were exhibited in Copenhagen's town hall, along with many others. Some of the pictures were awesome enough to scare the nicotine out of a confirmed chain smoker.

A study of 445 French mothers having their first baby disproved an old belief that deliveries are more difficult in athletic women because of the increased size of the pelvic muscles. An exercise training program of six to eight weeks was aimed at facilitating delivery. The women with strong athletic backgrounds were the most successful graduates of the program. They were better able to augment their respiratory capacity so that they have an easier time.

College life is not all beer and skittles. A 10 year health study by the University of Wisconsin showed that psychiatric problems ranked third among ailments in the student population. The investigators suggest that the availability of psychiatric services may have brought to light a higher incidence of emotional problems than would have been detected ordinarily.

Be that as it may, it is well that these young people are sensible enough to seek help when their stresses mount unbearably, rather than to try to muddle through.

BACKACHE FROM GOLF

Mrs. F. writes: I have a problem that makes me mad. Every time I play golf I get a burning, pinching pain in the middle of my back. I have to lie down on a heating pad to get relief. Will I have to give up golf?

REPLY

There are not many muscular, fibrous, or joint conditions that will force a golfer to give up the game, provided the source of pain is known. Consult your physician for an examination, including a detailed analysis of what brings on the pain while playing golf. X-rays may be needed.

ACNE AND FOODS

E. A. writes: I read that sweets and fried foods don't make acne worse. I've been told for years that they do. Is this new idea proved?

REPLY

The cause of acne varies and food is only part of the picture. More important are skin bacteria and changes in the oil secreting glands. Some youngsters find that sweets or fried foods aggravate the condition but do not necessarily bring pimples and blackheads.

THYMUS GLAND

W. G. writes: Can an enlarged thymus gland have any fatal effects at puberty?

REPLY

The gland is large at birth and tends to shrink thereafter. For example, if the enlargement were cancerous it could prove serious. In addition, there appears to be a relationship between myasthenia gravis and the thymus.

INTESTINAL GAS

R. K. writes: Can an overabundance of intestinal gas lead to a serious disorder?

REPLY

Now and then this symptom is a sign of a serious disorder. But the usual causes are swallowing air, bolting food, and eating gas forming foods.

HEART WARNINGS

F. U. writes: Are there any warnings of an impending heart attack in a person of 61—say a year or two ahead of time?

REPLY

Among the omens are rising blood pressure, a high cholesterol level, an enlarged heart, and obesity.

LUNG AFFLICTIONS

R. S. writes: Could asthma cause tuberculosis?

REPLY

Yes, but it would be unusual. It could occur if the individual is allergic to the tubercle bacilli. Wheezing from damage to the bronchi caused by tuberculosis does take place.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

When Sarah Bernhardt, the great French actress, was touring Nevada, she was interviewed by an alert and attractive young reporter named Sam Davis, who told her, "I'm doing this not only for my own paper in Carson, Nevada, but for the San Francisco Examiner, and the United Press."

Miss Bernhardt was delighted with him, and when he rose to go she kissed him first on each cheek, then squarely on the lips. "The right cheek for your paper in Carson," she explained, "the left for the Examiner, and the lips, my friend, for yourself."

Davis took this tribute in stride. "Madame Bernhardt," he announced impressively, "I also represent the United Press, which serves over 60 papers west of the Mississippi River alone."

There's a man in the Chicago weather bureau named Charles Fairskies! Furthermore, Mr. Fairskies received this message recently from a suburbanite in Glencoe: "Dear Mr. Fairskies: I thought you'd like to know that I have just shoveled eleven inches of Partly Cloudy off my driveway."

"What a pity," sighed a mother of seven, "that you can't treat your first child the way you treat your first pancake: just throw it away!"

Teddy Kennedy And The Senate

Besides Arthur Schlesinger Jr. there is an Arthur Schlesinger who regards the political scene with judgment unswayed by his son's presence on the White House payroll.

The old professor joined in a statement by the ubiquitous and perennial National Committee for an Effective Congress which suggested that Teddy Kennedy has somewhat less than the required stature for the Senate seat he seeks.

Moreover, President Kennedy cannot "disclaim responsibility" for his brother's candidacy which, the committee continued, is creating resentment that could damage the President's career.

To the inevitable press conference question, the President replied that he thought "the people of Massachusetts can make a more effective judgment (a word he never does without) for a more effective Congress than even this committee, and I think they will."

Nobody asked the next question, which is whether the people of Massachusetts will be permitted to make their "judgment" without the intensive coaching which the Kennedys, as the McCormacks and others have discovered, can support with infinite resources.

The Schlesinger committee said the Kennedy candidacy is an "affront" to the Senate, which likes to consider that Senate membership is "earned through some measure of achievement and service." Whether the junior professor will now call the senior professor an "idiot" is an intriguing question.

But the melancholy fact is that, if elected, little brother wouldn't be the first Senator who failed to meet this standard.

I came back to Berlin in the summer of 1951. We were launching balloons from the Bavarian border near Munich into Czechoslovakia and Poland to reach the people behind the then airtight Iron Curtain.

Berlin was more attractive in the August sunshine. The geraniums were cheerful and brilliant on the balconies along the avenues. They helped divert attention from the ghastly remnants of war. But Berlin still remained a city of tragedy.

The Defense Department in Washington in 1951 had begun to urge the German government to build its own army—just the opposite of the restrictions we had imposed upon them during the years after the war ended.

But the German people I talked to wanted to follow our first advice, not our second. They did not want another army. They did not want to risk another war. The youngsters around Berlin talked of military service as something to be avoided like the plague. Despite the bright geraniums and the August sunshine, they saw and remembered the charred and grizzly skeletons of war.

Remarkable Change

I have been back to Berlin almost every year in recent years. The change is remarkable. Not only has the city been 75 per cent rebuilt, but even more remarkable has been the rebuilding of the public mind.

The older residents remember the suffering of war. Plenty of skeletons remain to remind them. But the young men who 10 years ago talked against military service have been replaced by a new generation which stones American military vehicles.

It was only a short time ago that Berliners were erecting monuments in commemoration of American fliers who heroically broke the Berlin blockade. It was only a short time ago that they were giving thanks for the American dollars that helped rebuild Berlin. But last week young Berliners, 10,000 strong, marched to Checkpoint Charlie where American troops guard the gate to East Berlin to hurl accusations that the United States is to blame for Berlin's divided dilemma and inferences that the American people should go to war—once again—for the city of Berlin.

It may be that on the first point they are right; that through procrastination we are, in part, to blame. Whether on the second point they are right—whether Berlin once again is going to take us into war—must be covered in future columns.

Russia's Disappointing 'Fourth Generation'

By David Miller

MOSCOW

A generation born and nurtured under the realities of Marxism-Leninism is beginning to mature in a world torn by the most convulsive struggle in modern history.

Who are they, these teen-agers and young adults on whom the hopes of the Soviet Union and communism rest? Is there really a "new" Soviet man, a figure idealized as mankind's wave of the future?

Of all the criteria used to evaluate the Soviet Union, few are as important to the West. The consequences are enormous, for an integral part of Soviet philosophy is Lenin's dictum that a new kind of man will throw off the vestiges of present burgeois life and emerge as a cleansed, heroic figure.

By any test of courage and technical excellence, the Soviet Union's four cosmonauts meet every requirement. Near them must be ranked thousands of others, the lesser known who are dedicated to building a new society.

But the same cannot be said of the broad base of young Soviets. Interest in the material far outweights the spiritual appeal of sacrifice and devotion which once explained every inconvenience and shortage.

Young people in increasing numbers are leaving the rugged, primitive life of the virgin lands, the massive attempt to bring agricultural fruits to marginal land. The hardships are simply too much.

Fewer and fewer young Soviets willingly accept assignments in the desolate Far East. The best jobs are in Moscow and Leningrad—and everyone knows it.

So few young Soviets have gone into teaching Marxism-Leninism that a serious shortage has developed both on the university level and in Communist party and youth organizations.

Membership in Komsomol, the Young Communist League, has remained relatively unchanged for the past eight years, despite an increasing pool of potential members. For every Soviet between 14 and 28 who joins, two do not.

Enrollment stands at 19,400,000 (of the 52 million eligible), but only because the minimum age was lowered last April from 15 to 14 and penalties for lax members were downgraded. No one now is expelled because of failure to pay dues. The older members continue to leave.

Young writers, although praised for their freshness, lack of prejudice, and personal observation, are continually criticized for their inability to think "profoundly, largely, and socially."

In all of the new Soviet literature there has yet to emerge a single figure capable of being regarded as a heroic representation of the new generation. The older generation finds the characterization intellectually and socially immature.

Penalties for juvenile delinquency have been increased with the creation of special courts authorized to confine children [illegible] age 11 to 19 in special "educational institutions."

The Soviets themselves know all of these things only too well. Their information comes from official Soviet sources—the government-controlled press — and reflects a concern that cannot be hidden.

This "fourth generation," a phrase that began to circulate in Moscow last summer, was brought up under the slogans and banners of a revolution already won.

But the sterotype of "capitalist colonialism," which once seemed so pointed and all-consuming, now seems terribly out of date in an era made enormously complex by political and technological change.

Young Soviets have lived through the denouement of the infallible Stalin—the man ordinary Soviets call "he who was" and the Soviet press calls the "head of the Soviet state at that time."

For these youngsters witnessed the bewilderment of parents exposed to the bitter revelations of the cult of personality. It is more than possible that all this has made the younger generation cynical and resentful of an older generation that failed.

But let no one in the West believe the younger Soviet generation is ready to reject the only social system it knows. The possibility is remote. But the road ahead is far from clear.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NOVEMBER ELECTIONS — This November's elections will be of more than usual importance because of their bearing on the 1964 presidential race. And the place to watch will be the gubernatorial contests where the Republican Party most likely will reach for its presidential and vice presidential candidates.

The party's two hottest presidential prospects are Nelson A. Rockefeller, up for re-election as governor of New York, and Richard M. Nixon, running for the top California job. Rockefeller must win big to keep his political luster from tarnishing, but any win will be big for Nixon in California, although he has pledged to serve out his four-year term there, if elected.

In two other states, whose present chief executives are Democrats, Republican candidates of potential presidential caliber are making strong runs. Should either or both win, they would automatically become political factors at the 1964 GOP National Convention.

One is George Romney, auto tycoon, who is making an excellent showing so far in his race for the Michigan Statehouse. The other is William W. Scranton, who threatens to win Pennsylvania's gubernatorial office.

Another GOP governor up for re-election is Mark Hatfield, of Oregon, who has a considerable national following and who is expected to win handily in this year's contest. And still another name is James A. Rhodes, who, some people think, can upset Mike DiSalle in Ohio.

Fortunately for all of these GOP hopefuls, the top 1964 Democratic candidates most likely will be John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. No Democratic gubernatorial candidate can hope, therefore, to garner votes on the veiled premise that a ballot for him would be a nudge toward something bigger.

The Minnesingers

TORREMOLINOS, Spain

"I'm starving and I always lose weight when I starve," complained Mitch Greenman, a bearded, bespectacled guitar player who describes himself as "a square beatnik." At other times, he's likely to deny that he's a beat at all because it might worry his mother. "There's a lot of good little Jewish boy in me."

Still, he's been on the bum with his guitar for two years through Europe now. Currently he's sleeping in a house that is about to be torn down, one of the beat dodges for avoiding rent. Another is sleeping in cells, which the beats slip into after the owner is in bed and get out of before he gets up. Mitch has done that, too. His girl is in a hospital in Gibraltar, suffering mostly from self-inflicted hardship. "She's new to the life," explained Mitch, "and it takes a bit of getting used to. It's a very hard life."

"I need money," he admitted. "The beats always talk about money and the capitalists always talk about art. You always talk about what you haven't got."

He's been unable to play his guitar for two months because his shoulder was operated on in Madrid, but before that he had always been able to earn a living for himself and his girls and sometimes his girls' children. Once in Paris, his guitar earned a living for five people, two girls and two children and himself. "I've lived in some beautiful places too. I lived in a lovely house in Marrakech and a lovely apartment in Madrid. There are people who like to be known as patrons of the arts."

Mitch is an interesting beat (if he is one) because he'd like to travel first class and play on the Ed Sullivan show, two of the squarest aspirations a man can have. "The real hip person, the really worthwhile people, are always a little square," he thinks.

Mitch estimates there are at least a thousand people on the bum throughout Europe. A good many are Americans who are, he says, rather special beats. "It takes something extra to get over here. Anyone can be a beat in the States." There are a lot of Dutch beats on the roads. They're revolting against all that boring Dutch scene. There's a lot of English. I don't like the French so I don't know about them."

Actually Mitch belongs to an ancient profession; troubadors have been strolling through Europe for a thousand or so years, playing stringed instruments for their food and sleeping on floors. But the life is getting tougher all the time. "In Spain, it's frightening; it's so expensive," says Mitch. (Mitch is locally renowned for a deadpan remark made in absolute earnest after a trip to New York. Someone asked him how he liked Torremolinos, and he said: "It's awfully expensive after New York.")

Spain used to be the last refuge of the bargain hunters. "If Spain prices itself out, where do people go — people who have no money?" He thought about it a moment, then said, "But something always turns up. I've never been to Italy. I'd like to go, but I hear it's expensive, too."

Torremolinos is playing host to a couple of other strolling troubadors — a couple of college girls named Pat Street and Susan Manchester, who cut out (as they say) from Pembroke College in Providence three months before graduating and have been going through Europe ever since, playing the guitar and singing. "We're sleeping on a roof," she explained. "It's not bad, but it gets pretty hot when the sun comes up."

Pat and Susan claim to be the only two American girls who ever made a living playing and singing in the streets of Paris. "We used to make 4,000 (old) francs (roughly $8) in an hour-and-a-half. Here we'd make 500 pesetas (about $10) with an hour-and-a-half of work. But then the police stopped us." It's against the law almost everywhere in Europe to earn money without a work permit, but some countries enforce it strictly; others don't.

When I first laid eyes on Pat, she was passing the hat around not for her own act but for a trio of English boys who play and sing in Pedro's. I asked her who were the most generous tippers—Americans? "Americans," said Pat scornfully, "are the stingiest people on earth. They're always afraid they're being taken. In Paris we made our money from the French, some from the Germans, hardly anything from the Americans."

Danish Group Steps Up Anti-Smoking Campaign

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The rising incidence of lung cancer prompted the Danish Cancer society to step up its anti-smoking campaign. The group decided to begin where smoking starts — among school children. A nation-wide poster contest was announced — open to every school child and a few professionals.

Cash prizes were offered for the best placards describing the hazards of tobacco. About 6,400 posters were submitted to the judges and the top 10 were exhibited in Copenhagen's town hall, along with many others. Some of the pictures were awesome enough to scare the nicotine out of a confirmed chain smoker.

A study of 445 French mothers having their first baby disproved an old belief that deliveries are more difficult in athletic women because of the increased size of the pelvic muscles. An exercise training program of six to eight weeks was aimed at facilitating delivery. The women with strong athletic backgrounds were the most successful graduates of the program. They were better able to augment their respiratory capacity so that they have an easier time.

College life is not all beer and skittles. A 10 year health study by the University of Wisconsin showed that psychiatric problems ranked third among ailments in the student population. The investigators suggest that the availability of psychiatric services may have brought to light a higher incidence of emotional problems than would have been detected ordinarily.

Be that as it may, it is well that these young people are sensible enough to seek help when their stresses mount unbearably, rather than to try to muddle through.

BACKACHE FROM GOLF

Mrs. F. writes: I have a problem that makes me mad. Every time I play golf I get a burning, pinching pain in the middle of my back. I have to lie down on a heating pad to get relief. Will I have to give up golf?

REPLY

There are not many muscular, fibrous, or joint conditions that will force a golfer to give up the game, provided the source of pain is known. Consult your physician for an examination, including a detailed analysis of what brings on the pain while playing golf. X-rays may be needed.

ACNE AND FOODS

E. A. writes: I read that sweets and fried foods don't make acne worse. I've been told for years that they do. Is this new idea proved?

REPLY

The cause of acne varies and food is only part of the picture. More important are skin bacteria and changes in the oil secreting glands. Some youngsters find that sweets or fried foods aggravate the condition but do not necessarily bring pimples and blackheads.

THYMUS GLAND

W. G. writes: Can an enlarged thymus gland have any fatal effects at puberty?

REPLY

The gland is large at birth and tends to shrink thereafter. For example, if the enlargement were cancerous it could prove serious. In addition, there appears to be a relationship between myasthenia gravis and the thymus.

INTESTINAL GAS

R. K. writes: Can an overabundance of intestinal gas lead to a serious disorder?

REPLY

Now and then this symptom is a sign of a serious disorder. But the usual causes are swallowing air, bolting food, and eating gas forming foods.

HEART WARNINGS

F. U. writes: Are there any warnings of an impending heart attack in a person of 61—say a year or two ahead of time?

REPLY

Among the omens are rising blood pressure, a high cholesterol level, an enlarged heart, and obesity.

LUNG AFFLICTIONS

R. S. writes: Could asthma cause tuberculosis?

REPLY

Yes, but it would be unusual. It could occur if the individual is allergic to the tubercle bacilli. Wheezing from damage to the bronchi caused by tuberculosis does take place.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

When Sarah Bernhardt, the great French actress, was touring Nevada, she was interviewed by an alert and attractive young reporter named Sam Davis, who told her, "I'm doing this not only for my own paper in Carson, Nevada, but for the San Francisco Examiner, and the United Press."

Miss Bernhardt was delighted with him, and when he rose to go she kissed him first on each cheek, then squarely on the lips. "The right cheek for your paper in Carson," she explained, "the left for the Examiner, and the lips, my friend, for yourself."

Davis took this tribute in stride. "Madame Bernhardt," he announced impressively, "I also represent the United Press, which serves over 60 papers west of the Mississippi River alone."

There's a man in the Chicago weather bureau named Charles Fairskies! Furthermore, Mr. Fairskies received this message recently from a suburbanite in Glencoe: "Dear Mr. Fairskies: I thought you'd like to know that I have just shoveled eleven inches of Partly Cloudy off my driveway."

"What a pity," sighed a mother of seven, "that you can't treat your first child the way you treat your first pancake: just throw it away!"

City To Offer 17 More Lots For Public Sale

Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill has told the Mayor and Council 17 more lots are believed available for sale within the city and a check is being made to see no prior commitment for recreation purposes has been made.

Hill did not identify the lots but said City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum is making an investigation. Those found available will be made public in the next two weeks.

Hill also announced that Lots 11, 12, 13 and 14 in Plot 6 of Ridge Avenue are available. The lots may be purchased individually or as a group. The purchaser, however, must agree to allow a sewer to be placed and to assume his share of the cost.

Also available is a 114-foot front lot between 714-722 on Fayette Street, Hill said.

Deadline for bidding on a Linwood Street lot advertised previously will be at the regular meeting of the Mayor and Council next Tuesday. The regular Monday session was cancelled because of the Labor Day holiday.

Nuzum said for sale signs are being placed on city-owned lots as they are made available.

B&O Engineer Retires After 45 Years Service

A passenger train engineer for the past 17 years, Harry C. Thompson Sr., 476 Williams Street, has retired after a total of 45 years with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

For the last five years, he was engineer on the Speedliner between here and Washington. He boasts no serious accidents in his long service record.

Thompson began with the B&O as a fireman on September 22, 1917, and was promoted to engineer on June 16, 1931. Since 1945 he has been in passenger service.

For the past 25 years he has been a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

He was married to the former Hester Ferguson on September 7, 1915, and they have four children, Allen E. Thompson, Norfolk; Harry Thompson Jr., Baltimore; Mrs. Rosalle Breland, Martinsburg, and Mrs. Bertice Yost, Wheaton.

"Ball and Chain," as he is known among railroaders, plans to continue his hunting and fishing and also his hobby of wood carving in his shop at home.

Wife Preservers

Bluish heat marks on the sides of stainless steel cooking utensils can be removed with copper polish or scouring powder on a cloth.

Trying to cut down on smoking? Some authorities recommend substituting the luxury of two or three 15-minute baths per day, as a compensation for the smoking pleasure you're giving up.

To remove food stuck on ironware, soak utensil in hot water with a little washing soda, boiling if necessary. Then wash, using scouring powder. Baking soda in the rinse will retard rusting.

Cheese And Noodle Bake

5 ounces medium noodles (2½ cups)
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1—4 oz. can mushroom stems and pieces
1¼ cups milk and mushroom liquid
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups creamed cottage cheese (16 oz.)
1 cup shredded sharp American cheese (¼ lb.)

Cook noodles in boiling salted water only until tender; drain and rinse thoroughly with cold water, drain again. Melt butter in a saucepan over low heat, add onion and cook until tender but not brown. Add flour and seasonings and blend. Drain liquid from mushrooms and add enough milk to measure 1¼ cups. Add milk mixture to butter-flour mixture stirring constantly and cook until thickened and bubbling. Add lemon juice stirring briskly. Add Worcestershire sauce. Combine noodles, mushrooms, cottage cheese and sauce mixing lightly; pour into a buttered 2 quart baking dish. Cover with shredded cheese and bake in a moderate oven, 350° for 25 to 30 minutes, or until mixture is thoroughly heated and the cheese is lightly browned. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Ventriloquism is an ancient art, known to the Greeks, who thought that it was the work of mobs of demons.

Lamb Kabobs

The accent is on tastiness in these Kabobs. The onions offer their own cocky pungency. The mushrooms are of velvet delicacy the cherry tomatoes and green pepper squares tangily juicy. And, above all, the lamb cubes are kissed with a gentle spiciness and teasing aroma.

"Whatever yourve done to the lamb, it certainly tastes good," will be the comment. Well, tell or not as you wish. Actually, that gourmet flavor is achieved in a completely no-fuss way. The lamb cubes are simply marinated ahead of time in Italian dressing . . . just long enough to pick up a hint of the wild marjoram and garlic and spices of the dressing. Then before the kabobs go over the charcoal to broil they are brushed generously from end to end with more of the Italian dressing. Nice going.

Along with the smoking hot kabobs you might serve well chilled green salad, chunky rounds of crusty bread and robust iced tea by the tall glassfull. No wonder summer cook-outs can be so cheery!

Lamb Kabobs

2 pounds leg of lamb
⅓ cup Italian Dressing
1 large green pepper
12 whole mushrooms
6 small onions
12 cherry tomatoes

Have butcher cut lamb into 1½ inch cubes. Place in shallow dish. Pour real Italian Dressing over meat. Marinate 3 hours. Clean pepper and cut into squares. Alternate on skewers, lamb cubes, green pepper squares, small onions and cherry tomatoes. Brush with marinade. Broil directly over charcoal to desired doneness. If desired, serve on bed of rice with a green salad tossed with more of the Italian Dressing. Makes 5-6 servings.

Note: To prepare kabobs in range, follow above directions. Place on broiler pan 4 or 5 inches from source of heat. Broil 8 to 10 minutes or until brown on each side.

Sunday Night Spaghetti

(Serves 6)

6 slices bacon, diced
1 large onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 can condensed tomato soup
½ cup California Burgundy
1 (4-oz.) can mushrooms, undrained
1 (No. 303) can cream-style corn
½ lb. natural American Cheddar cheese, grated
Salt and pepper to taste
½ lb. spaghetti, cooked and drained

Fry bacon, onion and green pepper together slowly until bacon is done. Add all remaining ingredients except 1 cup cheese; mix well. Turn into casserole; sprinkle with rest of cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour.

Chiliburgundies

(Serves 4)

1 pound ground beef
3 tablespoons bacon drippings or other fat
2 (15-oz.) cans chili con carne with beans
⅔ cup Claret or other red dinner wine
2 hamburger buns, halved, toasted and buttered

Shape ground beef into 4 flat cakes of the same diameter as the hamburger buns; brown well on both sides in bacon drippings. While cakes are browning, heat chili con carne to boiling; stir in wine. Pour chili mixture over browned cakes; cover and simmer for 5 minutes. To serve, place a bun half on each of four plates; top bun with a meat cake; pour chili mixture over all.

Inside this new Heinz jar...
BETTER FOOD FOR YOUR BABY!

New easy-serve jars have wider openings so you can easily spoon out the last nourishing bit of Heinz Baby Foods!
New easy-read labels tell you the variety names in large letters you can read quickly. Strained foods have red labels, Junior foods, blue.
• Easy-open safety sealed screw-on caps of pure aluminum reseal safely, can't tarnish, can't taint baby's food. Strained foods have red caps; Junior foods, blue.
New quick-cooked Heinz Baby Foods are so superior that they're easily winning out in nationwide preference tests, comparing them with baby foods of Heinz major competitor!

OVER 500 NEW MOTHERS from all parts of the U.S.A. are doing the voting in these impartial tests, comparing typical varieties of the new quick-cooked Heinz Baby Foods with the same varieties as prepared by Heinz major competitor.
• Absolute impartiality is assured by removing all brand identification from the jars before judging.
• First completed tests show that for flavor, texture and color, mothers indicated a 4-to-1 preference for Heinz Strained Vegetables and Beef, and a 2½-to-1 preference for Heinz Strained Macaroni, Tomatoes, Beef and Bacon over the other brand.
• These results are confirming the fact that Heinz new quick-cooking process (U.S. Patent No. 2,967,773) definitely produces baby foods that taste better, are brighter, more natural in color, and even smoother in texture.
• As every mother knows, the quicker you cook foods the more of their fresh, natural flavor, color and food values you retain. This is what Heinz new process does; it cooks baby food in 3 to 5 seconds, instead of the usual 25 to 30 minutes. You can imagine what a difference this tremendous speed-up in cooking makes!
• For example, one difference is shown in laboratory tests of Heinz Chicken Noodle Dinner, which contains 45% more vitamin $B_1$, (thiamine), 61% more vitamin $B_2$, (riboflavin), and 31% more niacin than when this same variety is kettle-cooked the conventional way.
• Both Strained and Junior Heinz Baby Foods are being cooked by the new Heinz process, and most varieties are available at your store.
• There is no increase in price for these new, superior Heinz Baby Foods, so start your baby on them right away. The good they do your baby now will last a lifetime!

To remove food stuck on ironware, soak utensil in hot water with a little washing soda, boiling if necessary. Then wash, using scouring powder. Baking soda in the rinse will retard rusting.

Cheese And Noodle Bake

5 ounces medium noodles 2½ cups)
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon dry mustard
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1—4 oz. can mushroom stems and pieces
1¼ cups milk and mushroom liquid
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups creamed cottage cheese (16 oz.)
1 cup shredded sharp American cheese (¼ lb.)

Cook noodles in boiling salted water only until tender; drain and rinse thoroughly with cold water, drain again. Melt butter in a saucepan over low heat, add onion and cook until tender but not brown. Add flour and seasonings and blend. Drain liquid from mushrooms and add enough milk to measure 1¼ cups. Add milk mixture to butter-flour mixture stirring constantly and cook until thickened and bubbling. Add lemon juice stirring briskly. Add Worcestershire sauce. Combine noodles, mushrooms, cottage cheese and sauce mixing lightly; pour into a buttered 2 quart baking dish. Cover with shredded cheese and bake in a moderate oven, 350° for 25 to 30 minutes, or until mixture is thoroughly heated and the cheese is lightly browned. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Ventriloquism is an ancient art, known to the Greeks, who thought that it was the work of mobs of demons.

Lamb Kabobs

The accent is on tastiness in these Kabobs. The onions offer their own cocky pungency. The mushrooms are of velvet delicacy the cherry tomatoes and green pepper squares tangily juicy. And, above all, the lamb cubes are kissed with a gentle spiciness and teasing aroma.

"Whatever yourve done to the lamb, it certainly tastes good," will be the comment. Well, tell or not as you wish. Actually, that gourmet flavor is achieved in a completely no-fuss way. The lamb cubes are simply marinated ahead of time in Italian dressing . . . just long enough to pick up a hint of the wild marjoram and garlic and spices of the dressing. Then before the kabobs go over the charcoal to broil they are brushed generously from end to end with more of the Italian Dressing. Nice going.

Along with the smoking hot kabobs you might serve well chilled green salad, chunky rounds of crusty bread and robust iced tea by the tall glassfull. No wonder summer cook-outs can be so cheery!

Lamb Kabobs

2 pounds leg of lamb
⅓ cup Italian Dressing
1 large green pepper
12 whole mushrooms
6 small onions
12 cherry tomatoes

Have butcher cut lamb into 1½ inch cubes. Place in shallow dish. Pour real Italian Dressing over meat. Marinate 3 hours. Clean pepper and cut into squares. Alternate on skewers, lamb cubes, green pepper squares, small onions and cherry tomatoes. Brush with marinade. Broil directly over charcoal to desired doneness. If desired, serve on bed of rice with a green salad tossed with more of the Italian Dressing. Makes 5-6 servings.

Note: To prepare kabobs in range, follow above directions. Place on broiler pan 4 or 5 inches from source of heat. Broil 8 to 10 minutes or until brown on each side.

Sunday Night Spaghetti

(Serves 6)

6 slices bacon, diced
1 large onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 can condensed tomato soup
½ cup California Burgundy
1 (4-oz.) can mushrooms, undrained
1 (No. 303) can cream-style corn
½ lb. natural American Cheddar cheese, grated
Salt and pepper to taste
½ lb. spaghetti, cooked and drained

Fry bacon, onion and green pepper together slowly until bacon is done. Add all remaining ingredients except 1 cup cheese; mix well. Turn into casserole; sprinkle with rest of cheese. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 1 hour.

Chiliburgundies

(Serves 4)

1 pound ground beef
3 tablespoons bacon drippings or other fat
2 (15-oz.) cans chili con carne with beans
⅔ cup Claret or other red dinner wine
2 hamburger buns, halved, toasted and buttered

Shape ground beef into 4 flat cakes of the same diameter as the hamburger buns; brown well on both sides in bacon drippings. While cakes are browning, heat chili con carne to boiling; stir in wine. Pour chili mixture over browned cakes; cover and simmer for 5 minutes. To serve, place a bun half on each of four plates; top bun with a meat cake; pour chili mixture over all.

Inside this new Heinz jar...
BETTER FOOD FOR YOUR BABY!

◀ New easy-serve jars have wider openings so you can easily spoon out the last nourishing bit of Heinz Baby Foods!
◀ New easy-read labels tell you the variety names in large letters you can read quickly. Strained foods have red labels, Junior foods, blue.
• Easy-open safety sealed screw-on caps of pure aluminum reseal safely, can't tarnish, can't taint baby's food. Strained foods have red caps; Junior foods, blue.
New quick-cooked Heinz Baby Foods are so superior that they're easily winning out in nationwide preference tests, comparing them with baby foods of Heinz major competitor!

OVER 500 NEW MOTHERS from all parts of the U.S.A. are doing the voting in these impartial tests, comparing typical varieties of the new quick-cooked Heinz Baby Foods with the same varieties as prepared by Heinz major competitor.
• Absolute impartiality is assured by removing all brand identification from the jars before judging.
• First completed tests show that for flavor, texture and color, mothers indicated a 4-to-1 preference for Heinz Strained Vegetables and Beef, and a 2½-to-1 preference for Heinz Strained Macaroni, Tomatoes, Beef and Bacon over the other brand.
• These results are confirming the fact that Heinz new quick-cooking process (U.S. Patent No. 2,967,773) definitely produces baby foods that taste better, are brighter, more natural in color, and even smoother in texture.
• As every mother knows, the quicker you cook foods the more of their fresh, natural flavor, color and food values you retain. This is what Heinz new process does; it cooks baby food in 3 to 5 seconds, instead of the usual 25 to 30 minutes. You can imagine what a difference this tremendous speed-up in cooking makes!
• For example, one difference is shown in laboratory tests of Heinz Chicken Noodle Dinner, which contains 45% more vitamin $B_1$, (thiamine), 61% more vitamin $B_2$, (riboflavin), and 31% more niacin than when this same variety is kettle-cooked the conventional way.
• Both Strained and Junior Heinz Baby Foods are being cooked by the new Heinz process, and most varieties are available at your store.
• There is no increase in price for these new, superior Heinz Baby Foods, so start your baby on them right away. The good they do your baby now will last a lifetime!

Unusual Nassau Salads

2 oz. green peppers
2 oz. celery
2 oz. lemons
Juice of 2 lemons
Pinch of cayenne pepper and salt

Cut the raw ingredients into small dice. Add the lemon juice, salt and cayenne pepper. Serve cold. *Oysters or clams may be substituted for the conch. (Webster defines conch as "(1) a large marine univalve shell of spiral and often hornlike appearance, belonging to the order Gastropoda; a mollusk shell, and (2) one of a group of people native to the Florida Keys or the Bahamas; so called from their alleged use of the flesh of the conch as food."

BRONX MEAT SALAD

1 onion
1 piccallili
1 small green pepper
2 hard boiled eggs
3 teaspoons oil
1 tablespoon vinegar
½ tablespoon fine sugar
Pinch of English mustard, salt & pepper

Cut the selected meat, onion, piccallili, green pepper and the two hard boiled eggs into match stick lengths and mix together. Add the oil, vinegar, pepper, salt and mustard and toss the salad well to mix the seasonings. Serve on a bed of crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with a sprinkling of chopped parsley.

PIGS FEET SALAD

2 pigs feet
2 hard boiled eggs
1 tablespoon oil
2 tablespoons mayonnaise dressing
1 tablespoon vinegar
Little chopped parsley

Cook and bone the pigs feet. Cut the meat into match stick lengths and marinate in the oil and vinegar. After placing on a dish, cover with mayonnaise and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Serve surrounded by quarters of hard boiled eggs.

Tabasco Adds Glamor To Clams

While the term "bivalve mollusk" doesn't sound too exciting, just mention clams and the shellfish lover utters little sounds of ecstasy. While there are a variety of ways to serve it, a clam's best landlubber friend is Tabasco, the spicy liquid red pepper.

True aficionados of the succulent mollusk say the real enjoyment comes from eating them on the half shell, or steamed, with a zesty sauce of catchup, chili, horseradish, lemon juice and Tabasco. Simple? Delicious!

If you're not fortunate enough to live in an area where fresh clams are available, you can still enjoy tasty clam cakes and a rich clam bisque thanks to several brands of canned whole and minced clams. These two luscious dishes are so simple to prepare you'll want to serve them often. Keep the little bottle of Tabasco handy; it's the perfect seasoning to enhance the delicate clam flavor.

Tabasco Adds Glamor To Clams

While the term "bivalve mollusk" doesn't sound too exciting, just mention clams and the shellfish lover utters little sounds of ecstasy. While there are a variety of ways to serve it, a clam's best landlubber friend is Tabasco, the spicy liquid red pepper.

True aficionados of the succulent mollusk say the real enjoyment comes from eating them on the half shell, or steamed, with a zesty sauce of catchup, chili, horseradish, lemon juice and Tabasco. Simple? Delicious!

If you're not fortunate enough to live in an area where fresh clams are available, you can still enjoy tasty clam cakes and a rich clam bisque thanks to several brands of canned whole and minced clams. These two luscious dishes are so simple to prepare you'll want to serve them often. Keep the little bottle of Tabasco handy; it's the perfect seasoning to enhance the delicate clam flavor.

Tax withholding was first used in America early in the Civil War, reports the Internal Revenue Service.

Lincoln's Revenue Act of July 1, 1862 is the basis of the present internal revenue system; it provided the first use of tax withholding in America.

Charcoal-Broiled Chicken For Dieters

Broiled chicken is one of the best low-caloried meats for the "Fat American" to feast on, and if you brush it with a small amount of Spanish olive oil before grilling over charcoal, the chicken will take on a nice, even gold-brown without burning. A tablespoon or two of olive oil is all that's needed for one chicken. Blend this amount of oil with ½ teaspoon of powdered cumin (or curry powder), a teaspoon of paprika, and a teaspoon of salt. Brush all over the chicken, under the wings and legs, over back and breast, etc. Olive oil clings better to charcoal-broiled meats than any other oil or fat.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Prices for nearby wheat and soybeans rose more than a cent Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade to lead the entire grain futures list to higher territory.

Wheat closed up ½ to 1⅛, corn up ¼ to ½, oats up ¼ to ¾, rye up ⅛ to ⅝ and soybeans up ¼ to 1⅞.

Wheat prices moved higher from the outset on increased demand by commission houses and light hedge sales. Flour trade was slow, but dealers looked for several large export transactions soon.

Reports that the way was being cleared for debate on new farm legislation also cheered traders, but the outcome remained uncertain. Dealers also planned to watch closely a referendum of wheat growers Thursday.

Corn and oats showed scattered firmness as commission house buying caused local shorts to cover. Some dealers sold corn bo buy wheat.

Local and elevator interests bought oats. Short covering gave rye a firmer tone.

Prices for soybeans and soybean meal strengthened with nearby months up the most. Buying apparently reflected belief that growers may not sell new crop soybeans freely at current prices. A processor bought November, and local shorts took September.

The exchange ordered a reduction of 3 cents a bushel in initial margin requirements on corn and 2 cents in maintenance margins effective Wednesday. Traders said the cuts were intended to stimulate interest in corn.

Exporters credited Denmark with buying 803,000 bushels of soybeans and Japan with 240,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

Tax withholding was first used in America early in the Civil War, reports the Internal Revenue Service.

Lincoln's Revenue Act of July 1, 1862 is the basis of the present internal revenue system; it provided the first use of tax withholding in America.

Charcoal-Broiled Chicken For Dieters

Broiled chicken is one of the best low-caloried meats for the "Fat American" to feast on, and if you brush it with a small amount of Spanish olive oil before grilling over charcoal, the chicken will take on a nice, even gold-brown without burning. A tablespoon or two of olive oil is all that's needed for one chicken. Blend this amount of oil with ½ teaspoon of powdered cumin (or curry powder), a teaspoon of paprika, and a teaspoon of salt. Brush all over the chicken, under the wings and legs, over back and breast, etc. Olive oil clings better to charcoal-broiled meats than any other oil or fat.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Prices for nearby wheat and soybeans rose more than a cent Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade to lead the entire grain futures list to higher territory.

Wheat closed up ½ to 1⅛, corn up ¼ to ½, oats up ¼ to ¾, rye up ⅛ to ⅝ and soybeans up ¼ to 1⅞.

Wheat prices moved higher from the outset on increased demand by commission houses and light hedge sales. Flour trade was slow, but dealers looked for several large export transactions soon.

Reports that the way was being cleared for debate on new farm legislation also cheered traders, but the outcome remained uncertain. Dealers also planned to watch closely a referendum of wheat growers Thursday.

Corn and oats showed scattered firmness as commission house buying caused local shorts to cover. Some dealers sold corn bo buy wheat.

Local and elevator interests bought oats. Short covering gave rye a firmer tone.

Prices for soybeans and soybean meal strengthened with nearby months up the most. Buying apparently reflected belief that growers may not sell new crop soybeans freely at current prices. A processor bought November, and local shorts took September.

The exchange ordered a reduction of 3 cents a bushel in initial margin requirements on corn and 2 cents in maintenance margins effective Wednesday. Traders said the cuts were intended to stimulate interest in corn.

Exporters credited Denmark with buying 803,000 bushels of soybeans and Japan with 240,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

During the past week, the news media have been carrying stories about testing of nuclear weapons both by the Russians and by the United States. The Russians have exploded some very large nuclear weapons; some estimated to be in the range of 30 to 40 megatons. Last week they exploded a smaller weapon, perhaps only twelve megatons. When I say only twelve megatons it is a relative use of the word "only" because twelve megatons is the equivalent of 12 million tons of T.N.T., an enormous explosive force. One shudders at the very thought that it might be employed against civilized cities and communities, wherever they might be in the world.

I have a very personal feeling about the use of nuclear weapons and about their control, because I actually have seen the nuclear ashes of the cities in Japan which were bombed Hiroshima and Nagasaki. I was there within 30 days of the time that the first atom bombs were exploded over these cities, and I know from personal observation the horror which accompanies this kind of nuclear attack.

Now what are we doing in the field of international negotiation to bring about an end to the tests of nuclear weapons? This is one of the most difficult areas of negotiations with the Russians and with the Communist bloc generally. The Russians have for many years rejected the idea of any kind of international inspection which would, in their view, invade the sovereignty and the soil of Russia. We, on the other hand, have from time to time agreed that we would submit to international inspections of nuclear sites. You may recall President Eisenhower's very stirring proposal known as the Open Skies Agreement, which he offered to enter into as a first step, granting the right of countries to fly over each other's territory. Such flights would detect nuclear explosions in violation of a treaty or agreement.

We do not seem to have achieved any progress whatever on the road toward an agreement to limit nuclear testing. I have received a letter from Mr. William C. Foster, the director of the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, who reports that there have been two major technical advances which may help in getting an agreement with the Communist bloc on nuclear testing in the atmosphere and in underground sites. He says that the first of these developments establishes a better capability for long-distance detection of earth tremors caused by nuclear explosions or earthquakes and make it possible to propose a simpler and more economical system of internationally supervised, long-range detection stations.

The second development is a recognition that the earlier estimate of the number of tremors from earthquakes that might be confused with tremors from nuclear explosions has been shown by actual observation and research to be several times too large. Since there are fewer earthquakes which produce tremors similar to those of a nuclear explosion, the number of on-site inspections needed to identify the cause of the tremors is less than was previously thought necessary.

I am personally very glad to know of the technical developments reported by Mr. Foster in his letter. At the same time it seems to me that we must not lose sight of the fact that on-site inspections are essential. Any agreement that can be negotiated with the Russians and with other nuclear powers is going to have to include the right to have on-site inspections by a responsible international authority. Without this, it would be sheer folly for the United States to enter into any agreement limiting the research and development of weapons needed to defend ourselves if nuclear war should be thrust upon us.

Week's Food Economies

Plan well in advance of shopping for foods to serve over the season's last long weekend. Keep in mind family tastes and make this holiday one that gives pleasure to eating and leisure time activities, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economist at the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland.

The wise shopper will watch for specials in red meats. Remember cuts that you would broil in the oven are the same ones that are tender cooked over coals. If a less tender cuts are marinated or a tenderizer is used they probably will be more palatable. Rib and chuck steaks have been particularly attractive in price. Cuts from the loin and sirloin are recommended tender cuts. Roasts from chuck and rib are suggested.

Pork products that are good buys are found in smoked shoulders and ham.

Recommended poultry products are fryers and turkey. Present prices on turkey are low due to the heavy supply of birds in storage.

Sea scallops are in liberal supply. Scallops are one of the best buys since they are all meat with no waste and you get four servings per pound.

Late summer is the time when fresh fruits are enjoyed to the fullest. The best fruit buys are peaches, cantaloupe, watermelon, Bartlett pears and seedless grapes. Peaches are at their seasonal peak. Elbertas and Halehavens are now being marketed. Add a few grapes to colesiaw or to chicken or turkey salad for variety. Watermelon prices are low. When you select Bartlett pears, the fully ripened pears will be a pale yellow and will yield slightly to pressure.

Frozen orange juice is the best citrus buy. At the produce counter the best buys will be found in sweet corn, tomatoes, celery, sweet potatoes and cabbage. Both white and yellow local sweet corn is available. Tomatoes are usually very good in quality. Celery prices are more attractive. The new crop of sweet potatoes is being marketed.

Now is the time to make grape jelly and juice from Concord grapes. Damson plums are also available.

Rice Casserole

1 cup rice
1 can (4-oz.) Button Mushrooms, drained
1 package (10-oz.) frozen mixed vegetables, thawed
1 package (8-oz.) process Cheddar cheese, shredded
1 tablespoon grated onion or instant minced onion
3 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Cook rice following package directions. Combine rice, MUSHROOMS, mixed vegetables, cheese and onion; mix. Blend eggs, milk, salt and pepper; stir into rice mixture. Turn into greased 2-quart shallow baking dish or 2-quart casserole. Cover, using aluminum foil if necessary. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 1 hour or until knife inserted near center comes out clean. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cool Orange Pie

Orange Sherbet Mix and buttermilk team up to make this refrigerator pie. Frothy and glamorous, it's the perfect pie for special company.

In a 9-inch pie plate prepare your favorite crumb crust; chill until firm. Meanwhile, combine 1 cup buttermilk and 1 cup water in mixing bowl. Beat 1 package "Junket" Orange Sherbet Mix into buttermilk mixture until dissolved—about 2 minutes. Pour into ice cube tray. When frozen firm, but not hard, remove from tray to a chilled bowl. Break up frozen mixture with a fork. Beat until fluffy and spoon into pie shell. Freeze. About 30 minutes before serving time remove from freezer to refrigerator.

Public schools in Allegany County will open Wednesday, September 5, at 9 a. m. with a half-day session. There will also be a half-day session September 6 with the first full day's school on Friday, September 7.

Friday there will be a conference of elementary school principals at 9:30 a. m. at the Board of Education building. High school principals will meet at 1:30 p. m. the same day.

Meanwhile, parochial schools will open Thursday, September 6 St. Mary's School, Oldtown Road will hold registration for all pupil on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 4 and 5, from 9 a. m. until noon. Children entering the first grade must be accompanied by a parent.

SS. Peter and Paul School students will register the first day of the new school term tomorrow from 9 a. m. until 11:30 a. m. Class will begin Thursday, September 6, while Ursuline reports Tuesday, September 4.

St. Patrick's School will open Thursday, September 6, with a half-day session that day and also Friday, September 7.

Catholic Girls Central High School freshmen will report Tuesday and Wednesday, September 4 and 5, from 9 a. m. to noon for an orientation program. The school will open Thursday, September 6, for the sophomores, juniors and seniors with half-day session that day and also Friday, September 7.

LaSalle High School will open Wednesday, September 5, with freshmen reporting at 9 a. m. and the sophomores, juniors and seniors at 11 a. m.

Two of the county's parochial schools, St. Michael's of Frostburg and St. Peter's of Westernport, will start the new term with a full schedule of classes next Thursday and Friday. St. Joseph's School, Midland, will have half-day sessions on those two days.

The schedule for St. Francis School, Keyser, calls for registration at 9 a. m. Tuesday, and half-day classes for the remainder of the school week.

SS. Peter and Paul School will start the new term with at least one change in the class schedule. The seventh grade, according to Sister Nunilo, principal, will hold classes in the Parish Hall.

The change was made necessary because of an extra heavy enrollment in the first grade, which will be split into two classes, Sister Nunilo explained.

The change is in line with similar innovations in a number of public schools, notably at Allegany High School, where a staggered system of classes will be inaugurated next week, and at Gephart School, where a new addition has been completed to take care of a heavy enrollment.

Winner Of Model Contest Has His Trophy Stolen

Two city boys, one from Potomac Park and another from LaVale won trophies in the model-plane contest sponsored by the local recruiting office of the Air Force in conjunction with last week's Cumberland Fair.

Charles W. Taylor, 18, of 12 Grand Avenue, was adjudged winner in the missile division; Brownie Harris, 13, LaVale, won in the fighter class; Robert J. Young, 6, Potomac Park, took honors in bombers, and William M. Hartung, 17, of 1826 Frederick Street, got the top prize in the transport class.

Young Harris, however, has not yet received his trophy. His award was stolen from the Air Force exhibit last week at the fair and Staff Sgt. Harold A. Harlow, recruiter in charge of the local office, said if the trophy is not returned, another one will be ordered. Anyone with information leading to the recovery of the trophy is asked to contact the Air Force office in Cumberland's main Post Office.

Recipients of second-place ribbons in the contest were: Rusty Bucy, 12, Route 1, Cumberland; Dennis Stotlemeyer, 12, Cumberland; George Hartung, 15, of 1826 Frederick Street; and Joseph F. Neder, 15, Mt. Savage.

Third-place ribbons went to Milson R. Robinette, 14, of 824 Columbia Avenue; Robert R. Lutton, 12, LaVale; Donald A. Norris, 11, Potomac Park; and Douglas Saylor, 10, Bowling Green.

In addition to his winning entry, young Harris received three honorable mentions, two in fighter and one in transport.

Benefits Of Dam Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two flood control projects in West Virginia, totaling nearly $62 million, have been recommended by the Army Corps of Engineers to be included in the omnibus public works bill.

The bill contains no money and funds for authorized projects will have to be sought in separate legislation through appropriations committees. The Senate public works subcommittee is hearing testimony from the engineers on projects Congress has not yet authorized.

A flood control dam project on the North Branch of the Potomac River in the Bloomington, Maryland area at an estimated $50.9 million, would return $1.60 in benefits for each $1 of cost, the engineers testified.

Another project, an $11 million dam on Twelvepole Creek in Wayne County would yield $1.50 in benefits for every $1 spent, the engineers said.

The engineers estimated that $585,300 in flood damages prevented, $1,283,300 in water supply, $1,593,400 in water quality and $120,700 in recreation would bring annual total benefits of the Potomac River project to $3.5 million.

According to the engineers' calculations, annual benefits of the Twelvepole Creek project were estimated at $571,200, with $316,400 in flood damages prevented and $254,800 in recreation.

NEW YORK (AP) — "How far can this rally go?" has replaced "how long can the market go?" as the No. 1 question on Wall Street.

So says the brokerage firm, A. M. Kidder & Co.

There are a variety of answers among the analysts who keep a close eye on the market.

Kidder points out that the rally last week reached the two-month mark and fell just short of a 100-point correction on the Dow Jones industrial average from the late June lows.

Kidder considers the recent move a rally rather than the beginning of a new bull market because it doesn't believe that bull market conditions prevail.

It says that in order for the general level of prices to climb appreciably from current levels there must be a great upsurge in earnings or a re-evaluation of prevailing price-earnings relationships.

"Even the most optimistic economists do not foresee much improvement in corporate earnings in the next six months," according to Kidder. "The price-earnings multiple of the Dow Jones industrial average now stands at 17.5, hardly a level from which great bull moves have begun in the past."

Another brokerage house, Thomson & McKinnon, is of the opinion that the recovery from a technical standpoint has progressed to a point where trouble is likely to be encountered.

It says that how far the rally can carry will depend on the state of business this fall and winter and the character of events overseas.

Hitch-Hiker Is Killed

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — The death of a young hitch-hiker Tuesday boosted West Virginia's highway toll to 272 for the year, so far.

State Police said the hitch-hiker, tentatively identified as William David Green, about 20, of Annapolis, Md., was killed when the automobile he was driving hit a bridge near here. The identification was made by a Social Security card found in his clothes.

The owner of the car, J. C. Weeks, Hagerstown, Md., told police the hitchhiker told him he was heading for California and asked to be allowed to drive. Weeks said Green, when he took the wheel, turned south across the Potomac River as they approached Hancock and headed back a secondary road at a high rate of speed before he hit the bridge. Weeks suffered only minor injuries.

Refugees Leaving

HAVANA (UPI) — The Uruguayan Embassy announced Wednesday it plans to start ferrying 303 Cuban refugees out of Havana by chartered Mexican airliner Friday.

A spokesman estimated it will take five days to complete the task of moving the Cubans, who have spent months in asylum at the embassy, to the Mexican provincial capital of Merida. Most of them are expected to go on from there to Miami.

Winner Of Model Contest Has His Trophy Stolen

Two city boys, one from Potomac Park and another from LaVale won trophies in the model-plane contest sponsored by the local recruiting office of the Air Force in conjunction with last week's Cumberland Fair.

Charles W. Taylor, 18, of 12 Grand Avenue, was adjudged winner in the missile division; Brownie Harris, 13, LaVale, won in the fighter class; Robert J. Young, 6, Potomac Park, took honors in bombers, and William M. Hartung, 17, of 1826 Frederick Street, got the top prize in the transport class.

Young Harris, however, has not yet received his trophy. His award was stolen from the Air Force exhibit last week at the fair and Staff Sgt. Harold A. Harlow, recruiter in charge of the local office, said if the trophy is not returned, another one will be ordered. Anyone with information leading to the recovery of the trophy is asked to contact the Air Force office in Cumberland's main Post Office.

Recipients of second-place ribbons in the contest were: Rusty Bucy, 12, Route 1, Cumberland; Dennis Stotlemeyer, 12, Cumberland; George Hartung, 15, of 1826 Frederick Street; and Joseph F. Neder, 15, Mt. Savage.

Third-place ribbons went to Milson R. Robinette, 14, of 824 Columbia Avenue; Robert R. Lutton, 12, LaVale; Donald A. Norris, 11, Potomac Park; and Douglas Saylor, 10, Bowling Green.

In addition to his winning entry, young Harris received three honorable mentions, two in fighter and one in transport.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, — "No Strings," Richard Rodgers' Broadway show, has been sold to Eliot Hyman and Ray Stark's Seven Arts Company. Irving Lazar made the deal and although they're not talking out loud, I'm told that the purchase price, plus percentages, will eventually reach $2,000,000.

You won't lose much, I bet, if you put your money on stage star Diahann Carroll repeating in the movie.

Rodgers won the Antoinette Perry Award for his "No Strings" score and will devote his attention to the film project when it starts in Paris. The stage hit is now in its sixth month on Broadway.

"Why I Quit Hollywood" by Robert Wagner, which appeared in the London Sunday Express, is a perfectly ridiculous interview. It deeply shocked me.

Robert, who has "escaped" and now lives in Rome, couldn't seem to say enough terrible things about his former hometown. He said he is never coming back, and it's a good thing after that article.

He says he was called "the man who may be the last example of groomed stardom." I could call him a few dozen other names when I think how he used to hang around and try to get jobs here. And now he says Hollywood doesn't know how to make pictures.

Well, Mr. Wagner, when you tell a gloating reporter on a British newspaper all that "malarky" we don't want you back.

Rock Hudson will take time out in the late fall and go into winter stock. There's a method in his madness. He wants to go on the Broadway stage, and has had this in the back of his head for a long time. He told me when I talked to him last that he wants not only to be a movie star, but a stage actor as well.

Rock is looking for a drama, or a musical, to do on his winter stock tour before he goes into his movie "It Seems There Were These Two Irishmen" at U-I. This is a comedy in which Rock plays both father and son.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Judy Garland telephoned from Lake Tahoe and said she is down to 109 pounds and is as slim as she was in the old days. She knows just where she is going now. I never thought she would really divorce Sid Luft—but she's made up her mind.

Don't get excited about Fred Astaire's tall, good-looking date at the Villa Nova. It was his favorite girl all right—but it was his daughter, Ava.

Sees Featherbed Cut

NEW YORK (UPI) — The top spokesman for the nation's railroads said Wednesday that despite "delaying tactics" by the rail unions changes in work rules to eliminate "featherbedding" will be made, "and in the not too distant future." Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, also predicts that the railroad industry is on the threshold of a bright new future . . . beginning this year."

Tankers Increase

LONDON (UPI) — The world's tanker fleet increased by 1,322,000 tons in the first half of 1962 to about 70,749,389 tons, Lloyds list said Wednesday. British-flag tankers remained the world's largest fleet in terms of tonnage and added 306,000 tons in the half year to 11,742,903 tons. It was followed by Liberia 11,386,199 tons, Norway with 10,259,169 tons and the United States commercial fleet of 7,050,947 tons.

Opening lead: Three of ♠

Altho a contract may be ironclad in the sense that there is no possible defense to defeat it, nevertheless declarer may be required to exercise considerable care in mapping his plan of campaign. South's caution in today's hand paid him a handsome reward in the form of a vulnerable slam.

West opened the three of spades against the final contract of six hearts. The nine was played from the dummy forcing out East's king, and declarer won the trick with the ace. It appeared that, barring a very bad break in clubs, only one trick need be conceded, and that in the spade suit. However, South devised a line of play that would assure success regardless of how clubs were divided.

First he drew the trumps in two rounds. Then he played ace, king and another diamond ruffing the third round in his hand. A small club was led to the dummy's ace as both opponents followed, and now the jack of spades was played.

Regardless of who won the spade trick the defense would be compelled to make a return helpful to declarer. If the defender winning this trick were out of clubs, his forced play of a diamond or a spade would present South with a ruff and sluff. If that defender returned a club and his partner followed, then the suit must break. There is another variation in which the player with the queen of spades has all the missing clubs. If this were East, he would lead back the jack of clubs. South could duck the return to dummy's queen and finesse the suit on the way back.

When it developed that West won the spade trick and led back the jack of clubs, declarer played low from the dummy and won with the king of clubs in his hand. It was routine when East showed out of the suit to lead a small club and take a finesse against West's ten.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, — "No Strings," Richard Rodgers' Broadway show, has been sold to Eliot Hyman and Ray Stark's Seven Arts Company. Irving Lazar made the deal and although they're not talking out loud, I'm told that the purchase price, plus percentages, will eventually reach $2,000,000.

You won't lose much, I bet, if you put your money on stage star Diahann Carroll repeating in the movie.

Rodgers won the Antoinette Perry Award for his "No Strings" score and will devote his attention to the film project when it starts in Paris. The stage hit is now in its sixth month on Broadway.

"Why I Quit Hollywood" by Robert Wagner, which appeared in the London Sunday Express, is a perfectly ridiculous interview. It deeply shocked me.

Robert, who has "escaped" and now lives in Rome, couldn't seem to say enough terrible things about his former hometown. He said he is never coming back, and it's a good thing after that article.

He says he was called "the man who may be the last example of groomed stardom." I could call him a few dozen other names when I think how he used to hang around and try to get jobs here. And now he says Hollywood doesn't know how to make pictures.

Well, Mr. Wagner, when you tell a gloating reporter on a British newspaper all that "malarky" we don't want you back.

Rock Hudson will take time out in the late fall and go into winter stock. There's a method in his madness. He wants to go on the Broadway stage, and has had this in the back of his head for a long time. He told me when I talked to him last that he wants not only to be a movie star, but a stage actor as well.

Rock is looking for a drama, or a musical, to do on his winter stock tour before he goes into his movie "It Seems There Were These Two Irishmen" at U-I. This is a comedy in which Rock plays both father and son.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Judy Garland telephoned from Lake Tahoe and said she is down to 109 pounds and is as slim as she was in the old days. She knows just where she is going now. I never thought she would really divorce Sid Luft—but she's made up her mind.

Don't get excited about Fred Astaire's tall, good-looking date at the Villa Nova. It was his favorite girl all right—but it was his daughter, Ava.

Sees Featherbed Cut

NEW YORK (UPI) — The top spokesman for the nation's railroads said Wednesday that despite "delaying tactics" by the rail unions changes in work rules to eliminate "featherbedding" will be made, "and in the not too distant future." Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, also predicts that the railroad industry is on the threshold of a bright new future . . . beginning this year."

Tankers Increase

LONDON (UPI) — The world's tanker fleet increased by 1,322,000 tons in the first half of 1962 to about 70,749,389 tons, Lloyds list said Wednesday. British-flag tankers remained the world's largest fleet in terms of tonnage and added 306,000 tons in the half year to 11,742,903 tons. It was followed by Liberia 11,386,199 tons, Norway with 10,259,169 tons and the United States commercial fleet of 7,050,947 tons.

Opening lead: Three of ♠

Altho a contract may be ironclad in the sense that there is no possible defense to defeat it, nevertheless declarer may be required to exercise considerable care in mapping his plan of campaign. South's caution in today's hand paid him a handsome reward in the form of a vulnerable slam.

West opened the three of spades against the final contract of six hearts. The nine was played from the dummy forcing out East's king, and declarer won the trick with the ace. It appeared that, barring a very bad break in clubs, only one trick need be conceded, and that in the spade suit. However, South devised a line of play that would assure success regardless of how clubs were divided.

First he drew the trumps in two rounds. Then he played ace, king and another diamond ruffing the third round in his hand. A small club was led to the dummy's ace as both opponents followed, and now the jack of spades was played.

Regardless of who won the spade trick the defense would be compelled to make a return helpful to declarer. If the defender winning this trick were out of clubs, his forced play of a diamond or a spade would present South with a ruff and sluff. If that defender returned a club and his partner followed, then the suit must break. There is another variation in which the player with the queen of spades has all the missing clubs. If this were East, he would lead back the jack of clubs. South could duck the return to dummy's queen and finesse the suit on the way back.

When it developed that West won the spade trick and led back the jack of clubs, declarer played low from the dummy and won with the king of clubs in his hand. It was routine when East showed out of the suit to lead a small club and take a finesse against West's ten.

Steel Recovery Slow

NEW YORK (UPI) — Iron Age Magazine said Wednesday that any "sizable" recovery in steel mill operations may be delayed as late as November. It said the chief reason for the delay is the slow startup of auto production.

UP. . .AND OUT

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— In less time than it takes to read this sentence a new Air Force escape system can eject a pilot from the cockpit of his fighter plane and have him dangling in space at the bottom of a parachute.

A report by Lt. Col. Louis F. Johnson Jr. of the U.S. Air Force School of Aerospace Medicine puts the operational time of the new escape system at 2.7 seconds.

LOOKING UP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first attempt to plant the United States flag on the summit of 29,028-foot Mount Everest is being planned for next year.

An 18-man team sponsored by the National Geographic Society will carry out extensive scientific research on the mountain, which is the world's highest.

The saying "still water runs deep" may be good psychology, but it is not good hydrology. Still water may be shallow or deep, and deep water may flow slowly or fast.

States Collect More

WASHINGTON (UPI) —State governments collected $20.6 billion in taxes in the year ended June 30, about $1.5 billion more than in the preceding year, the Commerce Department reported Wednesday.

If the sea is calm and the air perfectly clear, it is possible for a person in an airplane to see a submarine submerged to a depth of about 60 feet.

Will Buy Subway

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the New York Port Authority to acquire the Hudson Rapid Tubes Corp., which operates an 8.5 mile subway line linking Manhattan with Jersey City and Hoboken. The line, formerly owned by the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Co., was reorganized under the Bankruptcy Act and its railroad property acquired by Hudson Rapid Tubes, a subsidiary organized for that purpose.

COMBINATION INSURANCE

Second Series Of Bluefield Trials Begins

PRINCETON, W. Va. (UPI) — The second in a series of Bluefield police burglary trials got under way here Wednesday with a state witness testifying that police Sgt. Eugen Kirk helped with robberies and shared in the loot.

Ira Matheny, who implicated several of the seven policemen indicted for burglary, testified that he phoned Kirk at the police station in advance of a break-in at the Bailey Lumber Co.

Mathena said he asked Kirk if he wanted any loot from the planned burglary and was told, "No." Mathena said he and his accomplices burglarized the lumber firm three times in April and May, 1958, each time with Kirk's knowledge.

The witness, serving terms totaling a maximum of 92 years in a Virginia prison, said Kirk's job was to warn him if police cruisers approached the place while the burglary was in progress. During two of the break-ins, he said, he phoned Kirk and was told to leave immediately.

Matheny also said he turned paint, nails, paint brushes and door chimes over to Kirk as his share of the loot, once depositing it on the policeman's front porch and once leaving it in his parked car near the police station.

Kirk entered a plea of innocent as his trial opened before Mercer County Criminal Court Judge Howard M. Jarrett. Selection of the jury of seven men and five women took only 80 minutes.

Kirk was the second of the accused policemen to go on trial, the burglary trial of patrolman Ted Land having ended on a hung jury last Saturday night.

Mathena also testified that he was a close friend of Kirk's for much of the past 10 years. He said they often ate together in restaurants and spent much time together.

The state's only other witness Wednesday was Kenneth Murphy, one of Mathena's two accomplices on the Bailey break-ins. He also is serving a series of sentences in a Virginia prison.

Murphy admitted that he had not talked on the phone with Kirk during any of the burglaries, but said on one occasion he phoned the police station, heard a man answer, "Bluefield police, Kirk speaking," then turned the phone over to Mathena. He was not allowed to testify in regard to what he heard Mathena say during any alleged conversation.

In his opening statement, defense counsel Jerome Katz said he would prove that Kirk had no advance knowledge of any of the burglaries and had no phone conversations with Mathena.

The state is expected to call only two or three more witnesses, including a third member of the Bailey burglary trio — Everett Little — before resting its case.

Berkeley County Seeks Status As Drought Area

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — A request that Berkeley County be declared a drought disaster area has been made by representatives of agricultural agencies in this area.

During the past three months rainfall in the county has totaled only 3.5 inches, about one - third of normal, while rain during August alone measured 57-hundredths of an inch compared with a 3-inch normal fall.

The agencies filed an application with the State Agriculture Stabilization Committee (ASC) Tuesday at a meeting attended by local representatives of the ASC, the Farmers Home Administration, Soil Conservation Service and the Production Credit Association.

If the application is approved by state and federal officials it will enable the area to receive certain federal assistance. Included would be the provision of necessary livestock feed available to farmers.

AF Contract Awarded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force has awarded Hercules Powder Co. an $11.9 million contract for further research and development of Minute Man rocket motors.

West Virginia Population Drop Small

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— A report released by Gov. W. W. Barron Wednesday said there will be a decline in West Virginia's population during the present decade but it will be small.

The report was prepared by Dr. James H. Thompson, director of the West Virginia University Bureau of Business Research. Thompson said the drop will be within the range of zero to five per cent, compared to the seven per cent loss suffered during the 1950's.

The National Education Association has predicted an 11 per cent decline and the Kiplinger Washington Editors report forecasts a 16 per cent decline in a period from 1960 to 1975.

Thompson said the forecasts substantially overstate West Virginia's future population loss.

Thompson said outmigation during the 60's will be curbed by the greatly reduced number of coal miners, the North - South highway, the expected increase in tourism and the effects of federal aid to depressed areas.

High Court Orders Hearing On Referendum

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The State Supreme Court ordered Huntington City Council Wednesday to show cause at a hearing Sept. 5 why it should not be required to hold a referendum on a new city charter at the time of the Nov. 6 general election.

The hearing was ordered on the basis of a petition filed Tuesday by a group of taxpayers who said the election was requested July 9 in petitions bearing 15,576 signatures.

Attorney R. J. Burford said Council had taken no action toward setting up the charter referendum and was conspiring to delay it beyond the date of the general election, when "a very high percentage" of the city's voters will go to the polls.

Renewal Unit Will Meet Wednesday

A meeting of Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency scheduled today has been canceled.

The agency will meet instead Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Council Chamber with the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

The Mayor and City Council have been invited to attend the session.

Chamber To Discuss School Dropout Problem

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — A West Virginia Chamber of Commerce subcommittee will recommend here Thursday that the chamber step up its efforts to aid governmental units in combatting the state's high school dropout problem.

The subcommittee headed by President Leonard Riggleman, Morris Harvey College, will report on a year's study at the opening session of the chamber's 27th annual meeting, to be attended by about 300 persons.

The subcommittee's four - point, recommended program urges:

—That the chamber, through its education committee, offer its support and cooperation to all governmental agencies and to private groups who are working to ease the dropout problem.

—That the chamber start an information program through a pamphlet setting forth the case for staying in school from the employer's standpoint, and distribute a series of releases to high school publications.

—That local chamber units and school officials cooperate in local "business-education days" as outlined by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

—That the chamber commend as having taken a major step county school systems which have done away with junior high school graduation ceremonies.

The education subcommittee's report said a varied attack on the problem of high school dropouts is being waged by the State Education Department and its Division of Vocational Education, Department of Employment Security, State Welfare Department and West Virginia Education Association (WVEA).

The chamber's water resources committee also will meet Thursday and a panel discussion will be held Friday. State Road Commissioner Burl Sawyers, State Tax Commissioner C. Howard Hardesty and State Natural Resources Director Warden M. Lane are among speakers Thursday.

The State Bar Association also opens its three-day, annual meeting here Thursday and the West Virginia Prosecuting Attorneys Association convenes in a one-day session where the state's proposed liquor by the drink amendment is expected to be discussed.

West Virginia Dry

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The Statistical Reporting Service said Wednesday that only the southeastern portion of the state now enjoys "adequate soil moisture."

The dry spell, however, has not materially affected the harvesting of corn, hay, potatoes, peaches and apples, except in the northern counties and the Eastern Panhandle.

The service reported that the past week was the driest of the year so far and that temperatures recorded in the northern counties were the highest of the season and for several years past.

Second Series Of Bluefield Trials Begins

PRINCETON, W. Va. (UPI) — The second in a series of Bluefield police burglary trials got under way here Wednesday with a state witness testifying that police Sgt. Eugen Kirk helped with robberies and shared in the loot.

Ira Matheny, who implicated several of the seven policemen indicted for burglary, testified that he phoned Kirk at the police station in advance of a break-in at the Bailey Lumber Co.

Mathena said he asked Kirk if he wanted any loot from the planned burglary and was told, "No." Mathena said he and his accomplices burglarized the lumber firm three times in April and May, 1958, each time with Kirk's knowledge.

The witness, serving terms totaling a maximum of 92 years in a Virginia prison, said Kirk's job was to warn him if police cruisers approached the place while the burglary was in progress. During two of the break-ins, he said, he phoned Kirk and was told to leave immediately.

Matheny also said he turned paint, nails, paint brushes and door chimes over to Kirk as his share of the loot, once depositing it on the policeman's front porch and once leaving it in his parked car near the police station.

Kirk entered a plea of innocent as his trial opened before Mercer County Criminal Court Judge Howard M. Jarrett. Selection of the jury of seven men and five women took only 80 minutes.

Kirk was the second of the accused policemen to go on trial, the burglary trial of patrolman Ted Land having ended on a hung jury last Saturday night.

Mathena also testified that he was a close friend of Kirk's for much of the past 10 years. He said they often ate together in restaurants and spent much time together.

The state's only other witness Wednesday was Kenneth Murphy, one of Mathena's two accomplices on the Bailey break-ins. He also is serving a series of sentences in a Virginia prison.

Murphy admitted that he had not talked on the phone with Kirk during any of the burglaries, but said on one occasion he phoned the police station, heard a man answer, "Bluefield police, Kirk speaking," then turned the phone over to Mathena. He was not allowed to testify in regard to what he heard Mathena say during any alleged conversation.

In his opening statement, defense counsel Jerome Katz said he would prove that Kirk had no advance knowledge of any of the burglaries and had no phone conversations with Mathena.

The state is expected to call only two or three more witnesses, including a third member of the Bailey burglary trio — Everett Little — before resting its case.

Berkeley County Seeks Status As Drought Area

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) — A request that Berkeley County be declared a drought disaster area has been made by representatives of agricultural agencies in this area.

During the past three months rainfall in the county has totaled only 3.5 inches, about one - third of normal, while rain during August alone measured 57-hundredths of an inch compared with a 3-inch normal fall.

The agencies filed an application with the State Agriculture Stabilization Committee (ASC) Tuesday at a meeting attended by local representatives of the ASC, the Farmers Home Administration, Soil Conservation Service and the Production Credit Association.

If the application is approved by state and federal officials it will enable the area to receive certain federal assistance. Included would be the provision of necessary livestock feed available to farmers.

AF Contract Awarded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force has awarded Hercules Powder Co. an $11.9 million contract for further research and development of Minute Man rocket motors.

West Virginia Population Drop Small

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— A report released by Gov. W. W. Barron Wednesday said there will be a decline in West Virginia's population during the present decade but it will be small.

The report was prepared by Dr. James H. Thompson, director of the West Virginia University Bureau of Business Research. Thompson said the drop will be within the range of zero to five per cent, compared to the seven per cent loss suffered during the 1950's.

The National Education Association has predicted an 11 per cent decline and the Kiplinger Washington Editors report forecasts a 16 per cent decline in a period from 1960 to 1975.

Thompson said the forecasts substantially overstate West Virginia's future population loss.

Thompson said outmigration during the 60's will be curbed by the greatly reduced number of coal miners, the North - South highway, the expected increase in tourism and the effects of federal aid to depressed areas.

High Court Orders Hearing On Referendum

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The State Supreme Court ordered Huntington City Council Wednesday to show cause at a hearing Sept. 5 why it should not be required to hold a referendum on a new city charter at the time of the Nov. 6 general election.

The hearing was ordered on the basis of a petition filed Tuesday by a group of taxpayers who said the election was requested July 9 in petitions bearing 15,576 signatures.

Attorney R. J. Burford said Council had taken no action toward setting up the charter referendum and was conspiring to delay it beyond the date of the general election, when "a very high percentage" of the city's voters will go to the polls.

Renewal Unit Will Meet Wednesday

A meeting of Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency scheduled today has been canceled.

The agency will meet instead Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the Council Chamber with the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Chamber To Discuss School Dropout Problem

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — A West Virginia Chamber of Commerce subcommittee will recommend here Thursday that the chamber step up its efforts to aid governmental units in combatting the state's high school dropout problem.

The subcommittee headed by President Leonard Riggleman, Morris Harvey College, will report on a year's study at the opening session of the chamber's 27th annual meeting, to be attended by about 300 persons.

The subcommittee's four - point, recommended program urges:

—That the chamber, through its education committee, offer its support and cooperation to all governmental agencies and to private groups who are working to ease the dropout problem.

—That the chamber start an information program through a pamphlet setting forth the case for staying in school from the employer's standpoint, and distribute a series of releases to high school publications.

—That local chamber units and school officials cooperate in local "business-education days" as outlined by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

—That the chamber commend as having taken a major step county school systems which have done away with junior high school graduation ceremonies.

The education subcommittee's report said a varied attack on the problem of high school dropouts is being waged by the State Education Department and its Division of Vocational Education, Department of Employment Security, State Welfare Department and West Virginia Education Association (WVEA).

The chamber's water resources committee also will meet Thursday and a panel discussion will be held Friday. State Road Commissioner Burl Sawyers, State Tax Commissioner C. Howard Hardesty and State Natural Resources Director Warden M. Lane are among speakers Thursday.

The State Bar Association also opens its three-day, annual meeting here Thursday and the West Virginia Prosecuting Attorneys Association convenes in a one-day session where the state's proposed liquor by the drink amendment is expected to be discussed.

West Virginia Dry

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The Statistical Reporting Service said Wednesday that only the southeastern portion of the state now enjoys "adequate soil moisture."

The dry spell, however, has not materially affected the harvesting of corn, hay, potatoes, peaches and apples, except in the northern counties and the Eastern Panhandle.

The service reported that the past week was the driest of the year so far and that temperatures recorded in the northern counties were the highest of the season and for several years past.

Barron Says Second Term Is Unlikely

Amendment May Have No Effect

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. W. W. Barron told a news conference Wednesday there was a "strong possibility" he would not be a candidate for reelection even if the proposed governor's succession amendment is approved by voters in November.

Barron said that while few people could really say what their plans were in the next two years, he emphasized that he wanted to return to practicing law and this desire would weigh heavily in any decision to run for a second term.

Barron listed State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson and Tax Commissioner Howard Hardesty as capable state officials and possible gubernatorial candidates.

Commenting on the amendment itself, Barron favored the ideas in it that a governor could serve two successive terms, would prepare and submit the annual budget to the Legislature, and that the present 80 executive divisions of the state government be consolidated into 20 major departments.

However, while calling this one a "good amendment," Barron said he would take no official stand on the other four amendments to be voted on in November.

Again referring to the upcoming general elections, Barron estimated Rep. Cleveland Bailey's chances of defeating Republican Rep. Arch Moore for the 1st Congressional District seat had "improved 50 to 100 per cent," but that he still "faced a hard fight."

Barron added that no specific plans have been made as yet for President Kennedy to visit the state prior to the elections, but that the President indicated he would make an appearance "if he could fit it into his schedule."

In addition, Barron:

— Said he did not believe Hardesty would resign as tax commissioner right away, but that he was "very carefully considering" the present assistant commissioner, Thomas Battle, as Hardesty's successor.

— Signed the contract awarding to International Fair Consultants, Inc., for the planning and development of the West Virginia Pavilion at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

The state thus joins New York in being the only states so far to have completed arrangements for participation in the fair. Total cost of the project is estimated at $800,000, most of which Barron hopes will be made up eventually by industry participation in the pavilion.

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The Department of Natural Resources will hold a public meeting in Moorefield at Firemen's Hall Monday, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p. m. to hear recommendations from sportsmen and clubs for the opening dates for the 1963 hunting seasons and for the 1963 fishing regulations.

Ten meetings will be held including Clarksburg, Morgantown, Elkins, Parkersburg, Martinsburg, Beckley, Charleston, Logan and Wheeling. Samsell, administrator of the Department's Game and Fish Division, said the pur-year's opening dates for hunting pose of establishing the next year's opening dates for hunting and fishing regulations was to give the sportsmen as large an advance notice of the seasons as possible.

Barron Says Second Term Is Unlikely

Amendment May Have No Effect

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. W. W. Barron told a news conference Wednesday there was a "strong possibility" he would not be a candidate for reelection even if the proposed governor's succession amendment is approved by voters in November.

Barron said that while few people could really say what their plans were in the next two years, he emphasized that he wanted to return to practicing law and this desire would weigh heavily in any decision to run for a second term.

Barron listed State Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson and Tax Commissioner Howard Hardesty as capable state officials and possible gubernatorial candidates.

Commenting on the amendment itself, Barron favored the ideas in it that a governor could serve two successive terms, would prepare and submit the annual budget to the Legislature, and that the present 80 executive divisions of the state government be consolidated into 20 major departments.

However, while calling this one a "good amendment," Barron said he would take no official stand on the other four amendments to be voted on in November.

Again referring to the upcoming general elections, Barron estimated Rep. Cleveland Bailey's chances of defeating Republican Rep. Arch Moore for the 1st Congressional District seat had "improved 50 to 100 per cent," but that he still "faced a hard fight."

Barron added that no specific plans have been made as yet for President Kennedy to visit the state prior to the elections, but that the President indicated he would make an appearance "if he could fit it into his schedule."

In addition, Barron:

— Said he did not believe Hardesty would resign as tax commissioner right away, but that he was "very carefully considering" the present assistant commissioner, Thomas Battle, as Hardesty's successor.

— Signed the contract awarding to International Fair Consultants, Inc., for the planning and development of the West Virginia Pavilion at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

The state thus joins New York in being the only states so far to have completed arrangements for participation in the fair. Total cost of the project is estimated at $800,000, most of which Barron hopes will be made up eventually by industry participation in the pavilion.

Hearing Set In Moorefield On Sept. 17

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The Department of Natural Resources will hold a public meeting in Moorefield at Firemen's Hall Monday, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p. m. to hear recommendations from sportsmen and clubs for the opening dates for the 1963 hunting seasons and for the 1963 fishing regulations.

A series of public hearings will be held throughout the state as required by law. Ten meetings will be held including Clarksburg, Morgantown, Elkins, Parkersburg, Martinsburg, Beckley, Charleston, Logan and Wheeling. The Moorefield meeting will include representatives from the counties of Grant, Mineral, Pendleton, Hampshire and Hardy.

Results of the recommendations from the meetings will be presented to the Department's Commissioners at the October 1 meeting. Letters have been sent to the sportsmen's organizations throughout the state inviting comments. T. R. Samsell, administrator of the Department's Game and Fish Division, said the purpose of establishing the next year's opening dates for hunting and fishing regulations was to give the sportsmen as large an advance notice of the seasons as possible.

Friend Posts 150th Victory Of Career

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Bob Friend, with relief help from Elroy Face, scored the 150th victory of his major league career Wednesday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Chicago Cubs, 5-2.

Friend, winning his 15th of the season against 12 losses, ran into trouble in the ninth inning when Billy Williams walked and Ron Santos singled. Face relieved him at that point and retired Andre Rodgers, Dick Bertell and pinch-hitter Lou Brock to preserve the win.

Pittsburgh wrapped up the game with a three-run outburst in the second inning off starter and loser Calvin Koonce. The big blow was Bill Mazeroski's two-run double off the left field wall. Mazeroski scored on Don Leppert's two base hit.

Seventh Time New York Bows In Doubleheader

Bell Saves Opener; Kirkland Homer Aids Tribe's Nightcap Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians swept a doubleheader from the New York Yankees Wednesday, winning the opener, 3-2, with the aid of Gary Bell's clutch relief pitching and taking the nightcap, 9-5, with the help of a three-run homer by Willie Kirkland.

The twin setback marked the seventh time this season the Yankees have lost a doubleheader. The Indians administered four of the double setbacks as they won the season series with New York for only the third time since World War II.

Return From 6-11 Trip

The slumping Yankees, who returned home from a reeling 6-11 road trip last week, halved a four-game series with the Tribe to give them only eight triumphs in the last 21 games.

The Indians broke up the second game in the third inning by hammering starter Jim Bouton for five runs. Three hits, one a run-producing single by Jerry Kindall, and a squeeze sacrifice bunt by pitcher Barry Latman added up to a pair in the second inning.

Bouton, chased in the third, passed Al Luplow in that frame and Tito Francona beat out a bunt. Both scored on Kirkland's 19th homer.

Latman had a no-hitter until one out in the fourth when he gave up a homer to Roger Maris, his second of the day and 31st of the season. The Yanks picked up another run in the fifth on a double by Elston Howard and a single by Clete Boyer.

Stops Yankees Threat

Bell stopped a Yankee threat in the bottom of the ninth to save the opening game win for Pedro Ramos. With one out and two runners on bases thanks to singles by Dale Long and pinch-hitter Yogi Berra, Bell retired Phil Linz on a pop fly and got Bobby Richardson to bounce into a forceout to end the game.

TOPS IN SOCCER

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) —Brazil retained the World Soccer Cup this year with a 3-1 victory over Czechoslovakia.

COACH FIRED—Even before any baseball managers are fired this year, a football coach has lost his job in Toronto, Ont. He is Lou Agase, discharged by the Toronto Agronauts of the Eastern Football Conference, because of the team's poor showing so far this season—three losses, no wins. Agase, from East Lansing, Mich., was starting his third year.

Robinson Sails For England Bout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sugar Ray Robinson, 41, sailed for England on the liner Queen Elizabeth Wednesday night for another campaign aimed at winning the middleweight crown for a record-busting sixth time.

Slender, dapper Robinson told a shipboard press conference: "I expect to beat Terry Downes at London on Sept. 25, and then come back here and fight either Gene Fullmer or Paul Pender, if they're still co-champions at the time."

Downes, a former co-holder of the title, will engate Robinson at London's Wembley Arena, Sept. 25—the same night Floyd Patterson and Sonny Liston fight for the heavyweight crown at Chicago.

FARM AND FACTORY

LAUREL, Md. (UPI) — In the Soviet Union, which tries to win the $125,000 Washington, D. C. International for the fifth time this year, horse farms have 300 mares, horse factories have 3,000 mares.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The old-timers who insist "baseball ain't what she used to be" are gonna have their troubles explaining the base-stealing feats of Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The scooting little shortstop rapidly is approaching the National League record of 80 thefts for a single season and might even make a run at Ty Cobb's all-time high mark of 96 set in 1915.

Now, how are the old-timers gonna knock that?

They gave Roger Maris of the Yankees a bad time last year when he was shooting for homer No. 61. The livelier ball, livelier bat, poorer pitching bit was played from July to October by those who felt Babe Ruth's record of 60 should stand forever.

Oldsters Complain

Every modern fielder who sets a record hears from the oldsters that "These guys today use bushel baskets for fielder's mitts — why shouldn't they set records?"

Pitchers who turn in no-hitters or exceptional strikeout records frequently have their feats depreciated because today's hitters are "swinging for the fences and are bound to strike out a lot."

But Maury Wills is running for bases that still are 90 feet apart, as they've always been, and it's doubtful if the basepaths today present a "track" significantly faster than his predecessors had in the old days.

A Marked Man

Furthermore, Maury is a marked man. He's one of the few today who, when he gets on, is almost sure to go. Cobb had that reputation, of course, but so did quite a few others.

When the little Dodger swiped three against the New York Mets last Sunday he hiked his season's total to 72, making it the first time in 47 seasons any baserunner had topped 70.

The National League record of 80 was set in 1911 by Bob Bescher of Cincinnati, a total exceeded only by Cobb's 96 in the American League. These are so-called modern records of the Twentieth Century when baseball assumed its present status of two major leagues.

Maury was a football swifty in high school at Washington, D. C., but was more interested in pro baseball than college football. He drew pink slips from the Giants and Tigers but finally made it with the Dodger chain and came up to the parent club in 1959 in time to help win a pennant.

He stole 50 bases in 1960 and "slumped" to 35 last year.

Orioles Belt Senators, 9-3

Gentile, Brant Hit Baltimore Homers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jim Gentile and Jackie Brandt hit home runs and drove in seven runs between them to pace the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-3 victory over the Washington Senators Wednesday night behind Chuck Estrada's four-hit pitching.

Dave Nicholson also homered for the Orioles, who scored four unearned runs off losing pitcher Benny Daniels in the third inning to overcome Washington's 1-0 lead.

With two out, shortstop Ken Hamlin fielded Jerry Adair's grounder but threw wildly to first for an error. Russ Snyder followed with a single and Brandt scored two runs with a triple. Gentile then doubled home Brandt and Brooks Robinson's triple completed the four-run inning.

Phillies Defeat Mets In 10th, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The New York Mets lost their 100th game of the season Wednesday night when Don Demeter singled home the winning run in the 10th inning for a 3-2 victory by the Philadelphia Phillies over the New Yorkers.

Demeter's single followed a double by Wes Covington and scored pinch-runner Ted Savage, who ran for Covington, from second base.

The smash broke up a duel between winner Cal McLish and Jay Hook, both of whom went the distance.

Outdoor Club Evens Series With Kiwanis

Woody Dodrill Wins Playoff Tilt, 3-1

Woody Dodrill held the pennant-winning Kiwanis Club to three hits and hurled the Outdoor Club to a 3-1 triumph yesterday at Penn Avenue field to even the final playoff series in the Hot Stove Baseball League at a game a piece.

Dodrill struck out 11 and walked three as he bested loser Robbie Klinger in a hurling duel. Klinger whiffed 16 and didn't walk a batter, but was touched up for all three Outdoor Club runs in the fourth inning.

Kenny Green opened the winning rally for ODC with a three-bagger and scored on Jim Boyle's single to center. Boyle came home on Gus Caporale's two-run homer to cap the inning for the winners.

Green also collected a single in addition to his triple while Dave Bruce had two of the losers' three bingles, both singles.

Ralph Miller excelled at short-stop for the winners.

The final game of the best-of-three series will be played for the championship on Friday at 6 p. m. at Penn Avenue field. The results:

Cleveland Sweeps Twin Bill From Slumping Yankees, 3-2 And 9-5

Bell Saves Opener; Kirkland Homer Aids Tribe's Nightcap Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians swept a doubleheader from the New York Yankees Wednesday, winning the opener, 3-2, with the aid of Gary Bell's clutch relief pitching and taking the nightcap, 9-5, with the help of a three-run homer by Willie Kirkland.

The twin setback marked the seventh time this season the Yankees have lost a doubleheader. The Indians administered four of the double setbacks as they won the season series with New York for only the third time since World War II.

Return From 6-11 Trip

The slumping Yankees, who returned home from a reeling 6-11 road trip last week, halved a four-game series with the Tribe to give them only eight triumphs in the last 21 games.

The Indians broke up the second game in the third inning by hammering starter Jim Bouton for five runs. Three hits, one a run-producing single by Jerry Kindall, and a squeeze sacrifice bunt by pitcher Barry Latman added up to a pair in the second inning.

Bouton, chased in the third, passed Al Luplow in that frame and Tito Francona beat out a bunt. Both scored on Kirkland's 19th homer.

Latman had a no-hitter until one out in the fourth when he gave up a homer to Roger Maris, his second of the day and 31st of the season. The Yanks picked up another run in the fifth on a double by Elston Howard and a single by Clete Boyer.

Stops Yankees Threat

Bell stopped a Yankee threat in the bottom of the ninth to save the opening game win for Pedro Ramos. With one out and two runners on bases thanks to singles by Dale Long and pinch-hitter Yogi Berra, Bell retired Phil Linz on a pop fly and got Bobby Richardson to bounce into a forceout to end the game.

TOPS IN SOCCER

COACH FIRED—Even before any baseball managers are fired this year, a football coach has lost his job in Toronto, Ont. He is Lou Agase, discharged by the Toronto Agronauts of the Eastern Football Conference, because of the team's poor showing so far this season—three losses, no wins. Agase, from East Lansing, Mich., was starting his third year.

Robinson Sails For England Bout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sugar Ray Robinson, 41, sailed for England on the liner Queen Elizabeth Wednesday night for another campaign aimed at winning the middleweight crown for a record-busting sixth time.

Slender, dapper Robinson told a shipboard press conference: "I expect to beat Terry Downes at London on Sept. 25, and then come back here and fight either Gene Fullmer or Paul Pender, if they're still co-champions at the time."

Downes, a former co-holder of the title, will engate Robinson at London's Wembley Arena, Sept. 25—the same night Floyd Patterson and Sonny Liston fight for the heavyweight crown at Chicago.

FARM AND FACTORY

LAUREL, Md. (UPI) — In the Soviet Union, which tries to win the $125,000 Washington, D. C. International for the fifth time this year, horse farms have 300 mares, horse factories have 3,000 mares.

MOST ON MAT

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — Russia swept both the free-style and Greco-Roman competitions in the 1962 world wrestling championships.

The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The old-timers who insist "baseball ain't what she used to be" are gonna have their troubles explaining the base-stealing feats of Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The scooting little shortstop rapidly is approaching the National League record of 80 thefts for a single season and might even make a run at Ty Cobb's all-time high mark of 96 set in 1915.

Now, how are the old-timers gonna knock that?

They gave Roger Maris of the Yankees a bad time last year when he was shooting for homer No. 61. The livelier ball, livelier bat, poorer pitching bit was played from July to October by those who felt Babe Ruth's record of 60 should stand forever.

Oldsters Complain

Every modern fielder who sets a record hears from the oldsters that "These guys today use bushel baskets for fielder's mitts — why shouldn't they set records?"

Pitchers who turn in no-hitters or exceptional strikeout records frequently have their feats depreciated because today's hitters are "swinging for the fences and are bound to strike out a lot."

But Maury Wills is running for bases that still are 90 feet apart, as they've always been, and it's doubtful if the basepaths today present a "track" significantly faster than his predecessors had in the old days.

A Marked Man

Furthermore, Maury is a marked man. He's one of the few today who, when he gets on, is almost sure to go. Cobb had that reputation, of course, but so did quite a few others.

When the little Dodger swiped three against the New York Mets last Sunday he hiked his season's total to 72, making it the first time in 47 seasons any baserunner had topped 70.

The National League record of 80 was set in 1911 by Bob Bescher of Cincinnati, a total exceeded only by Cobb's 96 in the American League. These are so-called modern records of the Twentieth Century when baseball assumed its present status of two major leagues.

Maury was a football swifty in high school at Washington, D. C., but was more interested in pro baseball than college football. He drew pink slips from the Giants and Tigers but finally made it with the Dodger chain and came up to the parent club in 1959 in time to help win a pennant.

He stole 50 bases in 1960 and "slumped" to 35 last year.

Phillies Defeat Mets In 10th, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The New York Mets lost their 100th game of the season Wednesday night when Don Demeter singled home the winning run in the 10th inning for a 3-2 victory by the Philadelphia Phillies over the New Yorkers.

Demeter's single followed a double by Wes Covington and scored pinch-runner Ted Savage, who ran for Covington, from second base.

The smash broke up a duel between winner Cal McLish and Jay Hook, both of whom went the distance.

Gentile, Brant Hit Baltimore Homers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jim Gentile and Jackie Brandt hit home runs and drove in seven runs between them to pace the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-3 victory over the Washington Senators Wednesday night behind Chuck Estrada's four-hit pitching.

Dave Nicholson also homered for the Orioles, who scored four unearned runs off losing pitcher Benny Daniels in the third inning to overcome Washington's 1-0 lead.

With two out, shortstop Ken Hamlin fielded Jerry Adair's grounder but threw wildly to first for an error. Russ Snyder followed with a single and Brandt scored two runs with a triple. Gentile then doubled home Brandt and Brooks Robinson's triple completed the four-run inning.

Brandt drove home Baltimore's fifth run with a fifth-inning double and Gentile scored him with his homer off Daniels. In the seventh inning, with Pete Burnside pitching for Washington, Brandt hit his 17th homer to make it 8-1.

His last three winners came consecutively. After riding Play Time $6.80 to a four-length victory in the feature, Sellers scored aboard Subtle $10.60 in the eighth and Princess Gem $9.70 in the ninth.

A.C.'s Viking, With Crippled Driver Up, Wins 37th Hambletonian

Sanders Russell Drives Bay To Successive Wins

Scores Despite Bad Ankle; Seeks Triple Crown On October 5

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—A. C.'s Viking and his 62-year-old crippled driver, Sanders (The Preacher) Russell, won the 37th Hambletonian in successive mile heats Wednesday to emerge the strongest contender for harness racing's triple crown since the magic year of 1955.

Russell, veteran from Stevenson, Ala., his dislocated right ankle encased in a cast and resting on special padding of his sulky, brought the big bay son of Hoot Mon to power-charged stretch victories in 1:59 3-5 and 2:00 flat.

The Hambletonian mile record was set by Harlan Dean, who won successive heats in 1:58 2-5 and 1:59.

A. C.'s Viking scored a wire-to-wire triumph in the $105,423 Yonkers Futurity on July 20—the first jewel of the triple crown. After now winning the biggest gem—the $116,612 Hambletonian—he can complete the sweep with a victory Oct. 5 in the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington, which has an estimated purse of $55,000.

Only Once Before

Only once before in the history of harness racing has the same driver and the same horse won the triple crown. It was accomplished in 1955 by Joe O'Brien, driving Scott Frost.

Russell, who was injured in a racing mishap late last month, drove A. C.'s Viking to a 1¾-length victory over Safe Mission in the first heat,while Impish and Spry Rodney were heads behind in third and fourth respectively.

Viking stayed on the rail of the fast, clay mile oval of the Du Quoin Fair Grounds all the way into the stretch, then went to the outside with a powerful burst to win going away in the first heat.

With a capacity crowd of 25,000 in the stands, pure lovers of horse flesh—since parimutuel betting is prohibited by state law—Viking was cheered on to his second heat triumph after another come-from-behind charge in the stretch.

Drives Through Middle

The canny Russell drove Viking through the middle in the second heat to a head victory over Isaac, piloted by John Simpson. Lord Gordon, driven by John Patterson, was third after breaking badly in the first mile heat.

The victory was the ninth in a row for A. C.'s Viking and his 11th in 12 starts for the season. His winning share of the purse, the fifth largest since the Hambletonian was started in 1926, was $62,854.

John Lechliter paced the victors with three hits including a home run while pitcher Kenney Welch collected three singles to aid his own cause. Mike Long banged out a double and two singles for the Yard Department.

The two teams will clash again today at 4:30 p. m. in the second game of the series at Snyder field at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant. The results:

HERE'S AN ITEM that should be of special interest to friends of Fred Z. Hetzel, who knew the lanky southpaw when he resided here in the days he starred as an athlete at Allegany High School and the University of Maryland. The article concerns Fred's son, who went to Davidson College via a scholarship after he had performed sensationally on the court for Landon School of Washington.

It's from the column of W. N. Cox, of the Virginian-Pilot of Norfolk-Portsmouth, and is captioned: Name To Remember, Fred Hetzel.

"Mark this one well because in time it may rate as the most interesting alarm set off in August, 1962. Basketball alarm, that is.

"Coach Lefty Driesell has a player at Davidson named Fred Hetzel. This boy will be a sophomore. He is 6-8 and is out of Washington, D.C.

"Hetzel is spending the month as a counselor in a basketball camp for high school boys in New England. The camp is run by one of Hetzel's many admirers, a fellow named Red Auerbach who is the coach of the Boston Celtics.

"Coach Auerbach says that Hetzel, the Davidson soph, could play pro basketball . . . Not three years hence—right now!

"It seems to me that this adds solid fill to the foundation report Davidson is coming fast in basketball. Word has been drifting in that Driesell, the former Duke star out of Norfolk, is the coach to watch in this area, the ACC not excluded, and now you have the key name, Fred Hetzel."

Thanks to Gus Brust, of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, whose eagle eye saw the item about Hetzel while on business in the Cavalier State.

KEN OVERLIN, who won New York's version of the world's middleweight boxing title in 1940 by beating Ceferino Garcia and lost it the following year to Billy Soose, has filed a $500,000 suit against three Nevada men for an alleged beating they gave him last April 30 in a tavern.

Two months before Overlin won the title he boxed in a main go for Vic Ricker at the local state armory and knocked out Joe "Butch" Lynch in the 8th round. The date was March 15, 1940.

Braves Belt Giants, 10-3

Rookie Lou Johnson Collects Four Hits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —The Milwaukee Braves, routing Billy O'Dell for the second consecutive time, knocked off the San Francisco Giants' winning streak at five Wednesday with a 10-3 pounding.

Rookie Lou Johnson paced Milwaukee's 16-hit attack with a two-run homer and three singles while driving in a total of three tallies. Everybody in the Braves' order collected at least one hit with the exception of pitcher Bob Hendley.

However, the Braves' lefthander turned back the Giants with seven hits while besting them for the first time in his career.

Hendley, now 10-10 for the season, gave up all his runs in the sixth inning. He struck out five and did not give up a walk. Pinchhitter Bob Nieman started this frame with a home run and Orlando Cepeda followed with a two-run homer to boost his season total to 31.

Joanne Gunderson Gains Amateur Quarterfinals

Nancy Holmes Bows By 5 And 4 Score In Women's Golf

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI)—Long-hitting Joanne Gunderson powered into the quarterfinals of the 62nd U.S. Women's Amateur golf championship Wednesday with a 5 and 4 victory over Nancy Holmes of Nashville, Tenn.

The 23-year-old blonde from Kirkland, Wash., who won this event in 1957 and 1960, defeated Miss Holmes with a solid display of putting over the par-72, 7,161-yard Country Club of Rochester Course.

She led, 3-up through 11, sparked by a 25-foot birdie putt on the 495-yard, par-5 second hole. Miss Gunderson sank an eight-footer for par on the 405-yard 12th and tacked on a four-foot birdie putt on the 440-yard par 5 13th before halving the 11th to win the match.

Miss Gunderson along with defending champion Anne Quast Decker and 1959 winner Barbara McIntire, was among 16 players who set out in the afternoon round. Miss Gunderson defeated Mrs. Natasha Matson Fife, Kan. 5 and 4, in the morning round.

Pretty Barbara Williams, a bank secretary from Richmond, Calif., followed her 3 and 2 morning round triumph over American Curtis Cup star Judy Bell with a 4 and 3 conquest of 22-year-old Karn Schull, Kansas City, Mo. The 24-year-old Miss Williams will face Miss Gunderson in Thursday afternoon's quarterfinals.

Mrs. Decker, the champion in 1958 and last year, had her toughest match of this match-play tournament but still went into the quarterfinals with a 3 and 2 verdict over 19-year-old Judy Rand, Autora, Ohio.

The dark-haired Mrs. Decker eliminated Mrs. Jean Trainor, Rochester, N.Y., 3 and 2, in the morning round.

Ann Baker, highly-regarded 17-year-old school girl from Maryville, Tenn., romped to a 5 and 4 victory over teen-ager Brenda High, Glasgow, Ky.

Miss Baker beat Sally Carroll, Wheeling, W. Va., 7 and 6, in the morning round.

Patricia Hahn, the 22-year-old Delaware state champion from Wilmington, continued her fine playing by ousing Joan Gavigan, Troy, Ohio, 2-up, after beating 15-year-old Janis Ferraris, San Francisco, Calif., in her third-round match by the same score.

Bolt Is Victor In Dallas Pro-Am

DALLAS (AP)—Tommy Bolt of Old Brookville, N.Y., former National Open champion, shot a 6-under-par 64 Wednesday to lead the pro-amateur that's a forerunner to the $35,000 Dallas Open Golf Tournament.

Bolt had 32-32 over the 6,658-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course, bagging seven birdies against one bogey.

He won $350 top money for low pro. Jay Hebert of Miami had a 65 for second money of $300 and, Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., laid down a 66 for $255 third money.

Pipers Decide Not To Play

Lucas To Sit Out Pro Cage Season

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's pro basketball fortunes took another odd bounce Wednesday with the announcement the Pipers won't play this season.

In a related development, All-America Jerry Lucas has agreed to a $140,000 contract to play with a team that is still just a hope in the promoter's eyes.

Howard Marks, Cleveland advertising executive heading a syndicate hopeful of getting a National Basketball Association franchise here next year, said he has agreed to a personal three-year contract with Lucas.

He said Lucas is expected to sit out pro basketball this year so he can complete his college studies this winter at Ohio State.

"He's a bright young man, with a bright future in business as well as in basketball," continued Marks, who made an unsuccessful try to get an NBA franchise this season but was ignored.

Marks did not elaborate on the terms of Lucas' agreement, but said he would get "well over $140,000, probably play next season in the NBA and start a public relations job with my firm before Christmas."

Marks said he was hopeful of getting Cleveland into the NBA next season and doesn't have to worry about the financial backing.

Announcement that the Pipers won't play came from George Steinbrenner, club president, who blamed money problems for the loss of the Cleveland franchise in the American Basketball League.

"Hetzel is spending the month as a counselor in a basketball camp for high school boys in New England. The camp is run by one of Hetzel's many admirers, a fellow named Red Auerbach who is the coach of the Boston Celtics.

"Coach Auerbach says that Hetzel, the Davidson soph, could play pro basketball . . . Not three years hence—right now!

"It seems to me that this adds solid fill to the foundation report Davidson is coming fast in basketball. Word has been drifting in that Driesell, the former Duke star out of Norfolk, is the coach to watch in this area, the ACC not excluded, and now you have the key name, Fred Hetzel."

Thanks to Gus Brust, of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, whose eagle eye saw the item about Hetzel while on business in the Cavalier State.

KEN OVERLIN, who won New York's version of the world's middleweight boxing title in 1940 by beating Ceferino Garcia and lost it the following year to Billy Soose, has filed a $500,000 suit against three Nevada men for an alleged beating they gave him last April 30 in a tavern.

Two months before Overlin won the title he boxed in a main go for Vic Ricker at the local state armory and knocked out Joe "Butch" Lynch in the 8th round. The date was March 15, 1940.

Braves Belt Giants, 10-3

Rookie Lou Johnson Collects Four Hits

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —The Milwaukee Braves, routing Billy O'Dell for the second consecutive time, knocked off the San Francisco Giants' winning streak at five Wednesday with a 10-3 pounding.

Rookie Lou Johnson paced Milwaukee's 16-hit attack with a two-run homer and three singles while driving in a total of three tallies. Everybody in the Braves' order collected at least one hit with the exception of pitcher Bob Hendley.

However, the Braves' lefthander turned back the Giants with seven hits while besting them for the first time in his career.

Hendley, now 10-10 for the season, gave up all his runs in the sixth inning. He struck out five and did not give up a walk. Pinchhitter Bob Nieman started this frame with a home run and Orlando Cepeda followed with a two-run homer to boost his season total to 31.

Joanne Gunderson Gains Amateur Quarterfinals

Nancy Holmes Bows By 5 And 4 Score In Women's Golf

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI)—Long-hitting Joanne Gunderson powered into the quarterfinals of the 62nd U.S. Women's Amateur golf championship Wednesday with a 5 and 4 victory over Nancy Holmes of Nashville, Tenn.

The 23-year-old blonde from Kirkland, Wash., who won this event in 1957 and 1960, defeated Miss Holmes with a solid display of putting over the par-72, 7,161-yard Country Club of Rochester Course.

She led, 3-up through 11, sparked by a 25-foot birdie putt on the 495-yard, par-5 second hole. Miss Gunderson sank an eight-footer for par on the 405-yard 12th and tacked on a four-foot birdie putt on the 440-yard par 5 13th before halving the 11th to win the match.

Miss Gunderson along with defending champion Anne Quast Decker and 1959 winner Barbara McIntire, was among 16 players who set out in the afternoon round. Miss Gunderson defeated Mrs. Natasha Matson Fife, Kan. 5 and 4, in the morning round.

Pretty Barbara Williams, a bank secretary from Richmond, Calif., followed her 3 and 2 morning round triumph over American Curtis Cup star Judy Bell with a 4 and 3 conquest of 22-year-old Karn Schull, Kansas City, Mo. The 24-year-old Miss Williams will face Miss Gunderson in Thursday afternoon's quarterfinals.

Mrs. Decker, the champion in 1958 and last year, had her toughest match of this match-play tournament but still went into the quarterfinals with a 3 and 2 verdict over 19-year-old Judy Rand, Autora, Ohio.

The dark-haired Mrs. Decker eliminated Mrs. Jean Trainor, Rochester, N.Y., 3 and 2, in the morning round.

Ann Baker, highly-regarded 17-year-old school girl from Maryville, Tenn., romped to a 5 and 4 victory over teen-ager Brenda High, Glasgow, Ky.

Miss Baker beat Sally Carroll, Wheeling, W. Va., 7 and 6, in the morning round.

Patricia Hahn, the 22-year-old Delaware state champion from Wilmington, continued her fine playing by ousing Joan Gavigan, Troy, Ohio, 2-up, after beating 15-year-old Janis Ferraris, San Francisco, Calif., in her third-round match by the same score.

Bolt Is Victor In Dallas Pro-Am

DALLAS (AP)—Tommy Bolt of Old Brookville, N.Y., former National Open champion, shot a 6-under-par 64 Wednesday to lead the pro-amateur that's a forerunner to the $35,000 Dallas Open Golf Tournament.

Bolt had 32-32 over the 6,658-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course, bagging seven birdies against one bogey.

He won $350 top money for low pro. Jay Hebert of Miami had a 65 for second money of $300 and, Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., laid down a 66 for $255 third money.

Pipers Decide Not To Play

Lucas To Sit Out Pro Cage Season

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's pro basketball fortunes took another odd bounce Wednesday with the announcement the Pipers won't play this season.

In a related development, All-America Jerry Lucas has agreed to a $140,000 contract to play with a team that is still just a hope in the promoter's eyes.

Howard Marks, Cleveland advertising executive heading a syndicate hopeful of getting a National Basketball Association franchise here next year, said he has agreed to a personal three-year contract with Lucas.

He said Lucas is expected to sit out pro basketball this year so he can complete his college studies this winter at Ohio State.

"He's a bright young man, with a bright future in business as well as in basketball," continued Marks, who made an unsuccessful try to get an NBA franchise this season but was ignored.

Marks did not elaborate on the terms of Lucas' agreement, but said he would get "well over $140,000, probably play next season in the NBA and start a public relations job with my firm before Christmas."

Marks said he was hopeful of getting Cleveland into the NBA next season and doesn't have to worry about the financial backing.

Announcement that the Pipers won't play came from George Steinbrenner, club president, who blamed money problems for the loss of the Cleveland franchise in the American Basketball League.

Soviet Junior Net Champ Wins

Metrevelli Scores In National Singles

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (UPI)—A handful of American fans had a historic first glimpse of Russian style tennis Wednesday when 18-year-old Alexander Metrevelli, junior champ of the Soviet Union, scrambled to a four-set victory in a qualifying test for the national men's singles championship.

Intermittent showers washed out most of the opening day's schedule and drove most of the crowd from the huge center stadium skies cleared long enough late in the day for Metrevelli, a happy-go-lucky dark-haired youngster playing in battered sneakers, to hammer out a 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over 17-year-old Bronson Van Wyck of Montclair, N. J., the east's fifth-ranking junior.

David Asz, Israel's third-ranking player, downed 18-year-old Ed Turville of St. Petersburg, Fla., son of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's president, in the only other match completed. Scores were 6-4, 3-6, 8-6, 1-6, 6-4.

A total of 18 matches was scheduled Wednesday for the first group of 74 lesser-known players who had to win one match each to qualify for the tournament proper which opens Friday. Those unfinished Wednesday and 19 others will be played Thursday.

Boy, 14, Dies During Early Football Drill

New Jersey Youth Had Heart Attack

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — A 14-year-old football player for St. Cecilia High School collapsed and died of a heart attack Monday after a practice session at the Carmelite Seminary in Hamilton, Mass., it was disclosed Wednesday.

St. Cecilia Coach Ralph Cavalucci said the boy, Edward Lucas, collapsed in the locker room after complaining of tightness in his legs. At Hamilton, Medical Examiner Dr. William C. Wigglesworth said death was due to a cardiac malfunction from secondary heart prostration.

Cavalucci said Lucas, a 5-foot-10, 165-pound sophomore guard, collapsed shortly after the Monday afternoon drill. A morning session also had been held.

The New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, of which St. Cecilia is a member, prohibits a team from starting football practice before Sept. 1. Instances of early practice or "skull" sessions in the past have resulted in a number of schools being placed on probation. However, a spokesman said he could recall no occasion on which an entire team went out of the state to practice.

St. Cecilia is operated by the Carmelite Order. The school won the Tri-County Catholic Conference championship last year with an 8-1 record.

Lucas' death was the third reported this month in high school football practice.

James T. Pfeiffenberger, 14, of Xenia, Ohio, died of a brain hemorrhage suffered during practice with the John Carroll High School squad Aug. 21. A day later, Andy Yurkowich, 15, of Gillespie (Ill.) High School died after a morning workout.

Shufflers To Practice

The Loyal Order of Moose team in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League will practice today at the Moose home at 8 p. m. All players are requested to be present.

'OUT OF THE BAND

NEW YORK (UPI) — All-pro tackle Roosevelt Brown says he began playing football in high school because "my coach thought I was too big to be playing trombone in the school band."

Pistons Trade Shue To New York For Center Darrall Imhoff

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons Wednesday traded veteran guard Gene Shue to the New York Knicks for 6-foot-10 center Darrall Imhoff and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Shue, who will be 31 on Dec. 18, is Detroit's all-time leading scorer with 7,974 points in 440 games for an 18.1 average.

He has been named to the West All-Star squad of the National Basketball Association five times and was an All-Pro first team selection in 1959-60.

It will mark Shue's second tour of duty with the Knicks. He played for them in 1954-55 after being traded by Philadelphia. The Knicks traded him to the Pistons in 1955-56.

Imhoff, 23, will be starting his third year as a pro. He averaged 4.7 points per game in the 1960-61 season and raised the output to 5.9 on 452 tallies last year. Imhoff hauled in 470 rebounds last season compared to 296 his first year.

Soviet Junior Net Champ Wins

Metrevelli Scores In National Singles

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (UPI)—A handful of American fans had a historic first glimpse of Russian style tennis Wednesday when 18-year-old Alexander Metrevelli, junior champ of the Soviet Union, scrambled to a four-set victory in a qualifying test for the national men's singles championship.

Intermittent showers washed out most of the opening day's schedule and drove most of the crowd from the huge center stadium skies cleared long enough late in the day for Metrevelli, a happy-go-lucky dark-haired youngster playing in battered sneakers, to hammer out a 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2 triumph over 17-year-old Bronson Van Wyck of Montclair, N. J., the east's fifth-ranking junior.

David Asz, Israel's third-ranking player, downed 18-year-old Ed Turville of St. Petersburg, Fla., son of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's president, in the only other match completed. Scores were 6-4, 3-6, 8-6, 1-6, 6-4.

A total of 18 matches was scheduled Wednesday for the first group of 74 lesser-known players who had to win one match each to qualify for the tournament proper which opens Friday. Those unfinished Wednesday and 19 others will be played Thursday.

ENGLEWOOD, N.J. (AP) — A 14-year-old football player for St. Cecilia High School collapsed and died of a heart attack Monday after a practice session at the Carmelite Seminary in Hamilton, Mass., it was disclosed Wednesday.

St. Cecilia Coach Ralph Cavalucci said the boy, Edward Lucas, collapsed in the locker room after complaining of tightness in his legs. At Hamilton, Medical Examiner Dr. William C. Wigglesworth said death was due to a cardiac malfunction from secondary heart prostration.

Cavalucci said Lucas, a 5-foot-10, 165-pound sophomore guard, collapsed shortly after the Monday afternoon drill. A morning session also had been held.

The New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, of which St. Cecilia is a member, prohibits a team from starting football practice before Sept. 1.

Instances of early practice or "skull" sessions in the past have resulted in a number of schools being placed on probation. However, a spokesman said he could recall no occasion on which an entire team went out of the state to practice.

St. Cecilia is operated by the Carmelite Order. The school won the Tri-County Catholic Conference championship last year with an 8-1 record.

Lucas' death was the third reported this month in high school football practice.

James T. Pfeiffenberger, 14, of Xenia, Ohio, died of a brain hemorrhage suffered during practice with the John Carroll High School squad Aug. 21. A day later, Andy Yurkowich, 15, of Gillespie (Ill.) High School died after a morning workout.

Shufflers To Practice

The Loyal Order of Moose team in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League will practice today at the Moose home at 8 p. m. All players are requested to be present.

'OUT OF THE BAND

NEW YORK (UPI) — All-pro tackle Roosevelt Brown says he began playing football in high school because "my coach thought I was too big to be playing trombone in the school band."

Pistons Trade Shue To New York For Center Darrall Imhoff

DETROIT (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons Wednesday traded veteran guard Gene Shue to the New York Knicks for 6-foot-10 center Darrall Imhoff and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Shue, who will be 31 on Dec. 18, is Detroit's all-time leading scorer with 7,974 points in 440 games for an 18.1 average.

He has been named to the West All-Star squad of the National Basketball Association five times and was an All-Pro first team selection in 1959-60.

It will mark Shue's second tour of duty with the Knicks. He played for them in 1954-55 after being traded by Philadelphia. The Knicks traded him to the Pistons in 1955-56.

Imhoff, 23, will be starting his third year as a pro. He averaged 4.7 points per game in the 1960-61 season and raised the output to 5.9 on 452 tallies last year. Imhoff hauled in 470 rebounds last season compared to 296 his first year.

County GOP Starts Plans For Campaign

Financial Unit Holds Meeting

The Republican Party of Allegany County has made preliminary plans to launch its campaign for the November election.

Approximately 40 business, civic and labor leaders who are members of the Republican Party Finance Committee of Allegany County met Tuesday evening at the Cumberland Country Club to formulate plans.

Another meeting for the remaining 40 members of the committee will be held Tuesday, September 4, at Ali Ghan Shrine Club.

George B. Newman, president of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, is serving as general chairman of the finance committee and presided at the meeting.

Also present were Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the executive committee, and Woodward D. Pealer, treasurer of the finance committee.

Raymond B. O'Rourke, who will serve as advertising chairman for the campaign, reported on his recent trip to Europe and said he found conditions throughout Europe most alarming.

U. S. Prestige Low

He said the prestige of the United States has never been lower and Europeans in general believe the United States is marching backwards for lack of effective leadership. He said confidence has been lost in our currency because of "reckless and irresponsible spending" by the present administration.

Mr. O'Rourke accepted the advertising chairmanship and expressed a belief that never has the time been more critical for each member of the community to return to state and national offices Republicans whose philosophy of government, he said, is based on sound business principles and the preservation of the dignity of the individual and the free enterprise system.

Mr. Ort told the group that if the American enterprise system disappears the main reason will be that American businessmen let it happen. He said voting is not enough and that businessmen must assert themselves, speak up and work toward putting the country in the hands of Republicans who will recognize and adhere to policies of fiscal responsibility.

Getty Confident

James S. Getty, campaign chairman for the Republican Party for Allegany County, expressed confidence that November will see the return of an overwhelming number of Republican candidates to office on the local, state and national levels.

Others attending were Mrs. Holmes Cessna, president of the Women's Republican Club of Cumberland; Miss Katherine Close, president of the Frostburg Women's Republican Club; Kenneth K. Lowe, assistant campaign chairman; Amel Muir, president of the Lonaconing Republican Club; Gerald Barb, J. Wallace Close, L. Fred Dean, Mrs. Leah D. Hafer, Victor Hebb, Edgar M. Lewis and Melvin Sloan, all members of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County, and William R. Carscaden, a member of the executive committee.

Miss Cresaptown Selected

Mary Ann Hardy, second from right, last night was selected as queen to reign over the annual Cresaptown Community Council Fun Festival which is being held all this week. Others, left to right, are Leanne Sindy, second runner-up; Miss Charlene Seaders, Miss Cumberland of 1962, who crowned the queen; Queen Mary Ann, and Karen Phillips, first runner-up. Several hundred persons attended last night's program.

Local Artillery Will Take Part In Antietam Battles

The Old German Artillery, local Union unit, sponsored by the Queen City Brewery, will take part in the Antietam Centennial battle re-enactment September 14, 15 and 16. The unit will be the only Union artillery from Maryland to participate.

The local unit, along with the 5th New York Light Artillery; Loomis' Battery, Michigan Light Artillery; 22d Pennsylvania Cavalry and the 100th New York Volunteers, will portray Robertson's Battery with seven cannon.

A total of 31 cannon will represent the Union artillery of Tompkins, Owens, Robertson and Graham batteries.

These units will re-enact the action when the Union Army broke the confederate resistance on a sunken farm road later to be known as Bloody Lane. The Confederate artillery will be represented by 28 cannon.

Lt. Fritz Haselberger, commander of Old Germany Artillery, will be detached from the unit to portray Col. Dwight Morris, commanding the 2d Brigade of French's Division. Reactivated units serving in his command of 470 men will be Cumberland Continentals, 2d Maryland Infantry of Hagerstown, 1st Connecticut Volunteers, 1st Ohio Sharpshooters, 4th Michigan Infantry, 5th Michigan Infantry, 6th U. S. Battalion, 8th Michigan Dismounted Calvary, 19th Ohio Volunteers, 49th New York Infantry and the Washington (Pa.) Blue Rifles.

A full dress rehearsal will be held Friday, September 14 at 11 a. m.

Two new members, Richard Clapper, formerly with the Continentals, and Gilbert Lancaster, Rawlings Heights, plan to participate in the re-enactments along with Lt. Haselberger, Sgt. Tim Doolan, Cpl. Robert Baker, Gunners Steve Adams, John Jackle, Charles Heier, Frank Pyles and Richie Sharpless.

'Blast' Believed Caused By Sound Barrier Breaking

Yesterday's mysterious "explosion" in the Cumberland area apparently was caused by a high-flying jet aircraft which broke the sound barrier.

The "explosion" occurred about 11 a. m. and shattered a number of windows in South Cumberland and a large display window at the George Street Cleaners.

Residents throughout the Cumberland area reported hearing and feeling the shock wave. All of the industries and construction firms were checked, but none reported any explosion.

A Bedford Road man who is home on leave from the Air Force said he saw a plane at a high altitude at the time of the explosion and also noticed a puff of smoke. He reported he had witnessed several jets breaking the sound barrier and yesterday's incident was similar to those.

Buses To Run To White Oaks

Effective today, Cumberland Transit Lines will run buses to the new White Oaks Shopping Center.

The bus company said the Mapleside run has been extended to White Oaks via Oldtown Road, White Oaks Avenue through the shopping center, then back to Oldtown Road and Massachusetts Avenue to the regular Mapleside route.

Buses will leave Baltimore Street at 6:30 and 7:30 a. m., and on each hour and half-hour after that until 2:30 p. m. Later runs will leave Baltimore Street at 3:30, 4:30, 5:15, 5:50, 6:45, 7:45, 8:45, 9:45 and 10:45 p. m., arriving at the shopping center 15 minutes later in each case.

To Sponsor Supper

The Wiley Ford Volunteer Fire Company will sponsor a steak supper Saturday from 5 to 7 p. m. in the fire hall.

Mary A. Hardy Named Queen At Cresaptown

Mary Ann Hardy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sedrick Hardy, Cresaptown, last night was crowned queen of the Cresaptown Community Council Fun Festival.

Karen Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Phillips, Rawlings, was selected as first runner-up, and Leanne Sindy, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Sindy, Cresaptown, was picked as second runner-up.

The new queen was crowned by Miss Charlene Seeders, Cumberland's 1962 entrant in the Miss Maryland contest which was held earlier this summer.

John Yoder served as master of ceremonies for a variety show which was a feature of last night's program.

The queen contest was sponsored by the Cresaptown PTA. Other contestants included Marianne Wilson, Linda Martz, Jacqueline Boor, Nancy Winters, Paula Cuff, Gloria Kemphfer and Linda Clayton.

This evening the festival will hold a twist contest and dancing for teen-agers. Tomorrow, the festival will feature a parade sponsored by the Cresaptown Fire Company.

Small Repeats Objections To Tawes Program

Says Slot Machines Are Local Matter

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Republican gubernatorial candidate reiterated Wednesday his opposition to the highway program followed by Gov. Tawes.

Frank Small Jr., visiting Annapolis with the GOP state - wide candidates also said Maryland needed more vocational schools and should make the climate favorable for attracting business.

Small said he agreed with Tawes on one issue—that slot machines are a local matter.

The other candidates who attended the press luncheon were Edward T. Miller, candidate for U.S. Senate; Newton I. Steers, candidate for Congressman-at-large, and Joe Baker Jr., candidate for Congress from the 5th District.

Small said the governor says his highway program is one of the outstanding features of his administration.

"Terrible" Program

"It may be . . . but it's terrible I hate to imagine what the rest of his programs are like," he said.

Small repeated statements he made earlier that Maryland was 47th of all states in participating in the federal interstate highway program and had spent only 32 per cent of the federal money which it could have spent.

As an example of what he meant by a terrible program, Small cited the building of a bridge in Federalsburg, with the approval of the State Roads Commission. "After the bridge was completed, they found out they can't use it because there are no steel girders in it."

Small also said the present administration had approved and appropriated $1.5 million for a bridge to Assateague Island "and there is nothing to build a bridge to."

Vocational Schools

Asked about educational facilities, Small said, "the state does not have adequate vocational schools.

"We put a machine in the basement and call that a vocational school," he said. "We have to get society to change its thinking. We have to make carpentry and plumbing as attractive as being a doctor."

Turning to slot machines, Small said his policy is the same as the one followed by Gov. Tawes.

"If the counties want to get rid of them, they should elect those state candidates who will follow their wishes. If a bill to get rid of slots came across my desk, I would sign it immediately if that is what the counties want," he said.

Most Money From Fair Distributed

The last of some $11,611.25 in premium money to prize winners at the 45th annual Cumberland Fair last week will be mailed out from the Cumberland Fair Association's office on Pershing Street by September 10, according to Robert Price, who directs the Fair office.

Most of the premium money was distributed last Saturday morning to the many successful exhibitors at Fairgo.

For those who did not appear at the Fairgrounds to claim their cash awards, checks have been written and soon will be mailed.

The total in premium money was nearly $500 higher than the $11,185 distributed in 1961. Only once since 1957 has the total of premium money failed to go up over the previous year.

In 1957, the premiums totaled $10,500. In 1958 they added up to $10,600. Then came the only drop, to $10,200 in 1959. In 1960 the total was back up to $10,700. Then the figure was $11,185 last year and now $11,611.25.

Most of the articles exhibited last week at Fairgo have been reclaimed by their owners. Clothing and art still unclaimed is in the Fair office, where Herman Miller has been on duty each day returning some to the owners.

Unclaimed canned goods was turned over to charitable institutions. Those which could not be used were dumped.

Campers Make Overnight Stop At Ft. Riley, Kans.

Cumberland's campers spent last night at Fort Riley, Kansas, more than halfway home from an eventful trip to the World's Fair in Seattle. They expect to be home this weekend.

Girls in the group stayed at the WAC center at the big Army post, and the boys stayed in barracks. All of them had dinner with soldiers at a Fort Riley mess hall yesterday.

Las weekend provided some excitement for the youngsters when they ran into earthquake tremors in Crescent City, Calif. The quake was sharp enough to rock the group's two midget buses, open cracks in the concrete apron of a gas station, and to tumble food from the shelves of a supermarket across the street.

Albie Feldstein, volunteer press correspondent for the group, reported on the friendly reception the campers got in Parma, Idaho, where Sheriff Larry Enfield got them into the local swimming pool free, told them all about Parma, a town of 2,500, then drove around later while the campers were bedding down for the night at the city park to see if they needed anything.

Albie reported that high dives were made by Larry Baldwin, Gloria Windish, Richard Waingold, David Fram and Scott Miller, of Seattle, who joined the eastbound campers when they left the Fair.

Also present were Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the executive committee, and Woodward D. Pealer, treasurer of the finance committee.

Raymond B. O'Rourke, who will serve as advertising chairman for the campaign, reported on his recent trip to Europe and said he found conditions throughout Europe most alarming.

U. S. Prestige Low

He said the prestige of the United States has never been lower and Europeans in general believe the United States is marching backwards for lack of effective leadership. He said confidence has been lost in our currency because of "reckless and irresponsible spending" by the present administration.

Mr. O'Rourke accepted the advertising chairmanship and expressed a belief that never has the time been more critical for each member of the community to return to state and national offices Republicans whose philosophy of government, he said, is based on sound business principles and the preservation of the dignity of the individual and the free enterprise system.

Mr. Ort told the group that if the American enterprise system disappears the main reason will be that American businessmen let it happen. He said voting is not enough and that businessmen must assert themselves, speak up and work toward putting the country in the hands of Republicans who will recognize and adhere to policies of fiscal responsibility.

Getty Confident

James S. Getty, campaign chairman for the Republican Party for Allegany County, expressed confidence that November will see the return of an overwhelming number of Republican candidates to office on the local, state and national levels.

Lowe, assistant campaign chairman; Amel Muir, president of the Lonaconing Republican Club; Gerald Barb, J. Wallace Close, L. Fred Dean, Mrs. Leah D. Hafer, Victor Hebb, Edgar M. Lewis and Melvin Sloan, all members of the Republican State Central Committee of Allegany County, and William R. Carscaden, a member of the executive committee.

Most Money From Fair Distributed

The last of some $11,611.25 in premium money to prize winners at the 45th annual Cumberland Fair last week will be mailed out from the Cumberland Fair Association's office on Pershing Street by September 10, according to Robert Price, who directs the Fair office.

Most of the premium money was distributed last Saturday morning to the many successful exhibitors at Fairgo.

For those who did not appear at the Fairgrounds to claim their cash awards, checks have been written and soon will be mailed.

The total in premium money was nearly $500 higher than the $11,185 distributed in 1961. Only once since 1957 has the total of premium money failed to go up over the previous year.

In 1957, the premiums totaled $10,500. In 1958 they added up to $10,600. Then came the only drop, to $10,200 in 1959. In 1960 the total was back up to $10,700. Then the figure was $11,185 last year and now $11,611.25.

Most of the articles exhibited last week at Fairgo have been reclaimed by their owners. Clothing and art still unclaimed is in the Fair office, where Herman Miller has been on duty each day returning some to the owners.

Unclaimed canned goods was turned over to charitable institutions. Those which could not be used were dumped.

Judge Denies Inmate's Plea

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey has filed an opinion in Allegany County Circuit Court denying the request of an inmate of the Patuxent Institution for reconsideration of his application for a writ of habeas corpes.

In his notification to the prisoner, William McDonough, Judge Cobey informed him that the prisoner did not assert any new matters not already considered. Earlier, Judge Cobey had denied his petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

McDonough first was tried by the Trial Magistrate in Essex, Baltimore County, and subsequently was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction on August 5, 1960, on an assault and battery conviction. He was transferred to the Patuxent Institution for treatment and examinations determined that he was a defective delinquent.

The prisoner appealed to Baltimore County Circuit Court, where a jury affirmed the finding that McDonough was a defective delinquent.

William D. Carroll To Serve 2 Years

A 41-year-old South Cumberland man yesterday was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction on a non-support charge.

The man, William D. "Peachy" Carroll, 221 Arch Street, was found guilty of non-support of his wife and three minor children at a hearing in Juvenile Court before Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin.

The magistrate noted that Carroll and his wife have been separated since 1956 and since that time he has not contributed to the support of his family.

Magistrate Fatkin also said that during this period the Allegany County Welfare Department has spent $15,073.99 to support Carroll's family.

Carroll was arrested earlier this week in Trenton, N. J., and returned here by Deputy Sheriff George Harris.

In another case heard yesterday in Juvenile Court, two young local boys were placed on probation without verdict in connection with the theft of $37 from a South End home earlier this month.

The boys, ages 10 and 11, admitted taking the money from the home of Charles Sims, 948 Gay Street, on August 16.

The court noted it was the first offense for each boy.

Campers Make Overnight Stop At Ft. Riley, Kans.

Cumberland's campers spent last night at Fort Riley, Kansas, more than halfway home from an eventful trip to the World's Fair in Seattle. They expect to be home this weekend.

Girls in the group stayed at the WAC center at the big Army post, and the boys stayed in barracks. All of them had dinner with soldiers at a Fort Riley mess hall yesterday.

Las weekend provided some excitement for the youngsters when they ran into earthquake tremors in Crescent City, Calif. The quake was sharp enough to rock the group's two midget buses, open cracks in the concrete apron of a gas station, and to tumble food from the shelves of a supermarket across the street.

Albie Feldstein, volunteer press correspondent for the group, reported on the friendly reception the campers got in Parma, Idaho, where Sheriff Larry Enfield got them into the local swimming pool free, told them all about Parma, a town of 2,500, then drove around later while the campers were bedding down for the night at the city park to see if they needed anything.

Albie reported that high dives were made by Larry Baldwin, Gloria Windish, Richard Waingold, David Fram and Scott Miller of Seattle, who joined the eastbound campers when they left the Fair.
